12 OFFICERS PERISHED

TWO OTHER SHIPS STRUCK

Minnehaha Was in Convoyed Group Which U-Boat Attacked Despite the Escort.

News was received here yesterday from England that the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha, which had made twenty-six voyages between New York and London carrying 16,000 tons of munitions and supplies on each trip, was sunk by a submarine last Friday a short distance off the coast of Ireland and fifty of her officers and crew were lost.

The Minnehaha left here five weeks ago, delivered her cargo safely in London and was on her way to this port with a small quantity of general cargo in her hold and a race horse valued at $30,000, when she was destroyed. The horse was Maiden Ehrlergh, owned by Solly Joel, and sold at the recent Newmarket sales.

The Minnehaha was commanded by Captain Frank Claret, who is a commander in the naval reserve. She was one of a group of six steamships, escorted by destroyers through the danger zone. On all her previous voyages the Minnehaha run the gauntlet of the U-boats alone, except when a patrol boat picked her up in the English Channel.

Apparently the commander of the U-boat judged the distance of the escort from the other vessels, and then took the risk of appearing in the midst of the merchantmen. He was successful in firing three torpedoes, which struck two other steamships besides the Minnehaha.

The Minnehaha was struck in the engine room on the starboard side, the explosion killing several of the engine room force and men in the stokehole, as well as seamen on deck.

She had a crew of 140 men all told. Of the fifty who were lost, some were drowned in getting away in the boats. Among the victims were twelve officers and engineers, including, it is said, First Officer Peirce, Purser C. A. Wills, who was known to hundreds of American travelers, and the ship's doctor. Captain Claret was among those who were saved and landed in Ireland.

Nothing is known of the two steamships which were said to have been sunk at the same time as the Minnehaha.

The Minnehaha was a twin-screw steamship of 13,714 gross tonnage and was built at Belfast by Harland & Wolff in 1900 for the New York-London trade. She had accommodations for 120 first-class passengers and could carry 16,000 tons of measurement freight. The ship was 600 feet, 7 inches long, 65 feet, 5 inches beam, and 39 feet, 5 inches depth of hold.

The Atlantic Transport line will not have a single vessel coming to New York hereafter until the war is over. The Minneapolis was sunk off Malta in 1915, the Minnewaska off Crete in 1916, and the only one of the four London passenger liners left is the Minnetonka, which is kept in the Mediterranean for safety.

The Minnehaha was set on fire by bombs mysteriously placed in her hold in July, 1915, and had to put into Halifax to get the flames under control. German plotters were suspected.

GLOOMY ON U-BOAT OUTLOOK.

British Naval Reserve Officers Urge Attacks on Bases.

Officers of the British Naval Reserve who arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port said that the submarine situation was very serious and that it was of no use to try to minimize the losses in shipping by keeping them from the public. The patrol boats and destroyers, they said, were doing their best to protect the vessels belonging to the Allies as they reached the danger zone, but were not able to conquer the U-boats because there were too many of them and the ocean was too large.

At the present the activity of the submarines in the Bay of Biscay is so great that British transports and supply ships remain in the Mediterranean, not passing through the Strait of Gibraltar. All their business with England is transacted overland through France from one of the southern ports on the Mediterranean.

One officer was on a steamship that passed through the Bay of Biscay three weeks ago and sighted thirteen periscopes of submarines between Gibraltar and Ushant. Two torpedoes were fired at the vessel by different U-boats and three others rose to the surface and circled her. The steamship was struck four times above the water line and was saved from destruction through her speed of seventeen knots and continual zig-zagging.

The opinion of the naval reserve officers was that the only way to check the submarine menace was to attack the naval bases at Zeebrugge and Kiel, even if some warships had to be sacrificed in the attempt.

A senior officer said in speaking of the movements of the U-boats around the British Isles:

"The German officers are well supplied with information concerning our patrol boats and destroyers, as well as the merchant fleet. They go ashore daily on the coast of Donegal in the little nooks and inlets, take photographs, and picnic on the beach. Most of them talk English and converse freely with the people of the district who go down and watch them.

"As an illustration of their knowledge, the keeper of a small hotel in Donegal told me that some German officers were playing bowls on the lawn near his house and did not appear to have a care in the world. Suddenly there was a whistle from the submarine which was waiting just off shore, and a sailor standing by the conning tower gave a message to the commander by semaphoring with his arms. Turning to the hotel keeper and the people who stood near him, the commander said:

"'I am afraid we cannot finish this game of bowls just now, as one of your patrol boats will be along here in half

British Shipping Losses Touch Lowest Mark Since Feb. 1

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A marked decrease in the destruction of British merchant vessels by mines or submarines is indicated in the weekly Admiralty statement issued this evening. Twelve vessels of more than 1,600 tons and six of less than 1,600 tons were sent to the bottom. Four fishing vessels were lost.

The statement records arrivals of 2,744 and sailings of 2,868 vessels. The British merchant vessels attacked unsuccessfully, including three previously, were twelve.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The weekly statement of the Ministry of Marine shows one French vessel of more than 1,600 tons and five vessels under 1,600 tons sunk by mines or submarines.

The British Admiralty statement shows the smallest number of large British vessels sunk by mines or submarines since Germany began her intensified submarine campaign last February. The previous low record was for the week of March 11, when thirteen vessels of over 1,600 tons were lost.

SENATE DECREES DRAFT OF ALIENS

Resolution That Would Call 1,275,000 Non-Citizens to Colors Now Goes to House.

AFFECTS 87,000 TEUTONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Without a roll call, the Senate today adopted Senator Chamberlain's resolution for the drafting of all friendly aliens in the country for military service under the American flag. Under the resolution the President is authorized to enlist for non-combatant war work all nationals of Germany or its allies living here.

The conscription of friendly aliens is to be subject to the approval of the diplomatic representatives of their own nations in this country. In the Senate debate it was developed that the representatives of some of these countries were eager to have their nationals enlisted in their own or in the American Army.

As calculated by Senator Chamberlain, the drafting of friendly aliens would call approximately 1,275,000 men to the American colors. Beside these, there are 81,000 enemy aliens in the United States, who, under the resolution, could be put to work related to the war, but not as soldiers.

The alien draft would conscript all foreigners who had been in the United States a year. Those who claim exemption through treaty would be allowed ninety days to leave the country.

The Chamberlain resolution now goes to the House, which, it is expected, will quickly approve it, and the resolution probably will be in the hands of the President by the end of the week. The State Department is awaiting the passage of the Alien Draft bill before beginning negotiations with the Allied Governments for drafting their nationals in the United States for military service.

For about six weeks, it was stated at the Russian Embassy today, an agreement entered into by Russia with the British and French Governments has operated to make available for service on the western front Russian citizens of military age in the British Isles and France. It is believed that Russia would negotiate a like arrangement with the United States.

No difficulty would be in the way of concluding similar agreements with Great Britain and France. These countries, however, would themselves take over their drafted nationals in America. The Russians drafted here would become members of the American army, or be assigned to Russian contingents fighting on the French front.

The subject is said to have been discussed with the Italian Mission when it was in Washington, but such an agreement the Government at Rome would have to waive treaty rights. The same is true of Serbia. Japan also is protected from the drafting of her subjects by treaty.

Lodge Criticises Administration.

In the Senate today Mr. Lodge, ranking Republican member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, expressed impatience over the failure of the Administration to act on the McCumber resolution, passed some weeks ago, by which the President was asked to immediately take up with diplomatic representatives of friendly powers the drafting of their nationals living here.

"I have had letters," he said, "from men, both native-born and naturalized, but all alike American citizens, saying 'We have been drafted; we go, and we go readily, but the men who are living in this country, who are protected by its laws, who are furnished with education by its schools, are going to step in and take our places in the factory or anywhere else, and they boast they are going to do it.'

"That makes a bitter feeling, and I think, a just bitter feeling. I know that some of our allies are anxious to have us apply the selective draft to their citizens or subjects here. It can be done by diplomatic arrangement. It has not been done. The attempt in the joint resolution, paying every regard to treaty stipulations and international law, is to try to bring the question directly to the Governments with whom we are engaged in fighting Germany."

Senator Stone, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, opposed the resolution on the ground that it might establish a "dangerous precedent." He feared, he said, interference with existing treaties, and he felt that the United States some time might find itself embarrassed by having its own nationals in foreign countries drafted for similar service.

"I can see no reason why citizens of this country who live abroad for years,

AMERICA SOLVES MOTOR PROBLEM FOR WAR IN AIR

KEPT SECRET UNTIL TESTED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—What is regarded by American experts as the greatest military airplane motor ever built in this hemisphere has been invented in a war emergency collaboration of American inventors, engineers, military officers, and officials of the Government.

For some weeks it had been reported that the Government had procured designs for a remarkable military airplane motor, but it was not until this afternoon, when Newton Baker, Secretary of War, authorized a carefully prepared announcement, that it was officially admitted that such a motor had not only been designed, but had been actually built and successfully tested.

The Secretary's announcement shows that the invention of this motor was not only a remarkable scientific achievement, accomplished under circumstances of the most dramatic character, but asserts that the new engine is the equal of the best which the European war has produced in power, speed, serviceability, and minimum weight. Secretary Baker regards the invention as one of the greatest things the United States has done since it entered the war. It brings together in a single engine of war the best features of all types, adds to these important new features, and results in a standardized type of motor which can be produced rapidly and in quantity in a new and expanding industrial field in this country.

The expert opinion of those identified with the invention of this motor is that it will solve America's problem of building high-class, powerful and yet comparatively delicate aviation engines in great quantities by American machine methods. It is the conviction of those connected with the development of this new Government motor that it will revolutionize the airplane industry of this country in the same way that the adoption of standardized methods have revolutionized the automobile industry in the United States.

Secretary Baker's statement was issued after careful preparation of the material submitted to him by the Signal Corps and the Aviation Production Board.

Secretary Baker's Statement.

Secretary Baker's statement follows:

"The 'United States aviation engine' has passed its final tests. They were successful and gratifying. The new motor, designated by the Signal Service as the 'Liberty Motor,' is now the main reliance of the United States in the rapid production in large numbers of high-powered battleplanes for service in the war. In power, speed, serviceability and minimum weight the new engine invites comparison with the best that the European war has produced.

"I regard the invention and rapid development of this engine as one of the really big accomplishments of the United States since its entry into the war. The engine was brought about through the co-operation of more than a score of engineers, who pooled their skill and trade secrets in the war emergency, working with the encouragement of the Aircraft Production Board, the War Department, and the Bureau of Standards. The story of the production of this engine is a remarkable one. Probably the war has produced no greater single achievement.

"One of the first problems which confronted the War Department and the Aircraft Production Board after the declaration of hostilities was to produce quickly a dependable aviation motor. Two courses were open. One was to encourage manufacturers to develop their own types; the other to bring the best of all types together and develop a standard.

Noted Experts Called In.

"Two of the best engineers in the country, who had never before seen each other, were brought together at Washington, and the problem of producing an all-American engine at the earliest possible moment was presented to them. Their first conference, on June 8, lasted from afternoon until 2:30 o'clock in the morning.

"These two engineers were figuratively locked in a room in a Washington hotel and charged with the development of an airplane motor for use by American aviators over the battlefields of Europe. For five days neither man left the suite of rooms engaged for them. Consulting engineers and draftsmen from various sections of the country were brought to Washington to assist them. The work in the drafting room proceeded continuously day and night. Each of the two engineers in immediate charge of motor development alternately worked a twenty-four-hour shift.

"An inspiring feature of this work was the aid rendered by consulting engineers and motor manufacturers who gave up their trade secrets under the emergency of war needs. Realizing that the new design would be a Government design and no firm or individual would reap selfish benefit because of its making, the motor manufacturers nevertheless practically revealed their trade secrets and made available trade processes of great commercial value. These industries have also contributed the services of approximately 200 of their best draftsmen.

"The two engineers, locked together in a hotel room in this city, promised the Government, if given an opportunity, they would design a satisfactory engine before a working model could be brought from Europe.

"A remarkable American engine was actually produced three weeks before any model could have been brought from Europe. It was promised that this engine would be developed before the Fourth of July. Twenty-eight days

Austrian Empress Tells Kaiser of Situation as Winter Nears

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—A dispatch from Innsbruck says that the Austrian Empress has written a long personal memorandum to the German Emperor, dealing with the coming fourth Winter of the campaign.

The Empress exposes many facts which have been hidden so far by Vienna statesmen and diplomats, and the memorandum is reported to be a striking document.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ZURICH, Sept. 12.—The Medical Journal of Vienna states that there was a record epidemic of dysentery in the capital during July, there being 320 cases, against four in the same month last year.

The epidemic, it says, is due to the consumption of food unfit for human beings.

SENATE PUTS CURB ON GERMAN PRESS

Must Print War Comments Also in English Under Amendment to Trading Act.

BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE

Import Embargo Authorized Ban on German Insurance Extended to All Foreigners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—After two days of debate, the Senate today passed, viva voce, the Trading with the Enemy bill, carrying drastic regulations of any commercial intercourse in this country in which subjects of Germany may be financially concerned. The measure already has passed the House.

Just before the final vote, an amendment was tacked to the bill aimed at the suppression of seditious utterances by German-language newspapers printed in this country. Under this amendment, offered by Senator King of Utah, all German-language newspapers would be obliged to publish an English translation, in a parallel column, of any comment upon the Government of the United States, its Allies, or its war policy. Failure to do this would subject the offender to forfeiture of the use of the mails. The amendment reads:

That during the pendency of the present state of war, and until peace shall be concluded and the fact declared by proclamation of the President, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or association to print or publish or cause to be printed or published in the German language any comments respecting the Government of the United States, or of any nation with which Germany is at war, its policies, international relations, the state or conduct of the war, or of any matter relating thereto, without printing or publishing in a column parallel to such matter a true and complete translation of the same in the English language.

Any print or publication in the German language which does not conform to the provisions of this section shall not be admitted to the mails, and it shall be unlawful for any person to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute the same. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for a period of not more than one year, or may in the discretion of the court be both fined and imprisoned.

"Vile Seditionist Journal."

In advocating his amendment, Senator King referred to what he called flagrant abuse by many German language journals throughout the country of the privilege of free speech, some of them, he said, going so far as to utter "the blackest treason."

"The time for legislation against these treasonable journals has come," he insisted. "The American people are amazed at the existence of these vipers in their midst. These newspapers preach disloyalty to this country; they are doing what they can to make the war unpopular; they are trying to stir up revolt and sedition in the United States and to lead astray people who otherwise would be loyal.

"It must be said that most of the newspapers of our land, indeed, the vast majority, are loyal. They have done what they could to aid the Government in its task of conducting the war. While they have done that, these vile seditionist journals printed in German have done what they could to misrepresent the attitude of our country in the war. They have tried in every way to hamper the winning of the war by the United States.

"I have talked with the Department of Justice about this matter, and I am informed that there is no adequate law to deal with these newspapers. The Postmaster General wants us to pass

Korniloff's Army Now Only 34 Miles From Petrograd

PETROGRAD, Sept. 12.—Gatchina, thirty miles south-southwest of Petrograd, has been occupied by the forces of General Korniloff after it had been evacuated by Government troops, General Savinkoff, commander of the troops defending Petrograd, told The Associated Press today.

Another Korniloff force is thirty-four miles south of Petrograd in the direction of Tsarskoe-Selo. General Krimoff, commander of the Korniloof troops, is at Luga, ninety miles southwest of Petrograd.

No fighting has occurred so far.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 13. — According to the Reuter Petrograd correspondent, an understanding has been reached for the co-operation of Kerensky as provisional Commander in Chief of the Russian Army and General Alexieff, Chief of General Staff.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 12.—Premier Kerensky today issued the following statement:

"On this date, in accordance with the decision of the Provisional Government, I am charged with the office of Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the country. The senseless effort at military mutiny by the late Commander in Chief and a small group of Generals has ended in complete failure. The guilty mutineers will be delivered to the revolutionary military tribunal.

"The bloodless liquidation of the mutiny shows the wisdom of the Russian people and its army and navy in the persons of the Generals, Admirals, officers, soldiers, and sailors, who in the face of a stern enemy remained loyal in their duty to the Fatherland and their legal Government.

"Having assumed chief command of all the armed forces of Russia, I declare my complete faith in all ranks of the army and the fleet, in the Generals, Admirals, officers, soldiers, and sailors who have borne upon their shoulders the heavy trial of the past days.

"The half-years experiment of free existence could not fail to convince every one that all the extreme irrational demands not instantly carried out, wheresoever such demands may have come from, duly cause disturbance to the country. Let every one remember, whatever he may be, General or soldier in the ranks, that the slightest disobedience to authority will henceforth be punished.

"It is time to cease playing with the country's fate. Let all Russians who strive to save the revolution and to achieve freedom and a renewal of the common order of the Government to understand and become imbued with the conviction that in this moment all our ideas and strength should be directed first of all toward the defense of the Fatherland from the external enemy who is aiming to subjugate it."

Doris Savinkoff, Assistant Minister of War and Minister of Marine, in an interview with The Associated Press today, said:

"For the reassurance of America you may say that General Kornitloff's revolt is not in the least affecting our operations against the foreign enemy. The armies at the front are solid with the Provisional Government."

While the armies at the front remain solid for the Government, it is declared by other members of the Cabinet, there is dissension among the forces of the revolt, and Cossack troops who formed part of the army moved against Petrograd have sent delegations expressing loyalty to the revolution, and stating they will arrest their officers who have deceived them. One report has it that

German Papers Minimize Luxburg Revelations and Style It in Headlines "American Dispatch Theft"

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, (via London.)—Most German newspapers content themselves with reprinting a semi-official statement of the Norddeutsche Allgemeine-Zeitung concerning the Swedish-German-American incident, which in headlines they characterize as "The Latest American Dispatch Theft." This statement and the Swedish Government's explanation, with foreign newspaper comment, are on the second pages, the first pages being occupied by the Russian crisis.

The opinion prevailing among German politicians is that President Wilson seeks a reason for a breach of relations with the Swedish Government.

Argentina's diplomatic representative has refused to make any statement, not having had any official news from his country.

The Vossische-Zeitung expresses confidence that Wilson's intention to provoke another dispute between Argentina and Germany will fail, as will his attempt to shake Sweden's strict neutrality. Sweden has clearly proved, it says, that in the transmission of the German cipher telegrams no international law was violated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 12.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a long Amsterdam message mainly attacking the American Government for underhanded methods in the Swedish affair but not giving the details of Secretary Lansing's revelations. The correspondent says:

"Three specimens of this correspondence published by Reuter contain confidential communications regarding public feeling in the Argentine, a report of the position of negotiations regarding the sinking of Argentine ships, and advice for their future treatment."

No other details are given. The correspondent continues:

"The Washington State Department, which, as is well known, has some experience in such ferreting, has deciphered and published this correspondence which deals with matters properly belonging to the sphere of the German Minister.

"Nobody can find cause of complaint in their treatment, which in confidential dispatches is naturally somewhat different from what it would be in public statements. Nevertheless, the correspondence has been made public and is likely to occasion annoyance among the Argentine population, which is, of course, the object of the Anglo-American proceeding.

"Thus this publication proves to be a worthy companion piece to Wilson's exploitation of our Mexico message. It appears to be part of an American specialty which has a preference for dealing with stolen documents. If we were in a position to inspect the diplomatic correspondence of our enemies we should probably discover much weightier matters than those wherewith they now operate in the press which is at their service."

SWEDEN IS ASKED FOR EXPLANATION

STATEMENT NOT ADEQUATE

Pledge Given by Sweden to Britain Not Limited to Cables to the United States.

Give Up Stockholm Conference Because of Sweden's Offense

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—The Swiss Socialists have been informed that, owing to violation of neutrality by Sweden, the much-discussed conference at Stockholm has been definitely abandoned, even by the Germans, who are seeking to hold a similar conference in Switzerland.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The British Government has asked Sweden for an explanation of its extraordinary action in forwarding German cipher messages from the Argentine. The British Minister at Stockholm has called at the Swedish Foreign Office and expressed the amazement of the British Government at the statements made public by Secretary Lansing in Washington, especially in view of the assurances given England previously by Sweden when the question of transmission of German messages through America was under discussion in 1915.

The British Minister also said that his Government was surprised that Sweden had not yet made any explanation through regular diplomatic channels of such an important matter. No reply to these representations has been received here.

In this connection, it may be stated, the British Government is not likely to accept without challenge that part of the Swedish communiqué of Tuesday in which it was held that there was an understanding between the two Governments in 1915 concerning German messages sent through North America. It is understood that when the Swedish Minister called at the British Foreign Office the conversation covered all German messages and that no doubt could have been left in his mind that the British Government objected to the Swedish Foreign Office.

The State Department has revived memories of the mysterious trunk belonging to the Swedish Minister at Washington, brought over by Count von Bernstorff and detained here. Officials still decline to discuss how that incident ended, but it has been pointed out that it has special interest now as showing the intimacy of the relations of German and Swedish diplomatic officials at Washington.

Little doubt is expressed here that Sweden will see the necessity of acknowledging the error of her ways, particularly in view of the effect the revelations are likely to have in strengthening the Swedish Liberal and Socialist parties in elections. America, with her control of food supplies and

ARGENTINE ACTION PLEASES CAPITAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Argentine Government's action in dismissing Count von Luxburg, the German Minister at Buenos Aires, for his part in the conspiracy to send unneutral information to Berlin through the medium of the Swedish Legation in the Argentine capital, caused gratification in official circles here today. The expectation in these circles is that Argentina will follow this step by severing diplomatic relations with the German Government.

The State Department has not heard from Stockholm. Officials declined to comment officially on the statement from the Swedish Foreign Office in regard to Sweden's action in forwarding communications from the United States to Turkey. The statement attempted to draw a parallel between the action of the Swedish Minister at Buenos Aires and the course of the United States in communicating with Constantinople through Sweden.

Unofficially, members of this Government said that when Sweden transmitted messages to Turkey for the United States Government it was a case of one neutral acting for another neutral. But in the matter of dispatches from Argentina it was a case of a neutral acting for a belligerent.

Messages Sent for Bernstorff.

The United States, it was said, transmitted communications to the German Foreign Office for Ambassador von Bernstorff, but these messages related to a controversy between Germany and the United States alone, and for convenience the State Department, desiring that the discussions take place here instead of Berlin, it was expedient to transmit the Ambassador's correspondence to accelerate the negotiations.

Disclosure was made today that some of the allied Governments had been aware for a considerable time of the misuse of diplomatic privileges and immunities by certain neutral diplomatic representatives in the interest of Germany. The Allies, it was said, had permitted the practices to go on in order to discover their full extent and seriousness. It is believed that the exposure of Sweden will serve as a warning to such neutrals as may be inclined to favor the Central Powers.

Another benefit expected to be derived by the Allies is a general improvement in the Scandinavian situation and the lessening of Sweden's political influence over her neutral neighbors. Sweden from the very beginning of the war has been a thorn in the side of the Allies

WHOLE BLOCKS DESTROYED

DEMANDS MADE ON BERLIN

Break in Relations Foreseen if Germany Withholds the Proper Amends.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 12.—Following the dismissal of the German Minister and a demand on Berlin for an explanation of his action in sending unneutral code dispatches to Berlin through the Swedish Legation here, immense crowds joined in an anti-German demonstration this afternoon. The German Legation and German newspaper buildings were stoned. There was serious rioting, and mounted police charged the mobs in the fashionable Avenida Florida.

The downtown part of the city was the scene of the wildest disorders, in which thousands of Argentineans took part. Many of those in the mobs carried firebrands, and as a result scores of buildings were set on fire. Several blocks of German business houses in Calle 25 de Mayo were destroyed.

Among the structures attacked were the German Club, one of the finest edifices in the city, and the building of a German daily, La Union. As fast as the fires in these building were extinguished, they were started again. Mounted patrols and the entire Fire Department kept rushing from one part of the city to another, in an attempt to quell the riots and put down the flames.

In several instances police who were attempting to shoot at those wielding torches, were set upon by the crowds and disarmed.

German Envoy Due Today.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken by the authorities to protect Count Luxburg, the German Minister, when he arrives here tomorrow morning to receive his passports.

The Argentina Government at noon sent to the German Legation passports to be delivered to Count Luxburg, the German Minister. The whereabouts of Count Luxburg was still unknown to the Argentine Government.

The Argentine Foreign Office also sent a communication to the German Foreign Ministry, demanding an explanation of Count Luxburg's action in sending the secret code messages to Berlin through the Swedish Legation.

Mr. Minister:

You having ceased to be persona grata to the Argentine Government that Government has decided to deliver to you your passports, which I transmit herewith by order of his Excellency, the President of the nation.

The introducer of embassies has instructions to assist you in your immediate departure from the territory of the republic. God keep your.

H. PUEYRREDON.

The passport issued to Count Luxburg reads:

Considering that his Excellency, Count Karl Luxburg, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the German Empire, is leaving the Argentine Republic, the authorities of the Republic are hereby requested to protect him in his passage to the frontier.

PUEYRREDON,

Demand That Germany Explain.

The Argentine Minister at Berlin has been instructed to inform the German Foreign Office that his passports have been handed to Count Luxburg, and to ask for explanations regarding the telegram disclosures. If the German Government disapproves of the text of the German Minister's despatches and especially of the word "ass," which term the Count applied to the Argentine Foreign Minister, the situation may clear. If Berlin does not disavow the Minister's course Argentina will recall her Minister from Germany but may permit the legation to remain.

If Germany expresses a desire to maintain relations with Argentina notwithstanding the expulsion of Count Luxburg, it was said at the Foreign Office, this government would be willing to consider the question.

Argentina also has asked the German Government for a full explanation of its present policy of sinking Argentine the case of the steamship Toro, but in the case of the steamship Toro but in view of Count Luxburg's notes, which antedated that settlement, Argentina desires a clear statement.

A rupture, the officials say, is not

Another Boy Writes Home of U-Boat Attack Says Four Submarines Were Destroyed

Another letter written home by an American boy, serving at the front, telling of an attack on our transports by German submarines, has reached THE TIMES. In a letter published yesterday morning an American boy told how a fleet of transports from this country was attacked by twelve German submarines. The writer said that four of the U-boats were sunk in the encounter and forty-seven German sailors were drowned. On the day after the battle with the transports American destroyers went out from a French port and, according to the letter, succeeded in sinking five more submarines.

The letter which reached THE TIMES last night was from an American boy who was on the same fleet of transports as the former writer. He also tells of an attack on the fleet by a squadron of U-boats, asserting, as the other did, that four were sunk. Likewise his narrative asserts that two airplanes took part in the battle, a detail noted by his comrade. His letter follows:

On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Forces.

At Camp, Aug. 28, 1917.

My Dear Mother—I received your letter yesterday and I was the happiest fellow in camp. We are in a very large camp here. I think there are about —— here, but I don't think we will be here long. I won't tell you where I am, because I am not allowed to.

We got into this town on the 21st and we probably have had the biggest submarine attack that any transports have had in this war, so far. We were attacked by about six submarines just about five miles from land the morning we came in. It lasted about 1 hour and 30 minutes and, believe me, it was a hummer.

The transports and destroyers fired about fifty shots and the official report (or so we heard) was that four submarines were sunk. And I saw the wake of a torpedo shoot right across in front of the ——. Our boat fired about seven shots, but I don't think they hit.

We all had life preservers on and we were near our boats, but thank God, we all came through safely.

Two French airplanes came out when they heard the firing and they helped, believe me. They dropped two bombs and I think one of them hit.

Both letters came to the parents of the boys here in the city.

necessary if Germany is inclined to make concessions, but if she does not do so it is certain there will be a break in diplomatic relations.

Popular Outbreaks Feared.

The Government has issued orders to the police and the Provincial Governments to protect Count Luxburg and his staff en route, as outbreaks of the indignant populace are feared.

The Foreign Office expresses its belief that Count Luxburg will reach here tomorrow morning.

The decision to hand Count Luxburg his passports was reached by President Irigoyen after a conference with the Foreign Secretary this morning, the President taking the step without consulting the Cabinet, which had been called to meet this evening and receive Ambassador Naon's dispatches from Washington. The President maintained that the matter was grave enough and pressing enough to warrant his immediate decision without reference to the Cabinet.

It is believed to be unlikely that any action will be taken toward Sweden, yesterday's explanation by the Swedish Legation, made before a demand for it had been sent to the Legation, apparently satisfying the Government that Baron Lowen acted in good faith in forwarding the telegrams, the contents of which were unknown to him.

During the three days that elapsed while the Government was satisfying itself as to the accuracy of the exposures made in Washington the public, despite the gravity of the accusations, kept itself in hand and responded to the appeals of the Government officials and the newspapers by refraining from any anti-German demonstrations, which on more than one previous occasion in the controversy with Germany had been of so serious a nature as to amount almost to riots.

The feeling of the Argentine public in the present instance was manifested today, however, when all afternoon immense crowds in front of the newspaper bulletin boards cheered the news that Count Luxburg would have to leave the Republic.

LINDMAN CONSULTS MORRIS.

American Minister Spends an Hour at Swedish Foreign Office.

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday, Sept. 11.—Ira Nelson Morris, the American Minister to Sweden, visited the Foreign Office here this afternoon at the request of Foreign Minister Lindman, and the two Ministers conversed for an hour regarding the transmission of German cipher telegrams by the Swedish Minister at Buenos Aires.

The Socialist leader, Hjalmar Branting, called today on Mr. Morris, with whom he had a long discussion of the Argentine affair.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday, Sept. 11, (via London, Sept. 12.)—Public opinion here generally is amazed at the stupid confidence that the Swedish Foreign Office placed in German diplomacy in its dealings with neutrals. The whole case is made quite clear, and even the most determined opponents of the Government agree with Branting's verdict that the affair was a blunder made in good faith, but that it is humiliating to Sweden that the Foreign Office, which should be, and no doubt is intended to be, strictly neutral, should be found lending its services in such a compromising fashion.

It is too early, perhaps, to predict the immediate consequences of the incident upon the internal situation here. That it will have considerable consequences is inevitable, but it is a question of their degree. National confidence in Conservative rule will be shattered further than the elections already have shown it to be. Even before this affair reactionary influence in Sweden was considerably on the decline.

Meanwhile, the whole affair is the subject of the liveliest discussion throughout the Swedish press and nation. Sunday next the Social Democratic Party in Stockholm will hold a huge demonstration both for peace and the maintenance of impartial neutrality. Eight of the Social Democratic candidates for election to the House of Commons will speak and a resolution in favor of neutrality and against secret diplomacy will be passed.

In a fresh article today Hjalmar Branting criticises the attitude of conservative papers toward the affair. In his conclusion, he says:

"Our Swedish people, which has stood outside the whole business, must not be made a victim of the blunder of its guardians, whom it has not elected, but, on the contrary, is just now in elections actually disavowing."

In nineteen districts, where the results of the election are known, the Conservatives have lost ten seats out of twenty-eight. In the same districts the Conservatives lost about a third of their votes at the last election in 1914.

The great Liberal paper, Dagens Nyheter, sharply criticises the demonstrated incapacity of the Swedish Foreign Office. It is a mockery, it says, that the Foreign Office has allowed itself to be deceived.

an hour or so. Leave the jack where it is, and we will come back later today or tomorrow and play it through."

The naval authorities on the Irish coast disguised a fast sailing three-masted schooner as a Norwegian lumber carrier, armed her with guns fore and aft, and sent her out to cruise in the North Sea. She managed to sink five U-boats in a month. Then the Germans got a description of the disguised vessel and waited for her. The sixth submarine that came along blew the schooner to pieces, and not one of her crew of sixty officers and men was ever heard of again. A few planks bearing certain marks that enabled the authorities to identify the vessel were washed up on the coast of Donegal about a month ago.

On the same steamship were three officers and ten other survivors of the crew of the Lamport & Holt steamship Verdi, which was sunk by a German submarine 180 miles west of Torey island Aug. 22 while on her way to an English port with 2,000 tons of beef. J. M. Lindsay, the Chief Officer, said that the periscope of the submarine showed first on the port side. The submarine submerged directly afterward and came up again on the starboard side, when she fired a torpedo which struck the Verdi near the engine room, killing six of the engineers and firemen who were on watch below.

The force of the explosion was so great, Mr. Lindsay said, that one of the naval gunners was blown off the after gun into the sea and the stack of ammunition on deck was also hurled overboard. A steward standing near the after bridge was thrown with terrific force to the deck below and had his back broken.

"The Verdi was built so strongly," said the Chief Officer, "that the Germans had to fire fifteen seventy-five-pound shells into her hull and finally dropped a mine under her stern and exploded it. Even then the steamship remained up more than an hour.

"There were eighteen men in my boat, and ours was the only one to reach the shore, which we did after being buffeted by wind and sea for fifty-six hours. Captain Burns and the officers in the other lifeboats were rescued by patrol boats on the evening of the day we left the Verdi."

DOUBT ALL NEUTRALS, NORWEGIANS FEAR

Deplore Reflection on the Scandinavian Agreement for United Action in War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 12.—Norway is especially interested in the Swedish diplomatic revelations because they are not unlikely to affect the policy of co-operation in common neutrality that has been followed throughout the war by the three Scandinavian countries, for a breach of neutrality by one, even though unwitting, may affect the position of all. It is this reflection which adds acerbity to Norwegian criticisms of the Swedish Foreign Office and diplomacy.

The Intelligentsedler, the Government organ, believes that the Argentine affair will make Sweden's position materially worse and will contribute toward greater suspicion against all neutrals. The Swedish Minister to Argentina and the Swedish Foreign Office, it says, cannot exculpate themselves by their reference to the action of the American Minister at Stockholm in sending cable matter to Constantinople in the name of Sweden.

"The rules of diplomacy allow any country the opportunity of sending its own State telegrams in code," the paper says, "but nothing more. That the Swedish Minister and Foreign Office should have set aside this rule and transmitted code telegrams for other countries is in itself a grave mistake; but what is incomprehensible is that Sweden continued this service after the British protest in 1915. Swedish diplomacy is in no way excused from its responsibility, and even the mildest judgment must admit that its slackness in maintaining neutrality deserves severe criticism."

SENSATION IN BERLIN OVER RUSSIAN CRISIS

But Question of Separate Peace Is Now Held to be of No Importance.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Though it did not come as a surprise, as ever since the Muscovite Congress the German correspondents at Stockholm had prophesied it, the conflict between Kerensky and Korniloff is the sensation of the day in Germany. It is generally considered that this battle for power between Russia's two strongest men will decide whether the bourgeoisie or the proletariat will henceforth, or at least for some weeks or months, rule Russia, on the supposition that Kerensky's present order for the removal of Korniloff from his position as Generalissimo is not likely to take effect immediately, for reasons that Korniloff and his friends will see to.

In Germany just now the question of a separate peace with Russia is hardly ever discussed. It doesn't matter any longer whether Russia asks for a separate peace or not, is the argument of the man in the street. The question is, ought she to get it now since she vaingloriously spurned it until a catastrophe overtook her. This, of course, is only what the masses think, and there is no sign of what the German Government's attitude is. The newspapers have not made the slightest allusion to a separate peace with Russia lately, and none of them is speculating on it today in commenting on the Kerensky-Korniloff crisis. Not even may read between the lines that "nothing matters what happens in Russia; we are the masters, anyway."

The Tageblatt thinks Korniloff is using the great depression caused in Russia by Riga's fall to compel Kerensky and his Government to make room for him and his friends, the supposition being that Korniloff wants Kerensky to believe his backing is stronger than the latter's.

PLAN BIG CAMPAIGN TO HELP WIN WAR

Labor, Capital, Politics and Many Other Interests Represented at Washington Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A campaign to bring about co-operation of labor, capital, politics, and other interests involved in the war was planned today at a meeting here called by V. Everit Macy of New York, President of the National Civic Federation. One feature of the program will be an effort to counteract "early peace" propaganda which might be harmful to the Allies; another to stir the people of the country and get them united. The activities of pro-Germans will be watched.

Among the men at today's conference were Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Otto Kahn, banker; Charles S. Barrett, President of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America; James M. Beck, Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; William R. Wilcox, Chairman of the Republican National Committee; Colonel P. H. Callahan, Chairman of the Committee on War Activities of the Knights of Columbus, and Warren Stone, General Chairman of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

A tentative committee to conduct the work was appointed, including Cardinal Gibbons, John D. Crimmins, Ralph M. Easley, E. A. Filene of Boston, representing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Mr. Gompers, Timothy Healy, President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen; Mr. Kahn, Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis, A. Lawrence Lowell, President of the League to Enforce Peace; Mr. Macy, Mr. McCormick, Mr. Wilcox, Dr. John R. Mott, General Secretary of the International Y. M. C. A.; Frank Mason North, President of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ; John M. Parker, Progressive Party leader; George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, George Pope, President of the National Association of Manufacturers; Charles Edward Russell, Mr. Stone, Oscar S. Straus, Theodore N. Vail, Frank A. Vanderlip, William English Walling, Oliver Wilson, Grand Master of the National Grange, and many others.

KERENSKY TAKES OVER COMMAND

the retreat of Korniloff's forces has been cut off. General Korniloff himself is said to be still at Mohilev.

The newly formed "Temporary Military Committee," which sat all night, today received the following information:

"Fresh Korniloff troops, consisting of three sotnias of Cossacks and two batteries of artillery, have arrived at Luga, and have been dispatched to the village of Zarzerye, fifteen versts distant. Altogether fourteen echelons have arrived at Luga, and many more are on the way.

"The Provisional Government is in touch with Luga, and is taking measures to get into communication with the revolting troops.

"The Central Executive Committee of the Council of Deputies has sent orders to Kronstadt and Viborg to dispatch to Petrograd a considerable part of the local forces, all of which are true to the Government. Some of these troops already have arrived.

"General Batoff, Commander of the Dvinsk military district, has assured the Government of his support.

"General Feodoroff, President of the Military League, has been arrested.

"The Council of Deputies at Vitebsk telegraphs that the garrison there, as well as the garrisons at Linsk, Smolensk, Orsha, and Polotsk stand firm for the Government."

New General Directs Operations.

Premier Kerensky has assumed the position of Commander in Chief of all the Russian armies. Major Gen. Bonch-Bruevitch, who formerly was attached to the staff of General Brusiloff, is actually in charge of the military operations following the refusal of General Klembovsky to accept the post of Commander in Chief on the ground that the position on the northern front required his special attention. His attitude is still enigmatical. Asked for an explanation of why he allowed General Korniloff's army to pass through Pskov, he replied that these troops were not subordinate to him. The Government has told him that he must either define his attitude or resign.

The Government has issued a decree handing over to the courts of justice as rebels General Korniloff, former Commander in Chief of the Russian armies; General Denikine, commanding the armies on the southwestern front; General Lokomsky, Chief of the General Staff; General Markoff, the Chief of the Headquarters Staff on the southwestern front, and L. Kisliakoff, Assistant to Minister of Roads and Communications.

Vice Premier and Minister of Finance Nekrasoff informed The Associated Press that General Sprjevalski, Commander on the Caucasus front, and Lieut. Gen. Dmitri Stoherbatcheff, Commander on the Rumanian front, had definitely declared their allegiance to the Government. From General Staedtyeff, the Commander on the Western front, no news had been received, but from his attitude there was reason to believe that he remained true to the Government.

The Government was taking steps to inform the troops which had been influenced by Korniloff as to the real state of affairs. It had been established that General Lokomski, former Chief of Staff, beyond doubt had played an important part in the movement, which had been prepared with a great deal of care.

As to the constitution of the Government, M. Nekrasoff asserted that all the Ministers would remain in office except M. Youreneff, Minister of Public Works, and M. Tchernoff, Minister of Agriculture, who decided to resign for political reasons. All the Ministers, said M. Nekrasoff, had assured Premier Kerensky that if the necessity arose they would give him full authority to form a directory, which would act entirely with him.

The Constitutional Democrats, M. Nickrasoff said, had no part in the plot, and no members of that party had been at General Korniloff's headquarters.

The Central Committee of the Constitutional Democratic Party today informed Premier Kerensky that the party was agreed to its members joining a reconstituted Cabinet in order to avoid civil war.

Alexander Guchkoff, the Octoberist leader and former Minister of War and Navy, who after leaving Petrograd last Saturday joined the Korniloff movement, has been arrested. He is under guard at Pskov, which is now in possession of Government troops.

The Provisional Military Committee of the Workmen's and Soldiers' group, in a proclamation to all the committees of the armies at the front and the navy, declares that all regiments in the capital and outskirts support the Government. It announces that the committee has decided to organize departments for supplying the needs of the army and for creating a bond between the regimental and district committees, a department for creating a union with the army organizations, a department for the defense of Petrograd and police purposes, as well as secretarial departments. All will start work forthwith. The proclamation continues:

"The Forty-second Army Corps and the entire garrison of Viborg have placed themselves at the disposal of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and the Government. Similar news has been received from Gatchina, (thirty miles southwest of Petrograd) and Kronstadt, while Government to make room for him and his friends, the supposition being that Korniloff wants Kerensky to believe his backing is stronger than the latter's.

"The Tsar-Kolo-Sselo, Tver, Poltava, Odessa, Kiev, Tzaritzin and the Caucasus declare that the army and workmen's and soldiers' group are wholly loyal and taking all measures to mobilize the military and civil forces to crush the adherents of Korniloff, who were deceived into the belief that Petrograd was in the hands of the Maximalists and that the Provisional Government had been deposed."

The Bolshiviki committee is arming workmen, who will either be sent to reinforce the army units or will be organized in special "striking battalions." Bolshivikis, who have been in jail for complicity in the revolt of July 16 have published a demand for their liberation in order to fight the present revolt, giving the pledge that they will present themselves for trial when the revolt is crushed. The Minister of Justice has consented to release all those against whom no formal indictment has been preferred.

Women's Battalion Loyal.

The women's battalion declares it is its duty to take active part in the domestic struggle and to support the Government. A staff correspondent of The Associated Press visited the headquarters of the battalion and made inquiries of Mlle. Michaeliloff, who this morning returned from Camp Levashoff, north of Petrograd.

"Yesterday," said the women's leader, "I was received by the Chief of Staff, who declared that the battalion was one of the most perfectly disciplined and trained units around Petrograd, and indicated that we may at any time receive orders to help defend Petrograd. At the camp yesterday cartridges were dealt out to 1,100 women by the Government, which took extraordinary precautions to control the distribution.

"With regard to the sentiment, most undoubtedly strong sympathies are with Korniloff, but the battalion considers itself at the disposition of the War Ministry, and present indications are that it will obey the Government's orders. The sympathy for General Korniloff is dictated by the universal feeling that Russia needs a strong, bold man, and the women fighters will be attracted by any personality of either side who shows such a character.

"The battalion last week had its first experience in fighting, owing to continual night raids on the camps by hooligans and robbers, in which a woman soldier and several hooligans were wounded."

Reports that General Korniloff had actually opened hostilities have not been confirmed. So long as he refrains there is a strong feeling in governmental circles in favor of avoiding bloodshed. It is probable that the Government will postpone attacking the rebels until all hope of their secession from General Korniloff is lost.

The measures for the defense of the capital are complete. Regarding the provisioning of the city in case of its investment, M. Peschehonoff, the Minister of Supplies, declares there is no danger. Troops upon whom the Government can rely continue to arrive, while the small minority of Korniloff sympathizers in Petrograd appear thoroughly cowed.

Perfect order is being maintained. Street meetings have been forbidden. Additional newspapers have been suppressed. The Reich appears today with four blank columns. Arrests continued during the night, the latest, according to the morning newspapers, being Colonel Clerzhke, Director of Military Censorship.

Favorable conditions are reported from Moscow, where a state of war also has been declared, and where a notable effect was produced through the issuance of a proclamation in favor of the Government by Mayor Rudnedd, whose address of welcome to General Korniloff on his arrival for the recent Moscow conference was at the time regarded as a demonstration of the Moscow industrial leaders' counter-revolutionary sentiments. General Verkhovsky called all the officers of the garrison together in the public square and received assurance that they would support Premier Kerensky. The St. George Cavaliers made a special offer of their services and there appears to be unity among the workmen's groups.

M. Bolozoff, representative of the Ukrainian Central Committee in the War Ministry, has issued a warning to Ukrainians against the movement of General Korniloff saying that all who do not remain steadfast to the Provisional Government will be considered traitors. The warning follows:

"Acting by command of the Secretariat of the Ukrainian Central Parliament I make the following announcement for the information of all military Ukrainians:

"A counter-revolutionary conspiracy, with General Korniloff at its head, threatens all the victories of the revolution in Ukraine, no less than in Russia. A victory by Korniloff would bring the Russian democracy into subjection and Ukraine into a new enslavement.

"All military Ukrainians should use every effort to support the Provisional Government in its struggle with the counter-revolutionaries. Any Ukranian who does not rise in defense of the revolution at this critical moment will be considered a traitor to the revolution and to all Ukraine."

Proclamation by Korniloff.

The Government, under the martial law regulations, has prohibited the circulation of General Korniloff's manifesto or the publication of unofficial news concerning military measures taken against the revolt. This measure followed the publication in Petrograd of two of the General's proclamations.

The first, dated at Mohilev, denounces Premier Kerensky's description of Vladimir Lvoff's mission as untrue and declares that Korniloff did not send Lvoff to Kerensky, but that Kerensky first sent Lvoff to him with the aim to create trouble.

"Russian men," continues the proclamation, "our great fatherland is perishing. The Government under pressure of the Bolsheviki majority of the councils is acting in full accord with the plans of the German General Staff. Overwhelming consciousness of the impending ruin of the fatherland compels me in this menacing moment to summon all Russian men to save perishing Russia. All in whose breasts beat Russian hearts, all who believe in God, let them flock to the temple and pray God to perform a great miracle—a miracle of saving the fatherland.

"I, General Korniloff, son of a peasant and Cossack, declare to all that I require nothing personally, nothing except the salvation of mighty Russia and I swear to lead the nation by the road of victory over the foe to a constituent assembly, through which the nation will decide its own fate and choose the organization of its own political life. But I shall never betray Russia into the hands of its traditional foe—the German race, or make the Russian people the slaves of Germany. I prefer to die on the field of honor and battle rather than to witness the shame and infamy of Russian land.

"Russian people! In your own hands rests the fate of your country.

(Signed) "KORNILOFF."

In the second proclamation, General Korniloff declares that he is supported by all of the higher commanders on the front, denounces the Government for incapable government, weakness and indecision, and declares that in order to veil its unfitness the Government is creating the chimera of a non-existent counter-revolution.

WASHINGTON FEELING FAVORS KERENSKY

Overthrow of His Government Would Be Regretted for Several Reasons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The opinion was expressed at the Russian Embassy today that within a week a decision might be reached as between General Korniloff and Premier Kerensky. With this decision is expected to come a clarification of the political situation. As to the outcome of the revolt, the Embassy refused to make any prediction.

It was explained that no official advices had been received, and that conflicting press reports from Russia were too vague to justify any statement whatever.

The State Department also is without dispatches, not having heard from Ambassador David R. Francis at Petrograd since the development of the new crisis on Saturday. Although the Government is maintaining a silent attitude at this time, there is every reason for believing that the sympathies of the Washington authorities lie with the Provisional Government, which, despite numerous obstacles and rather vital differences of opinion regarding the best means toward the accomplishment of new Russia's ends, has been endeavoring, under the leadership of Kerensky, to give the people a stable Government and lead them to victory over the German forces.

The overthrow of the Kerensky Government would be sincerely regretted in Washington for several reasons. The conviction is strong here that his supporters are more favorable to the establishment and development in Russia of a republican form of government than would be the elements that are counted upon as upholding Korniloff if the latter should gain supreme power.

There is also a well-defined feeling that if Kerensky is able to emerge from the present civil strife successfully he will be more powerful than ever, and have it within his means to effect reforms, both civil and martial, such as are thought to be requisite for the more permanent establishment of the popular cause in Russia as well as for the rehabilitation of the Russian Army for more vigorous prosecution of the war against Germany.

Just where Korniloff stands with respect to the future of Russia if entrusted with the reins of power has not been clearly indicated. There is a reasonable certainty that, like Kerensky, he is strongly opposed to any separate peace and wishes Russia to remain in the war until the last German soldier has been driven from Russian soil. But the fear of admirers of the Kerensky plan is that Korniloff seeks to accomplish this end through the creation of military autocracy.

GREAT MISERY IN WARSAW.

People Die of Hunger in Streets, Report to Washington Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Pitiable conditions in Russian Poland as a result of the German military occupation are described in a report on the situation at Warsaw in June made by a Polish lady of education, which has just reached Washington through diplomatic channels.

"Cultured people," says the report, in part, "who in former days gave to charity are now begging themselves. Mothers whose daughters are in professions, as dentists, &c., are begging in order to support households.

"Families, even those respectable, evicted for inability to pay rent, are seen slumbering during the day on the sidewalks. A great percentage of Warsaw population is poverty stricken. Seventy-five per cent. of them cannot buy sufficient food, and only 25 per cent. can afford it. Doors of theatres, restaurants, hotels, and other public places are besieged by begging people. Private residences are also invested by those seeking food. Small children squat cross-legged, Oriental fashion, at doors of theatres looking piteously at those passing in or out. The mortality among the children is great "Many sidks are crowded with suffering, miserable people, and are almost impassable, for the shocking sights of extreme poverty and degradation. The last stage of starvation is accompanied by the swelling of the body and then death follows. Such deaths, with all their ugliness, occur in the streets and a passer-by ceases to feel shocked by them, saying to himself, 'Today it is he, and some other day it may be myself.' An Oriental fatalism pervades the masses. 'You may meet an acquaintance,' one of the informants said, 'with a distant, unworldly look in his eyes. You will speak to him; he will stop, look at you absent-mindedly, will wave his hand hopelessly and will move on without replying.'

"Men fit for military service are not allowed to leave Poland. As to the Polish legions, the good element among Polish people condemned those joining them. Only some aristocracy and those self-seeking before the Germans joined."

TOOK 8,900 RUSSIANS.

Berlin Says Germans Also Captured 325 Guns on Riga Front.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, (via London.)—Russian prisoners captured by the Germans in the battle of Riga numbered 8,900, according to the official announcement issued today by the German General Staff. The Germans also took 325 cannon. The statement follows:

Eastern front—Army of Prince Leopold: At several points between the Baltic and the Dvina advance guards have repulsed Russian reconnoitring detachments after engagements.

It has been established that the number of prisoners taken in the battle of Riga is 8,900 and that the booty amounts to 325 cannon, one-third of which are heavy pieces; several fully loaded narrow gauge trains, large quantities of pioneering materials, railway materials, and alimentary supplies, and numerous armored cars and other troop conveyances.

From Archduke Joseph: Between the Pruth and the Moldau there has been frequent lively artillery activity and also reconnoitring engagements. The Russians did not continue their attacks at Solka, Southwest of Tirgui and Ocna the enemy advanced five times against our lines, but each time was repulsed with heavy losses.

SWEDEN IS ASKED FOR EXPLANATION

shipping, has the whip hand over all neutrals, and it is impossible to believe that the Swedish Ministry can refuse explanations and apologies in view of Sweden's economic position.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The statement from the Swedish Foreign Office that the Swedish undertaking to cease sending German messages applied only to North America caused great surprise here, where the facts have been well known for a long time among diplomats and others.

When the British Government took up the matter with Sweden in 1915 assurances were given by the Swedish Foreign Office to the British Minister at Stockholm and by the Swedish Minister in London, it is declared, that the use of Swedish diplomatic facilities for the transmission of German messages should cease. There were no limitations nor reservations of any sort, it is stated.

The statement of the Swedish Foreign Office concerning the transmission of German telegrams from Argentina is regarded by the morning newspapers as extremely feeble. They say that it will not satisfy the belligerents and neutrals whom Sweden has injured.

The Times says that the Stockholm Foreign Office "dares not utter a comprehensive denial. It pleads that these particular messages were unknown to it, but admits that Sweden continued to act as intermediary between Germany and Argentina. It has the effrontery to quote as precedents in justification of this course the transmission of inquiries from Germany about the civil population of Kiao-Chau and from the United States about American citizens in Turkey. But, by its own confession, it knew the contents of these inquiries and knew that they were harmless.

Dispatches in Code.

"What parallels were there between forwarding open communications of this kind and forwarding dispatches 'written in secret language,' which it alleges 'was incomprehensible to the forwarding party'? Was it so innocent of the work in which the submarines are engaged as to have no suspicions that secret messages between a great South American shipping centre and Berlin might have something to do with 'unrestricted frightfulness'? If so, its occupants must be astonishingly ignorant of their German neighbors."

The Daily Chronicle asserts that the statement "shows a decidedly imperfect sense of the unneutrality and extreme gravity of the proceedings. The treachery of which the Swedish Foreign Office is guilty is quite indefensible. There are three ways in which it may be rectified at Stockholm. Either the Foreign Minister may disown and punish his subordinates, the Government may disown the Foreign Minister, or the country may disown the Government. Failing any of these, the Allies may be driven to take steps in their own defense."

The Morning Post says that the admission of the Swedish Foreign Office relates to Germany alone "concerning whose guilt there is no question. The points at issue between Sweden and the Allies are not answered.

"It does not appear that the Swedish Government quite appreciates the gravity of the issues involved. Moreover, there is the further question as to whether other Swedish representatives in other capitals also transmit through Stockholm to Berlin. Germany, as we know, has been receiving much information through sources undiscoverable up to now. After what has been discovered it is impossible to suspect that it should not have a particular direction."

The Daily News says:

"A man may have a perfect right to post a friend's letter for him, but when he finds himself made inadvertently an accessory to murder in the exercise, it is natural to expect a little more indignation at the abuse of his confidence and a little less insistence on his technical innocence than the Swedish note shows."

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet expresses the belief that the United States intended to induce a rupture between Argentina and Germany or between Sweden and Germany, or to find a pretext to treat Sweden as a masked enemy power. In the latter case, the Aftonbladet is quoted as saying, the moment was judiciously chosen, as Sweden was actually negotiating with the United States, where efforts were being made artificially to create difficulties in order to obtain greater concessions.

Norway's Supplies Plentiful.

"In Norway there is no restriction in consumption of sugar, and there is a stock in the country to last for a year. Here in Sweden housewives are wondering how they are to manage with their two kilos for the whole preserve-making.

"In Norway there is no lack of potatoes. Export of potatoes to Sweden, which is without them, has been considered, but it has been decided to dry them for future home consumption instead.

"Imported American pork is sold by the town of Christiania at a rate of 2 kronor 80 ore per kilo.

"Baron Palmstierna concludes by asking whether the Swedish people should not throw off the system and the political party which has brought the country to this pass."

An appeal by Baron Palmstierna to the Swedish people to throw off the system and the political party which has brought the country to its present economic condition was received in a diplomatic dispatch reaching Washington today. Baron Palmstierna is affiliated with the Branting movement to overthrow the present Government in Sweden. The dispatch follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that on his return from Christiania Baron Erik Palmstierna has published an article in the Stockholm Social Demokraten in which he compares the conditions as regards food in Norway and in Sweden very much to the disadvantage of the latter.

"He attributes the unfavorable position of this country to the policy pursued by the last Government. There is, he says, no lack of cereals in Norway, which has enough grain to last at the ordinary rate of consumption until the new year, and further cargoes constantly arrive. Meanwhile the Swedes are uneasy lest their stock should not last until the next harvest and are forced to deprive their beasts of their fodder in order to consume it themselves.

"In Norway the import of oil-cakes, maize, &c., is approximately normal, and the stock of cattle has increased, with the consequence that there is a sufficiency of milk. Stockholm, meanwhile, is threatened with the application of the rationing system to milk, and the stock of cattle is reduced. Sweden exported animals when she should have kept them for her own use.

"In Norway the manufacture of margarine is now normal after some reduction in the Spring. When did we in Sweden last see margarine? But for the Danish butter the lack of fats felt so keenly some time ago would have been a constant factor.

ALLIES MUST WIN, SAYS LORD READING

HERE ON FINANCIAL ERRAND

Lord Chief Justice of England Goes at Once to the National Capital.

Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, who before he was made a peer, was well known as Rufus Isaacs, special pleader in the courts for a quarter of a century, arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port on a financial mission for the British Government, and left at once for Washington. He was accompanied by Viscountess Reading, Colonel E. D. Swinton, Assistant Secretary to the War Cabinet, and J. M. Keynes of the Treasury Office.

In an interview on the pier, Lord Reading said:

"As I approached the shores of America the contrast of my last visit with the present forced itself upon me. Two years ago, when I was here upon a mission to negotiate an Anglo-French loan, America was neutral. She was then striving to uphold, according to public law, the rights of neutrals and non-combatants and to protect women and children from outrage and slaughter. The efforts of your government were then directed to the safeguarding of American and neutral interests and the furthering of the cause of justice and humanity by reason and by moral force.

"On this occasion I come on a mission from the British War Cabinet, and America is at war. America, a nation built upon the basis of liberty and distinguished by its great love of peace, has been forced by Germany to fight for freedom and humanity and for the peace of the world.

"Your President has left no doubt that you are not waging this war for military conquest or territory or to impose your will on weaker nations; but, in his own words, 'to make the world safe for democracy.'

Allies Heartened by Our Aid.

"I need not enlarge to you upon the encouragement we and our allies derive from the entry of America into the war. Great as is the material assistance you are contributing to the cause, it was not of greater value than the moral stimulus to those who for more than three long years had been engaged in continuous conflict and have made daily and hourly sacrifices of blood and treasure surpassing the wildest notions of pre-war prophets.

"Many missions come to this country to discuss and arrange with you important details of co-operation and the war; but the result of these missions, however successful, cannot have as far-reaching an effect on the world's history as the determination of the free people to end a military tyranny which is a perpetual menace to the security and liberty of the world.

"Whatever these sacrifices, we have never faltered in our determination to achieve our object; and, depend upon it, we shall not falter, assisted and encouraged by your genius and resources, and by your unconquerable spirit the Allies must win.

"The struggle is stern and costly, but the cause is great and worthy. It is the vindication of right and the protection of the weak. Victory, delayed perhaps, but ultimately certain, will bring the triumph of the people's will over autocratic will and will dig the graves of unscrupulous schemes of world aggression and of military tyranny. Then and then only will there be lasting peace."

HOOVER TO CONTROL PACKING INDUSTRY

Large Interests Decide to Put the Trade Under a Licensing System.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—As another step in an effort to bring down prices for the consumer, Herbert C. Hoover, Food Administrator, announced today that the entire meat-packing industry would be placed under a licensing system as soon as the details of the scheme could be worked out. In this way it is hoped that the market will be supplied, speculation brought to an end, and hoarding made impossible.

A committee representing all of the big meat-packing interests was called into conference and agreed to aid the food administration. By instituting a licensing system the food administration will have at all times access to the books. This will give control over any packers who may see fit to fight against regulations which later may be laid down.

The Food Administration is engaged in an investigation of the cost of production and distribution of milk, which, it is hoped, will work out to the benefit of the consumer. Full publicity will be given to the findings as soon as possible.

BOND BILL IS APPROVED.

Senate Committee Makes Only Slight Changes in House Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Senate Finance Committee approved today the $11,538,945,460 bond issue bill practically as passed last week by the House. Senator Stone, Acting Chairman of the committee, will offer the bill in the Senate tomorrow. Only a few changes, most of them as to phraseology, were made in the measure, these at the suggestion of Secretary McAdoo, who appeared again before the committee to urge action on the bill.

The measure, as it will be reported out, provides for an issue of $7,538,945,460 convertible 4 per cent. bonds, subject to surtaxes and war profits taxes. Of this aggregate $4,000,000,000 is for the new allied loan, $3,000,000,000 to take over a 3½ per cent. issue already authorized, and the remainder, $538,945,460, to be used to convert outstanding bonds, including Panama Canal, Danish West Indies, and Alaskan Railway issues.

Issuance is also authorized of not more than $2,000,000,000 each of certificates of indebtedness and war-saving certificates, to run for not more than one and five years respectively. These certificates are subject to the same taxes as the bonds.

The Finance Committee changed the allowances for floating the securities. The House expense allowance of one-seventh of 1 per cent. of the bonds and war-savings certificates was increased to one-fourth of 1 per cent., and the House allowance of one-tenth of 1 per cent. for the indebtedness certificates was cut in half.

Little opposition to the bill is expected in the Senate, and its passage is looked for by the end of the week.

EDITORS TO SURRENDER.

Philadelphia Tageblatt's Men Will Appear in Court Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Peter Schaefer, President of the Philadelphia Tageblatt Publishing Association, and Paul Vogel, Treasurer, two of the missing officials of the German language newspaper which was raided yesterday by Federal agents for alleged seditious articles, sent word to the Federal Building today that they were on their way to surrender.

Schaefer telegraphed from Cincinnati, where he attended a convention of the Brewery Workers' Union, that he would be on hand at the hearing scheduled for tomorrow morning. Vogel sent word that he also would be present.

The four other Tageblatt officials arrested and released under $10,000 bail each for tomorrow's hearing are: Herman Lemke, business manager; Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor; Louis Werner, editor in chief, and Waldemar Alfredo, editorial writer.

Frank L. Garbarino, chief agent of the Department of Justice denied today that there was any evidence to show that Senator La Follette communicated with the Tageblatt or that the newspaper received financial help from German agents in Mexico.

Interpreters were busy today with the mass of papers collected in the raid.

DECLARES AMERICA SAVED THE ENTENTE

Bonar Law Says Allies Would Be in Disastrous Straits but for Our Aid.

GERMAN BLUNDERS COSTLY

Greatest of All Was the Driving of the United States Into War, Chancellor Holds.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking today at a luncheon given by the Empire Parliamentary Association to Medill McCormick, Congressman at Large from Illinois, said:

"In everything connected with the military arm the Germans have shown remarkable results, even genius. But in dealing with questions of human nature they have repeatedly made mistakes which have been the salvation of the Entente Allies. No mistake they have made will be so great in its consequences as that which drove the United States into the war.

"The Germans lately," Mr. Bonar Law continued, "have been saying that the Entente was relying on the United States as its last hope. I want to say to you that we do rely on the United States.

"As Chancellor of the Exchequer I am ready to say to you now what I should have been sorry to have had to say six months ago, namely, that without the United States' financial assistance the Allies would have been in disastrous straits today. We have not yet seen the end.

"We have two special reasons for satisfaction at the coming in of the United States. First, it is the best possible proof that our cause is just and righteous, and, second, we know we now have on our side resources which are more than sufficient to achieve victory.

"The United States possesses the greatest wealth and resources of any nation in the world. Moreover, as a nation it has shown inventive genius and adaptability which it must inevitably apply successfully to the prosecution of the war.

"Perhaps I may be excused from speaking of the Russian situation except to say how much we sympathize with Russia in her time of anguish, and that we hope she yet may be able to render us assistance in the great cause.

"The American people, like us, are people of hard, practical sense, and realize that the war now has become largely a question of nerves, endurance, and staying power. Thank God we of England and America have those qualities and shall see this thing through to victory."

The luncheon was given in honor of Mr. McCormick as the first member of the American Congress to visit this country since the entrance of the United States into the war. It was held in the famous Harcourt Room of the House of Parliament, the guests being leading members of the Liberal and Unionist parties of both Houses, including Lords Curzon and Milner, Sir Edward Carson, Walter Hume Long, George Nicoll Barnes, Lord Robert Cecil, and Viscount Bryce, General Smuts, and the American Ambassador, Walter H. Page.

Premier Lloyd George was to have presided, and Mr. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was to have made the principal speech, but both Ministers were detained by business. Mr. Bonar Law took the Premier's place, and Lord Robert Cecil spoke for Mr. Balfour.

"We are not at all about the differences between our people and yours," Lord Robert said, "but I think we exaggerate the differences. In the history of our entrance into the war there are striking similarities between us. America has now passed through the first stage, which we also traversed, the stage of absolute incredulity that the Germans could be what they are, and now have entered the second stage, namely, the belief that the Germans are what they are and the determination to go through this war to the end.

"One of the greatest points of similarity between the two peoples is that both hate war with a profound and deep hatred. That very hatred is the measure of their determination to go on until the end is achieved. They hated war so much that they would not have gone in except with the entire determination that it was an absolute necessity to rid the world of this menace.

"So, to both the English and American peoples I want to say this: The only hope of a permanent peace such as we both desire is the satisfactory settlement of this war. If the foundation is well and truly laid we shall be able to build upon it a worthy superstructure."

Mr. McCormick, in replying, paid a tribute to the effort which the Empire had put forth in the war. He declared that the Americans had come back to help those who had laid the foundations of their liberty, and he assured the Parliamentarians that the United States "intends to go through with this until the German oligarchy is compelled to abandon war and bloodshed as a method of obtaining markets and commercial advantages."

SAILOR HELD AS SLAYER.

American Is said to Have Killed Irishman in Street Fight.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Accounts have been received here of the arrest of J. W. Parente, an American sailor, following a street fight in which he is said to have killed his antagonist at the British port which forms the base of the American squadron.

According to these accounts, Parente was walking about 10 o'clock at night with a girl when a young man, Fred Plummer, a native of the town employed as a dockyard laborer, met them. The girl knew Plummer and said:

"Good night, Fred; I am going to take a walk with this young man."

Plummer replied: "Oh, don't say that. It is too late now. It is time to go home."

Some conversation then took place between the two men and ended in the American striking the Irishman on the jaw, with the result that Plummer died in a hospital the following morning. Parente is under arrest on board his ship, having been handed over to the American picket by the police, who chased him after the fight.

At the American Embassy it was stated today that the Ambassador had no official cognizance of this incident.

IGNORANT OF WAR MOVES.

Captured German Officer Didn't Know Americans Were in France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Concealment of essential facts about the war from Germans was illustrated by a German officer recently captured on the western front. He was quite ignorant that America was in the war.

When certain American soldiers chatted with German prisoners in their cage the prisoners called them Australians or Canadians. "You can't be Americans," they said. "Our U-boats prevent Americans from coming."

SENATE DECREES DRAFT OF ALIENS

making their living abroad, ought not be called upon for service for the country they are in, if emergency arises," interposed Senator Chamberlain. "If Americans abroad do not want to fight under the flag of the country they are in, during time of stress, they ought to come home. If we are allied with a power, why not let our men fight under the flag of that country if they don't want to come home to fight?"

Senator Chamberlain explained that the State Department had expressed approval of his resolution, seeing no dangerous complications in its enforcement; it would violate no treaty obligation, for the diplomatic representatives of the Governments concerned had only to assert the exemption privilege for their nationals to prevent their being conscripted.

Hardwick Resolution Condemned.

Denouncing the introduction of such a proposition, the Senate Military Committee reported adversely Senator Hardwick's resolution, which would provide that the consent of every drafted man must be obtained before he is required to perform foreign service.

"The situation arising out of this spirit of opposition to the Selective Draft Act is serious," says the report, "and, taken in connection with the unrest amongst the civilian population growing out of the commercial and industrial conditions, stimulated in some cases, doubtless, by pro-German sympathizers and propagandists, places our country in a situation of extreme peril at a time when all should be united in a common cause.

"The psychological effect of calling in question an act, the principles of which, it seems to the committee, have been sustained by the courts of the country, is bad and the tendency of it all is to impair the military efficiency of the men who are already in the service and of those who may yet be called to serve in this time of need."

SENATE PUTS CURB ON GERMAN PRESS

this measure. He will be able to act swiftly against these traitorous newspapers if we give him this power."

Senator King's amendment was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Another amendment, one intended to regulate the importation of goods from foreign countries so as not to interfere with home industries built up during the war, was adopted. This reads:

Whenever, during the present war, the President shall find that the public safety so requires, and shall make proclamation thereof, it shall be unlawful to import into the United States from any country named in such proclamation, any article or articles mentioned in the proclamation, except at such time and under such regulations or orders and subject to such limitations and exceptions as the President shall prescribe, until otherwise ordered by the President and Congress; provided that no preference shall be given the ports of one State over those of another.

Insurance Ban Extended.

One feature of the bill as passed today is the prohibition, by order of the President, of all foreign insurance companies from doing business in the United States during the war except upon license from the Executive. The foreign companies have done a tremendous business in insuring and reinsuring during the war. Senator Fletcher said the business done by them last year aggregated $50,000,000, of which Russian and French companies had 47 per cent. and companies of Germany or its allies 42 per cent.

Originally the bill contemplated a prohibition only against German insurance, but an amendment offered by Senator Reed today and adopted takes in every foreign insurance concern. Under the bill the President may authorize the Secretary of Commerce to take over the insurance companies under license and allow them to be run, but without pecuniary profit going out of the country. No German company is allowed to underwrite marine risks.

The measure authorizes the Secretary of Commerce, by order of the President, to take over patent rights owned by German subjects, whether in Germany or elsewhere, and to operate them, putting aside whatever profit there is until after the war, when it is to be turned over to the rightful owner. This would enable the Government to take over many German drug patents.

The Government is further authorized to take over, whenever deemed advisable, business of any character in which German capital is interested and run it. The profit may be put to whatever use the Government decides in the prosecution of the war, a strict account being kept and full return being made to the owner at the end of the war. German concerns which did business before the war are forbidden to change their names, this provision being inserted in the bill to prevent the subterfuge of Germans trading under a disguised firm name.

The measure provides for the appointment of an alien property custodian, to have charge of all money or other property belonging to an enemy, or ally of an enemy, that may come to him as a result of the Government taking over any business. This official must give an exact accounting after the war both to the Government and to the enemy or ally of enemy whose property is taken.

"To my mind, this is the fairest measure that could be conceived to prevent trading with the enemy and at the same time be fair to the enemy," said Senator Fletcher, sponsor of the measure. "We confiscate nothing except what we pay for amply. We give account for everything we do. And we try to make the business which we take over yield a profit. We won't destroy it; we improve it."

AMERICA SOLVES MOTOR PROBLEM

after the drawings were started the new engine was set up: This was on July 3.

Transported in Special Car.

"In order to have the engine in Washington and in actual running order at the nation's Capital on Independence Day, the perfected engine was sent from a Western city in aspecial express car. The journey was made in twenty-one hours, and four young men guarded the engine en route to Washington and personally attended to its transfer from one railroad to another.

"With the need for speed as an incentive, tools for building th first engine were made even before the drawings were finished, on the assumption that they would be correct.

"Parts of the first engine were turned out at twelve different factories, located all the way from Connecticut to California. When the parts were assembled the adjustment was perfect and the performance of the engine was wonderfully gratifying. This in itself demonstrates the capabilities of American factories when put to the test, and when thoroughly organized for emergency work of this sort.

"One of the chief rules outlined at the beginning of the designing work was that no engineer should be permitted to introduce construction which had not been tried out. There was no time for theorizing. The new engine is successful because it embodies the best thought of engineering experience to date. Not only did this country furnish ideas through celebrated consulting engineers, but the representatives in the United States of England, France and Italy cooperated in the development of this motor.

"Thirty days after the assembling of the first engine preliminary tests justified the Government in formally accepting the engine as the best aircraft engine produced in any country. The final tests confirmed our faith in the new motor in every degree.

"Both the flying and altitude tests of the new motor have been gratifying. One test was conducted at Pike's Peak, where the United States aviation engine performed satisfactorily at this high altitude. One of the engines, in an airplane broke the American altitude record in a recent flying test.

"While it is not deemed expedient to discuss in detail the performances and mechanics of the new motor, it may be said that standardization is a chief factor in the development of the Government's motor. Cylinders, pistons, and every other part of the motor have been standardized. They may be produced rapidly and economically by a great many factories operating under Government contracts. They may be as rapidly assembled, either by these plants or at a central assembly plant.

Combines Best of All Features.

"The new engine amounts practically to an international model. It embodies the best there is in American engineering and the best features of European models, so far as it has been possible to adapt the latter to American manufacturing methods.

"The two engineers most directly connected with the production of the United States aviation engine had before them not only the blue prints and models of the most successful engines the war has produced, but also every available American suggestion. Men skilled in the invention of motors, both automobile and airplane, advised these engineers, who were charged with the duty of providing rapidly and unerringly a motor which would embody every essential for wartime use. Nonessential complexities were consistently discarded by these engineers. The result was a composite design of maximum power, minimum weight, great speed capability and adaptability to quick production.

"The standardization of parts materially simplifies the problem of repair and maintenance. Spare parts will be promptly available at all times. Even the cylinders are designed separately. It is possible to build the new engine in four models, ranging from four to twelve cylinders, and under the standardization plan now worked out an eight-cylinder or a twelve-cylinder model can be made, using the same standard cylinders, pistons, valves, cam shafts, and so on.

"This will make the question of repairs back of the lines a comparatively simple matter. The parts of wrecked eight-cylinder or twelve-cylinder engines will be interchangeable and a new engine may be assembled from the parts of wrecked machines.

Experiments to Continue.

"The standardization of the new engine does not mean there will be no change in it during the war. There will be continuous experimentation as new types and improvements develop at the front and new ideas are born of the war emergency. If the engine can be improved, it will be improved, but as the motor stands today it is one of wonderful success and produced under dramatic circumstances.

"Construction of the new standard engine will not interfere with the continued manufacture of other serviceable models, either European or American, which existing plants are already turning out.

"The production of the United States motor will be carried on almost entirely in a new and expanding industrial field.

"The Government is sometimes asked, 'Why does not the United States adopt one of the successful British or French high-powered machines and manufacture them?'

"British and French machines, as a rule, are not adapted to American manufacturing methods. They are highly specialized machines, requiring much hand work from mechanics who are, in fact, artisans. It would require a year or more to teach American manufacturers and their mechanics to turn out such highly specialized airplanes.

"The standardized United States aviation engine, produced under Government supervision, is expected to solve the problem of building high-class, powerful, and yet comparatively delicate aviation engines by American machine methods—the same standardized methods which revolutionized the automobile industry in this country.

"With the completion of final tests of the motor—tests which satisfied and gratified both expert engineers and army officers—progress already has been made toward organizing industry for the manufacture of the new machines, and deliveries will begin within a comparatively short time."

SEARCH NEARING HOME FOR SEDITIOUS PAPERS

Federal Authorities Seize Documents There and at Headquarters of Toledo I. W. W.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Federal authorities tonight raided the home of Professor Scott Nearing in search of literature used in a campaign of opposition to the army conscription law. Professor Nearing, a lecturer on socialistic questions, came here two years ago from the University of Pennsylvania.

The authorities also invaded the headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World. No arrests were made at either place. Important documents were seized at both, the authorities announced.

Professor Nearing was among the delegation which met in Chicago on Sept. 3 under the name of the so-called People's Council, against which Governor Lowden of Illinois ordered Federal troops to proceed. He was named a member of the National Executive Committee at the meeting held in the Chicago cosmopolitan district.

Until a few months ago Professor Nearing held the chair of Arts and Sciences at Toledo University. He was dropped from the Faculty of that institution because of his alleged unpatriotic remarks at the time the United States was threatened with war with Germany. Since that time he has been lecturing. Recently he was appointed pastor of a church society organized here by local Socialists. Meetings were held in the city parks during the Summer months.

BRITAIN URGES SHIP CLAIM.

Hold We Should Not Take Vessels Contracted for Before the War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The British Government is still insisting on retaining ownership of the 1,025,000 tons of shipping for which it contracted in American yards before this country entered the war, and which has since been taken over, temporarily at least, by the United States Shipping Board in order to speed up construction.

The final ownership of these vessels, which compose part of a fleet of 2,000,000 tons on the ways under British and other foreign contracts, is now the matter of diplomatic negotiation, and some have expressed the belief that the United States should not relinquish them after completion.

In carefully prepared arguments which will be placed before the State Department and Shipping Board, the representatives of Great Britain hold that the latter course would not be an equitable one, and, it is understood, point out that Great Britain has lost 4,000,000 tons gross by submarines since the war.

Allowing for gains by new building and seizure of German ships, the net loss represented was 2,225,000 tons, it is held, while the American merchant marine, exclusive of 500,000 tons of German ships taken over, has gained nearly 1,125,000 tons. Great Britain, it is also pointed out, did not take over ownership of neutral tonnage building in England.

The questions involved in the negotiations have been regarded as of great importance, as the decision would affect the attitude of America toward all foreign ships.

At the present time the United States Government has taken charge of all of the contracts, but has not announced its policy concerning the chartering of the ships after completion, or their final ownership. It is possible that the decision will not be reached for some weeks.

SAYS BERLIN UPHOLDS POPE IN PRINCIPLE

Reply to Contain No Details, Weser Zeitung Asserts—Hungarians Call Peace Meeting.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 12.—The Weser Zeitung says that the German reply to Pope Benedict's peace note will contain no details, but will accept in principle the Pope's peace program. The paper adds that the reply will not be submitted to the Main Committee of the Reichstag.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A meeting called on the initiative of a number of political leaders and ecclesiastical authorities is to be held in Budapest Sept. 23 for the purpose of expressing the view that the time has come for peace negotiations, says a dispatch from the Hungarian capital today, transmitted by the Central News correspondent in Amsterdam.

The Papal note, according to the view of the movement's sponsors, indicates the exact way to bring the war to an end. The speakers at the meeting, it is stated, will include Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Catholic Centre Party in the Reichstag.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—The Vorwärts comments on the news that Great Britain has informed Washington that Britain subscribes to the American answer to the Pope's note. It says:

"If that be so, it means practically that England accepts the Pope's proposition. It also means that the Entente, or, at least, its leading power, no longer clings to those war aims which it proclaimed nine months ago in answer to President Wilson's offer of mediation. If, therefore, England really considers the Pope's note a fit basis for further negotiations, the possibility of peace would seem to be a great deal nearer.

"It is to be expected that the German Government, having indorsed the Reichstag peace resolution, will answer the Pope's message in a manner leaving no doubt that Germany desires neither conquest nor oppression of any kind."

PUSH ON IN MACEDONIA.

French Capture Village and Drive Foe Four Kilometers Beyond.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Further progress in the fighting in Macedonia is reported in the bulletin issued by the War Office today, which reads:

Eastern Theatre, Sept. 11.—At the Cerna Bend Italian troops repulsed an enemy detachment.

In the region of Monastir there was artillery fighting.

In the lake region our troops continued their success, capturing by a brilliant attack the Village of Pogradets, on the southwest bank of Lake Ochrida, and have driven back the enemy northward as far as Mumul Ishta height, four kilometers north of Pogradets.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, (via London.)—The following bulletin was issued by the War Office to-day:

Macedonian Front: The situation on the southwestern bank of Lake Ochrida has not changed to any extent.

In the Monastir Basin the artillery fire is stronger than it has been lately.

SAYS HOPE OF WORLD DEPENDS ON OUR AID

PLEADS FOR PEACE LEAGUE

One Thousand Members and Guests of National Safety Council Hear Educator Speak.

The world as an armed camp, preparing for the next fray, with all the sciences devoted to killing, was pictured as the result of the war's ending in a draw presented to 1,000 members and guests of the National Safety Council at their annual dinner in the Hotel Astor last night, by Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University. Therefore, Dr. Lowell reasoned, the war must not end in a draw; the United States must see to that. He said the conflict between Germany and the Allies, between might and right, must end with an association of the allied nations for the formation of a court of world justice with an able Sheriff. Dr. Lowell is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace.

"No vast upheaval that lays bare the foundations of human society can pass away and leave things as they were before," Dr. Lowell said. "This war cannot leave the world as it was before. The result must either be a better world or a worse one. If Germany should win the principles of her government must triumph, the ruthless rule of force, exploiting the earth for the benefit of the strong, suppressing other peoples, and beating down small, weak, or peaceful nations.

"If the result should be a drawn battle, a stalemate, with Germany in her present state of mind, the whole world will probably become a series of armed camps, preparing for another fray and compelled by the very conditions by which they are faced to adopt the methods of warfare Germany has introduced—that is, the nation in arms using every resource at its command and striving to destroy by every means the resources of the people to which it is opposed. Can any one contemplate without horror a planet whose inhabitants devote their efforts to devising scientific processes for making it unfit for human habitation? Yet such is the result that we must at least contemplate if the present war should decide nothing, leaving the belligerents with their former ambitions and principles with fiercer hatreds and a better knowledge of what the next war will signify.

"If, on the other hand, the side on which we are fighting wins, it may mean a better world, reorganized on a basis of justice and peace, and a large part of the result may depend on us both in the field and at the council table.

"Let us be perfectly clear in our own minds. We proclaim that we are fighting for democracy, but President Wilson has put it more accurately when he said that we were at war to make the world safe for democracy. We are not fighting to impose any form of government upon an unwilling people. That would be contrary to the principles of political liberty.

"If any people prefer to be ruled by a monarch, it is their affair, provided they mind their own business, leave other nations alone and live peaceably with their neighbors. A military autocracy, that goes forth conquering and to conquer, the world must subdue, or it will have no peace; moreover the oppression of one race by another must, so far as possible, be removed. For that reason we cannot consider the return to Germany of her former colonies, that their people may be exploited as they have been in the past.

"We are at war to prevent any nation from imposing an autocratic military system on the world or any people; and when the Allies have succeeded in so doing, they, and any other peoples that sincerely desire a better and more peaceful world, must solemnly resolve that no such catastrophe shall occur again."

Arthur Williams, President of the American Museum of Safety, urged all manufacturers to safeguard the lives and limbs of America's industrial army during the war, and after it as well. Job E. Hedges and R. M. Little of the United States Employers' Compensation Commission also spoke.

SAFETY COUNCIL MEETS.

Experts Discuss Accident Prevention at the Astor Hotel.

The convention of the National Safety Council at the Astor yesterday was divided into sectional meetings in which discussions were held upon the principles of accident prevention as applied to mining, chemistry, and transportation. In the morning there was a general session at which papers were read on several phases of accident prevention.

Among those who spoke were Mrs. Samuel Semple, a member of the Pennsylvania Industrial Board, and Marcus A. Dow, General Safety Agent of the New York Central lines. Mr. Dow gave an illustrated lecture on the safety methods adopted by the New York Central lines to protect its employes from injuries. Mrs. Semple spoke on "Protecting Women in Industry." She urged more pay for woman labor, and denounced the tendency of some industries in Pennsylvania to get rid of men and take on women in their places at lower wages.

PERSHING SENDS MESSAGE.

It Will Be Inserted in Testaments for All Soldiers.

General Pershing has sent the following message through the New York Bible Society to the American soldiers in response to the request of Dr. George William Carter, General Secretary.

"Aroused against a nation waging war in violation of all Christian principles, our people are fighting in the cause of liberty. Hardship will be your lot, but trust in God will give you comfort. Temptation will befall you, but the teachings of our Saviour will give you strength. Let your valor as a soldier and your conduct as a man be an inspiration to your comrades and an honor to your country."

This message will be inserted in the khaki-covered Testaments given to the men. These Testaments cost $15 per hundred, and it is the society's aim to present every soldier passing through this city with one of them.

Montreal Prisoner Dreads to Testify, Fearing His Fellows.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12. — A solemn agreement, sworn to by the men who dynamited the home of Lord Athelstan, publisher of The Montreal Star, that any of them who gave information of their doings to the police would be murdered, was given by J. A. Tremblay as his reason for his refusal to testify today when called as a witness in court.

Tremblay, who is charged with stealing the dynamite which was used to blow up the Athelstan home, was asked to give evidence against Elie Lalumiere, the anti-conscription leader, accused as one of the plotters. On his refusal to answer questions Tremblay was sent to jail for eight days. He said that if he gave evidence he and his wife and children would be murdered by the dynamiters still at liberty. The Crown Counsel asked Tremblay to repeat the confession he had made previously in the detectives' office, but he refused.

HOUSE INDORSES PAY FOR DEPENDENTS

One Schedule of Enlisted Men's Insurance Bill Acted on—Meeker Discovers "Lobby."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The House today approved the first important schedule of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Insurance bill. This relates to the allotments of pay to be retained by the Government and turned over to the fighting man's dependents.

The debate was enlivened by an outburst from Representative Meeker of Missouri, who objected to the presence in the gallery of Judge Julian Mack of Chicago, who framed the bill. Mr. Meeker declared that "an Administration lobby" was at work to force the bill through. Judge Mack did not leave the gallery.

The compulsory allotment of pay is to go to the dependents of all enlisted men and is based on a graduated plan, with a minimum of $15 a month. The allotment shall not, however, be more than one-half pay. All family allowances shall be paid from the time of enlistment to death in the service or one month after discharge from the service, but more than a month after the present war emergency. All family allowances for men now in the service will start with the enactment of the bill.

The bill provides that, subject to the restrictions and exceptions provided for special cases, the family allowances payable per month shall be:

Class A—In the case of a man to his wife, including a divorced wife, and to his child or children:

(a) If there be a wife but no child, $15.

(b) If there be a wife and one child, $25.

(c) If there be a wife and two children, (with $5 a month additional for each additional child,) $32.50.

(d) If there be no wife but one child, $5.

(e) If there be no wife but two children, $12.50.

(f) If there be no wife but three children, $20.

(g) If there be no wife but four children, (with $5 per month for each additional child,) $30.

Under Class B a similar schedule is provided for soldiers or sailors alloting money to grandchildren, parents, brother, or sister. These range from $5 for a grandchild, $10 for one parent, $20 for two parents, up to $30 for four grandchildren.

Representative Gould of New York endeavored to amend the bill by providing for allowances for quarters to be paid to army officers. He said that a recent ruling deprived officers now in active service abroad from such allowance. He charged that the War Department was not acting in good faith in respect to officers sent to France—that circulars sent out by the War Department promised officers' quarters in France, and, if not, commutation for quarters. He said that when officers made application for quarters they were informed that under a ruling of the War Department they were not entitled to them if they served in training camps or with the army in France.

Representative Gould referred to private correspondence which, he said, showed that most of the officers were in debt through inability to live on their salaries. Especially the National Guard officers, he said, who served on the Mexican border were embarrassed by this new policy.

ITALIANS HOLD FIRM ON SAN GABRIELE

Austrians Launch a Desperate Attack in an Effort to Retake It, But Fail.

ROME, Sept. 12.—The Austrians yesterday made an extremely desperate effort to drive the Italians from the positions they occupy along the crest of Monte San Gabriele, northeast of Gorizia. The battle lasted from dawn until nearly noon, when the Austrians, defeated in the struggle, gave up the effort, the War Office announced today. The text of the statement reads:

The enemy yesterday made various attacks, which were at once repulsed, against our lines on the Bainsizza Plateau, afterward carrying out his greatest efforts northeast of Gorizia.

After having kept under the most violent fire for several hours the positions occupied by us along the crest of Monte San Gabriele and on the western slopes of the mountain, descending toward Balcano, he attacked them from the east and the south. The bitter struggle, which began at dawn, became more pronounced around the western edge of the table land of St. Caterina. Finally, toward midday, the enemy, beaten and repulsed, gave up his fruitless attempts.

RAIDERS HURT 8 AMERICANS.

One Nurse Among Those Injured by Bombs Dropped on Harvard Unit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The War Department announced tonight that it had received a report showing that a nurse and eight men, three of them First Lieutenants of the Medical Officers' Reserve Corps, and five of them privates of the Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, had been wounded when German airmen bombed the Harvard Base Hospital No. 5 somewhere in France on Sept. 4. The official report also shows that the bombing took place at 11 o'clock at night. This is the raid in which four members of the base hospital were killed. The casualties announced tonight were:

First Lieutenant Raw W. Whidden, 379 Park Avenue, New York, moderate wound; First Lieutenant Thaddeus D. Smith, Neenah, Wis., moderate wound; First Lieutenant Clarence A. McGuire, Kansas City, Mo., moderate wound; Private Elmer C. Sloan, Ellwood, Ind., moderate wound; Private Allen Mason, Boston, severe wound; Private Hiram C. Brewer, Cambridge, Mass., slight wound; Private Aubrey S. McLeod, Marlboro, Mass., severe wound; Private John F. Stanton, Hyde Park, Mass., moderate wound, and Nurse Eva Parmalee, Army Nurse Corps, slight wound.

CALLS SOCIALISTS DISLOYAL

Labor Alliance Says They Are Sending Seditious Matter to Russia.

The American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, of which Samuel Gompers is Chairman, charged yesterday that leaders of the Socialist Party in this country were conducting a persistent campaign to discredit the American Government in Russia and to increase the turmoil there.

"It is but a thinly veiled secret," the statement said, "that the Socialists of America are still engaged in a desperate effort to lead the Russian people to believe America is engaged in a 'capitalistic war' and that the working people of America want peace.

"The report from Philadelphia, following the Federal raid on the Tageblatt office, that all printing of leaflets and posters and all advertising for the Socialists of that city was done by the Tageblatt free of charge certainly does not lessen the justification for suspicion of Socialist motives and practices.

"We have been reliably informed that Socialists are making it a business to flood Russia with letters and pamphlets that constitute a betrayal not only of the Russian people but of the American people. The purport of these communications is to lead the Russian people to believe that the American people are not back of their Government in the war, and that the American workers want peace. Socialists have boasted here of the work. These letters declare also that the American working people are not united among themselves and seek to make it appear that the labor movement is in a chaotic condition with the masses in revolt against the leadership."

The alliance will hold a mass meeting at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, at which Charles Edward Russell and James Duncan, who were members of the Root Mission to Russia, will tell of the evil effects in Russia of the work of some Socialists in the United States.

FRENCH SWEEP OVER TWO GERMAN LINES

Reach the Third Trench in Champagne Drive, Killing or Capturing All the Enemy.

HALT TWO MEUSE ATTACKS

British Near Hargicourt Beat Off Assaults of Germans, Who Lose Heavily.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—French troops have struck a hard blow in the Champagne, in which they drove across two lines of the German trenches between St. Hilaire and St. Souplet and entered the third line. All the Germans in these lines were killed or taken prisoner, it is stated in the official bulletin.

Two German attacks on French posts north of Caurières Wood on the right bank of the Meuse were repulsed.

The day report reads:

In the Champagne district we conducted successfully several raids into the German lines, one northeast of Auberive, and the other to the east of the road between St. Hilaire and St. Souplet. At this latter point French detachments penetrated as far as the third German lines. A spirited fight developed, in the course of which the German garrison was either killed or made prisoner. We blew up numerous shelter and brought back important raw material.

On the right bank of the River Meuse we repulsed two attacks upon our advanced posts to the north of Caurieres Wood and to the north of Ronvaux.

An enemy attack northeast of Tahure failed under our fire, and resulted in serious losses for our assailants.

In Belgium there has been very spirited artillery firing in the sectors of Drei-Grachten and Bixschoote.

The night passed quietly elsewhere.

Many airplanes have bombarded the region of Dunkirk. There were several victims among the civilian population.

The official statement issued by the War Office tonight reads:

There was no infantry action during the course of the day. Moderate artillery activity was displayed on the greater part of the front, more marked in Belgium and on the right bank of the Meuse.

On Sept. 11 four German airplanes were brought down by our pilots; ten others fell badly damaged within their own lines. Our bombing airplanes dropped numerous projectiles on the railway stations at Roulers, Cortemarck and Staden, the aviation ground at Colmar, stations at Conflans and Fermy and military factories southeast of Sarreburg.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, (via London.)—The War Office bulletin today had this to say of operations on the French front:

After strong artillery activity, French detachments advanced to violent reconnoitring enterprises on both sides of the Somme Py-Souain Road in Champagne. They were driven back by our fire and in hand-to-hand fighting. A number of prisoners remained in our hands.

British Beat Off German Attack.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—German troops this morning attacked the British trenches east of Hargicourt, according to the early report today from British Headquarters in France. The assault was launched under cover of a heavy barrage, but the advancing waves were met by rifle and machine gun fire, and the Germans were repulsed. The bulletin says:

Early this morning the enemy attacked our trenches east of Hargicourt, (north of St. Quentin,) under cover of a heavy barrage. His advancing infantry were received with rifle and machine gun fire and repulsed.

We carried out successful raids last night northeast of Bullecourt and south of Lombaertsyde. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy, and a few prisoners were secured by us.

Hostile artillery has been active during the night in the neighborhood of Neuve Chapell and in the Ypres sector.

The British official communication issued tonight says:

We secured a few prisoners in patrol encounters at different points of the front southwest of St. Quentin and on the Ypres sector. Beyond the usual artillery activity by both sides on the Ypres battle front there is nothing of special interest to report.

BRITISH AIRMEN ACTIVE.

Points in Belgium Bombed by Naval Raiders.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Further extensive bombing raids have been carried out by the British Naval Air Service on various objectives, chiefly in Belgium. The official announcement of these operations reads:

"In the last twenty-four hours many flight patrols have been carried out by the Naval Air Service. One of these patrols engaged two enemy spotting machines, one being shot down and the machine crushing into the sea, and the other landing almost intact in our lines. The pilot and observer of the latter machine were made prisoners. Two other enemy machines were attacked and driven down during the sweep by our machines. In conjunction with a bombing raid nine enemy machines were encountered, five of which are believed to have been driven down out of control.

"Bombing raids were made last night on the St. Denis-Westrem airdrome, the Gontrode airdrome, the Bruges docks, the Thourout railway junction, and on railway objectives near Ghent. Several tons of explosives were dropped.

"During yesterday forenoon a bombing raid was made on Sparappelhoek, the Thourout airdrome, and the Engel ammunition dump. At Sparappelhoek bombs were observed to explode among the hangars, causing much smoke, and at Thourout a direct hit was observed on a hangar. At the Engel ammunition dump a large fire was caused. The bombing formation was attacked by enemy machines, and one of the latter was shot down smoking and out of control. Many tons of explosives were dropped.

"From all these operations all the machines and pilots returned safely."

The night report of the War Office says:

"After midday of the eleventh the bad visibility of the morning improved, and the aerial activity became great. Very successful artillery and photographic work was carried out continuously. During the day 281 bombs were dropped on various targets, including two airdromes south of Lille and a large ammunition dump in the vicinity of Roulers. During the night 89 bombs were dropped on railway stations and ammunition dumps and trains in the Coutrai area, making a total weight of over six tons in twenty-four hours.

"The air fighting was very vigorous and strong formations of enemy scouts were encountered by our patrols. Artillery and photographic machines working well over the enemy's country also were frequently engaged.

"Seven hostile machines were downed in combats, twelve driven down out of control and one was shot down by anti-aircraft guns. Eight of our machines are missing."

The purpose of the Minister's trip is to discuss various matters including probable shipments for Switzerland and other neutral countries.

700 AMERICANS IN GERMANY.

470 Have Left Since Diplomatic Relations Were Broken Off.

BERLIN, Sept. 12, (via London.)—Since the breaking off of relations between the United States and Germany 470 Americans have departed from Germany for home or neutral countries. The census recently compiled by the American Association of Commerce and Trade of Berlin indicated that there were approximately 1,200 Americans in Germany on March 1. The present number will therefore not greatly exceed 700, half of whom are living in Berlin.

Americans continue to be unmolested and are subjected to the same police rules and travel restrictions as neutrals. Requests for permits to cross the frontiers are granted in the order filed. The routine, however, frequently necessitates a wait of three or four weeks.

DRAFT RULES FOR ALIENS.

Those Who Have Not Applied for Final Papers Lose Rights in State.

ALBANY, Sept. 12.—Aliens who have refrained for seven years from applying for their final naturalization papers will be exempt from conscription, but at the same time will lose whatever benefits accrued to them under the labor laws of New York State by their act in filing first papers, according to an opinion made public today by Attorney General Lewis in response to an inquiry from Adjutant General Charles H. Sherrill.

The ruling will affect thousands of aliens throughout the State, many of whom have benefited in the way of obtaining employment upon public work by reason of their declaration of their intentions to become citizens. Draft boards in practically every municipality in the State have been confronted with the proposition of negligence in applying for final papers.

1,000 APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

Industrial Exemption Claims Will Be Gone Over by Gen. Crowder.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—More than 1,000 claims for army exemption on the ground that the claimant is indispensable to a war industry, appealed to the President, the final judge of such cases, their claims are on file today at the office of Provost Marshal General Crowder, and others are coming in. Preliminary examination is being made by General Crowder, on whose final recommendation the President probably will act.

The General laid emphasis today on the fact that only industrial exemption claims may be appealed to the President from district boards and that personal hearings before the authorities acting for the President will not be given. Evidence will be limited to that already presented to district boards and it will avail claimants nothing to employ attorneys or other agents to press their pleas.

Pending final decision by the President the men claiming industrial exemption are subject to military duty.

REBUKES PROF. CATTELL.

Representative Bathrick Resents Columbia Man's Draft Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Representative Bathrick of Ohio made public his reply to a letter he received from Professor J. McK. Cattell of Columbia University, asking support for a proposal that no drafted army be sent abroad without consent of the soldiers.

"I am writing the President of Columbia University a request that you be fired, that you may have a freer hand to join Emma Goldman and the rest of the I. W. W.," Mr. Bathrick wrote. "You then will not be so dangerous to your country as you are while using the letterheads of the great and honored Columbia University to propagate sedition and other kinds of trouble for your country during the present war."

AMERICAN LOSES BOTH LEGS

Aubrey S. McLeod, with Harvard Unit, Was Injured by Air Raiders.

MARLBORO, Mass., Sept. 12.—A cablegram saying that Aubrey S. McLeod of the Harvard base hospital now in France was so severely wounded in a raid by German airmen on Sept. 4 that it was necessary to amputate both legs was received today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLeod of this town. The message, sent by Colonel Patterson, in command of the Harvard Unit, said McLeod's chances of recovery were good.

A recent report to the War Department from General Pershing gave the names of four Americans killed in the hospital raid, including Oscar C. Tuge of Boston.

PAINLEVE SUCCEEDS IN FORMING CABINET

PREVIOUS EFFORT FAILED

But President Poincare Insisted That the War Minister Continue His Efforts.

PARIS, Sept. 12.— M. Painlevé, Minister of War, has finally succeeded in organizing a Ministry to take the place of the Ribot Cabinet. For a time the Socialistic Radical group presented an obstacle to the formation of a Ministry, ruling that the first Socialist Radical members of the Cabinet, as selected by M. Painlevé, should not be members of a Cabinet where the unified Socialists were not represented. These men, Renoult, Vincent, Besnard, Renard, and Long, informed the party that they had accepted the portfolios before the party had reached this decision, and that there was a bond of honor to remain. The matter was then dropped M. Painlevé presented the new Ministers to President Poincaré tonight.

Professor Painlevé's first combination proved even more abortive than that of M. Ribot, the retiring Premier, and collapsed from the same cause, the exigencies of the Socialists. He had completed his list yesterday afternoon, and his success in forming a Ministry was regarded as a foregone conclusion. At 10 o'clock last night the new Ministers assembled at the Ministry of War. An hour later Albert Thomas, Socialist member of the War Council and Minister of Munitions, and Deputy Varenne, who had been named as Minister of Public Instruction, left the War Ministry. In reply to inquirers they said:

"It is nothing but a little difference, which certainly will be settled in half an hour."

The Ministers did not return until after midnight. Their absence was due, according to reliable information, to the necessity of consulting MM. Renaudel, Hubertrouger, Weber, and Moutet, the permanent delegates charged by the Socialist Party to watch the Cabinet crisis.

A quarter of an hour later the Socialists again left the ministry, saying: 'We withdraw definitely on account of the general composition of the ministry."

The other ministers-elect continued their deliberations, but soon afterward M. Painlevé announced that he was going to inform Poincaré of his failure. At the President's request he made another attempt.

MUST TELL PAPER OUTPUT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—To keep a check on the newsprint paper situation the Federal Trade Commission will institute a system of monthly and weekly reports by manufacturers. The aim is to keep publishers constantly informed as to the rate of production and consumption and the quantity of paper stock on hand.

The commission hopes that the system will put newspaper publishers in a position to demand fair prices and make it impossible for producers to raise prices through fear of a paper shortage. The Canadian Government will be asked to co-operate in the plan.

The following letter was sent today to every American newsprint manufacturer:

"In order that accurate information regarding conditions in the newsprint paper industry may be available for manufacturers, dealers, and publishers, the commission has decided to collect, compile, and publish statistics of production, consumption, shipments, and stocks on hand. Manufacturers of print paper are required to furnish a partial report each week, and a more complete report each month. The weekly reports are for the operations of each mill, and the monthly reports for the operations of each company.

"The first weekly reports should be mailed on or before Tuesday, Sept. 25, for the week preceding, and the first monthly reports on or before Oct. 5 for the month of September."

GRAND JURY TRACING MRS. KING'S FORTUNE

COPIES OF WILL DISCOVERED

District Attorney Also Finds Agreement Whereby Means Was to Profit from the Estate.

After the discovery that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been deposited in banks in this city and Chicago last year to the account of Gaston B. Means soon after the revocation of trust deeds drawn to protect the fortune of Mrs. Maude A. King, District Attorney Swann began to place evidence regarding the affairs of Mrs. King before the Grand Jury.

Afton Means, a brother of Gaston B. Means, was the first witness; Henry Dietz, a business associate of Gaston B. Means, followed him. Both were asked a few preliminary questions and then excused until today. The Grand Jury ordered that a trunkful of checks, accounts, correspondence and other papers found in the apartment of Gaston B. Means at 1,155 Park Avenue should be impounded. John T. Dooling, Assistant District Attorney, who is preparing the case, was asked if evidence was being submitted regarding any specific crime which appeared to have been committed. He said:

"We are investigating evidence that may establish larceny, forgery, perjury, conspiracy to murder, or other offenses."

Among the papers which were obtained by the District Attorney yesterday were copies of the alleged second will of James King in favor of Mrs. King. Another paper discovered was the copy of a contract by which Gaston Means was to receive $950,000 and Carl L. Schurz, a lawyer, of 45 Broadway, and son of the statesman, was to receive 5 per cent. of the amount recovered, provided more than $2,000,000 was obtained. Means and the lawyer were to receive percentages, if less than $2,000,000 was recovered.

Woman Lost Heavily at Dice.

Papers were found proving that Gaston Means had in the early part of this year lost about $60,000 in two weeks in cotton speculations. Assistant District Attorney Dooling said:

"We have information from two sources that Mrs. King and Gaston Means frequently amused themselves by shaking dice for large sums of money. Means usually won. We have information that Mrs. King lost more than $80,000 in the last few months shaking dice. We found dice in searching the apartments of Means and Mrs. King at 1,155 Park Avenue."

Checks and other papers showed that Means had turned over sums to a man, said to be a relative, whose initials are "W. R. P.," to carry on the stock transactions and that the name of Means did not appear in most of these deals, although it was established that he furnished the money. Some stock transactions were conducted in the name of Mrs. Mazie Melvin, a sister of Mrs. King. None occurred in Mrs. King's name, although the District Attorney has been unable to find that Means and Mrs. Melvin had any source of income except through Mrs. King. Paul Gross, a lawyer of 302 Broadway, who represented Mrs. King several years ago, said that she had a great dislike for speculation.

Mr. Gross said yesterday that, after the settlement with the King heirs by which she received $1,000,000, Mrs. King had a total of nearly $3,000,000, having obtained considerably more than a million in gifts from King before his death.

Mr. Gross said three groups of parasites had enriched themselves from this fortune. The first consisted of a woman and some companions, who made inroads into the $3,000,000 for several years after the death of King. Then came the band of adventurers who attached themselves to Mrs. King at Monte Carlo and followed her to this country. After this band had been routed, a third group began to raid the fortune.

Mr. Dooling seized the documents telling most of this story yesterday morning, after spending the entire night in examining them. Afton Means, who had been sent by his brother to this city to take possession of the documents and carry them to Concord, N. C., was surprised while he was preparing to move them. He at first made no objection to allowing Mr. Dooling to list them, but later, when the Assistant District Attorney began to read each document carefully, Afton Means appeared troubled and began to telephone to lawyers, but without success in reaching them. One of the lawyers he sought was Mr. Schultz, who had been engaged to take the new-found King will into court.

Mr. Means watched the Assistant District Attorney at work until about 3 o'clock in the morning. He then lay down on a couch and slept for several hours. He awoke to find Mr. Dooling engaged on the last of the documents. At 10:30 o'clock Mr. Dooling ordered that the trunk of documents be moved to the District Attorney's office. Afton Means appeared at first disposed to question this proceeding, but he was silenced when a subpoena was served on him to appear before the Grand Jury.

Gaston Means's Bank Account.

One of the bank accounts of Gaston Means was opened with the Illinois Trust and Savings Company on Dec. 13, 1916. In two months it ran up to $108,000. This was at about the time that trust deeds tying up a large part of Mrs. King's fortune were dissolved. Another book shows that Means, several months ago, had $18,000 on deposit with the Corn Exchange Bank in this city, but that this had dwindled to less than $1,000 by August of this year.

The largest check cashed by Means was one for $43,000, drawn on his account with a Chicago bank. Another bankbook showed that Means had $47,000 on deposit with a Chicago bank in July, 1917. Bales of papers were found relating to stock transactions. The heaviest losses he suffered, as shown by these papers, were $41,250 sustained in a fall in the cotton market early this year; followed two weeks later by a loss of $24,625. Another document was found showing that a Chicago cotton broker a little later had rendered a statement calling for $35,845 to make good losses not covered by his account. Other accounts showed losses in steel and other stocks.

Other documents found in the apartment of Means related to his employment by Captain Carl Boy-Ed, the Naval Attaché of the German Embassy. These will be turned over to the Department of Justice.

"These papers had no bearing on this case," said Mr. Dooling, "but are likely to prove interesting to the Department of Justice. They add a chapter to German intrigue in this country."

The contract between Mrs. King, Means, and Carl L. Schurz will be placed before the Grand Jury. At the office of Mr. Schurz, at 45 Broadway, it was said that he had left there early in the afternoon. It could not be learned whether Afton Means had engaged him to look after his brother's interests, as he had been seeking to do. One clause of this contract, made in April, 1916, is as follows:

"Whereas the second party (Gaston B. Means) by his sole efforts has obtained information and has discovered evidence tending to show that the first party is entitled to certain moneys from the estate of the said James C. King, deceased, in addition to the amounts she has already received therefrom, which information and evidence the second party is willing and ready to place at the disposal of the first party upon such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed upon."

The full story of the alleged finding of this will has been found. It has been stated by Gaston Means that he discovered it among the papers of Mrs. King, after it had been overlooked for eleven years. The clauses relating to compensation for Means and counsel are as follows:

"In the event that the amount so recovered shall be less than $2,000,000, or more than $4,000,000, the second party shall receive 22½ per cent. thereof and the third party (Mr. Schurz) 5 per cent. thereof.

"In the event that the amount so recovered shall be $2,000,000 or more, but not more than $4,000,000, the second party shall receive $950,000 thereof and the third party shall receive 5 per cent. of the amount so recovered."

The will, dated Oct. 9, 1905, nullifies the ante-nuptial agreement which Mrs. King was to receive only $100,000 of the estate, provides small sums for many of Mr. King's relatives, requests that Mrs. King look after others, and names her executrix without bond. It suggests, but does nothing more than suggest, that she should ask the Union Trust Company of Chicago and the Merchants' Loan & Trust Company of Chicago to act with her. The will describes Mr. King as "formerly of Chicago." It begins with bequests of $10,000 each to seven Chicago charities and one Pasadena charity.

The names of the following three witnesses are signed to the will: Mary C. Melvin, Chicago; Addistion S. Melvin, Chicago, and Byron L. Smith, Chicago. The entire residue of the estate is given to Mrs. King.

Many Offers of Marriage.

Mr. Dooling refused to name the man that Mrs. King was thinking of marrying, as indicated by some of her correspondence. This matrimonial project, he said, however, appeared to be serious and evidently had the effect of frightening persons who had a material interest in having her remain single. The District Attorney has evidence that Mrs. King had many offers of marriage, and that some of her companions were eager in discouraging her from considering them. Those who later actively combated suitors had earlier inspired her to divorce her third husband, Dr. Percy Chance, according to Paul Gross, the lawyer who acted for her in this divorce case. Mr. Gross told yesterday what he had known of her financial affairs.

"Before this marriage she made an agreement settling $50,000 on her prospective husband. She had then something like $3,000,000. She was extremely careless about money and had a habit of signing blank checks which has probably proved very costly. At that time she was under the influence of a woman who sought to keep others from her and endeavored to provide occupation and amusement for her during all her waking hours."

These alleged raids on her fortune occurred long before she had engaged Gaston B. Means to protect her money. As far as is known, he first met her when he was a Burns operative, late in 1914.

One of the most interesting of the alleged earlier attempts on her estate was revealed by documents showing that it had been planned late in 1910 to transfer her funds from the Woodruff Trust Company in Joliet, Ill., and from a bank in Chicago to the Carnegie Trust Company in this city.

Before this plan was consummated, however, the Carnegie Trust Company collapsed in January, 1911. Mr. Dooling refused to tell who had engineered the plans to use her fortune for the purpose of bolstering a failing institution. A separate investigation will be made of this chapter in Mrs. King's financial history.

District Attorney Swann has been in touch by telephone and telegraph with the prosecutors at Chicago and at Concord. An investigation of the financial transactions in which Mrs. King figured is under way in Chicago, with the help of data found in the Means apartment. An Assistant District Attorney from Chicago is expected here today or the next day. P. C. McDuffie, the lawyer for Mrs. Robinson, the mother of Mrs. King, probably will arrive in this city from Concord today and begin his investigation here. When Mr. Dooling saw a dispatch from North Carolina stating that the Governor of that State was opposed to having a trial in connection with the case take place in New York City, he said:

"The purpose of this investigation is to render every assistance to the authorities in North Carolina. According to Afton Means, the Solicitor of the county in which the death occurred is disinclined to reopen the investigation. If the case is not reopened and pushed there it will be in New York. Our position is that we do not intend to overlook conspiracy, larceny, and forgery taking place in New York County."

MAY REOPEN INQUEST.

Concord Prosecutor Asks for Authority to Take Up King Case.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. C., Sept. 12.—Matters are shaping themselves rapidly in the investigation into the mysterious death of Mrs. Maude A. King. Hayden Clement, Solicitor for this district, wired to Chief Justice Walter Clark at Raleigh today, asking if the Solicitor had the authority to reopen the case through the Coroner's jury.

This action on the part of Solicitor Clement came after he had been in consultation late this afternoon with Federal Agent Ambrose and Attorney P. H. McDuffie of Atlanta, who is in Salisbury at the request of Mrs. Annie L. Robinson of Asheville. It is not yet known just when the matter will be reopened, as Mr. Clement is still held up with several murder cases in the Superior Court at Salisbury.

SENATOR BROWN BERATES PERKINS

CALLS HIM INCONSISTENT

Says All Doubt of Senate's Being Right in Rejecting Him Is Now Removed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Senator Elon R. Brown, President pro tem of the Senate, who led the fight against the confirmation of Governor Whitman's nomination of George W. Perkins as head of the State Food Board, sent an open letter to Mr. Perkins today replying to a letter Mr. Perkins sent him last Sunday, in which he accused Mr. Perkins of being actuated only by selfish motives.

"To avoid any possible misunderstandings, in the mind of the public, I should perhaps reply to your last advertisement framed as an open letter to me," Senator Brown wrote. "You do not think I have been sufficiently explicit about you. I will endeavor to repair the fault.

"The reasons for your rejection, as stated in the Senate, would seem to be sufficient. I will not repeat them, but confine myself to your letter, which is a mass of misrepresentation and deceit.

"'First—Your pretense that you were part of a movement to co-operate with President Wilson by the enactment of a law in aid of the Federal Administration in food production and distribution.'

"At an interview with you in the executive chamber, near the close of the regular session, I suggested that any legislation at Albany should be auxiliary, supplemental, and subordinate to Federal regulation. You scoffed at the suggestion, at the President and Congress, and urged that New York take independent action to outfoot them, although it was less than two weeks after war was declared. Such has been your consistent attitude on this point. It now serves your purpose, however, to mask yourself as co-operating with Washington. You also praise the President for calling to his aid some men who have been associated with you in the Harvester Trust, but nobody has discovered when the President placed any of these men in control of trade in agricultural machinery and tools. The point of objection was not the Harvester Trust, but the unfitness of placing the organizer of that trust in control of trade in such machinery in this State during the war. Agricultural machinery and tools are declared to be 'one of the necessaries of life' in the food law. Your purpose has never been to co-operate with the President, but to go it alone and ahead of him. Your antagonism to Washington constitutes one of the objections to you at Albany.

"'2. 'Your pretense that I oposed food legislation at Albany.'

"There has been no Food bill prepared at Albany except under my personal direction and principally by me. The first Food bill prepared at the close of the regular session incorporated, at your request, for consideration your wild proposals for purchase and sale by the State, summary seizure of food stores and monopolistic corporations in food products. You were offended because I would not rush this legislation through in manuscript or an emergency message, without consideration or hearings.

"'3. 'Your pretense that I have purposely delayed the bill and its enforcement.'

"This is as false as the rest. I sought an arrangement with the Governor at the close of the regular session to extend the session for two weeks so that we might take up and act upon this legislation, and failed through the objection of the Governor and the Assembly. You need not be concerned about President Schurman and Mr. Wieting. The Senate was ready to confirm them as soon as word came from the Governor whether either of them was to become President of the commission.

"'4. 'Your pretense that I am working with the middlemen or, as you prefer to speak of them, "the hoarders, gamblers, and speculators who infest the State."'

"You know that the distributing forces of this State—the produce exchanges, boards of trade, wholesalers, and retailers, taken together—constitute one of our best forces in citizenship. They and their employes comprise more than 500,000 souls, with an investment of more than $500,000,000. They have the men, the equipment, the money, and the intelligence to bring food to every door.

"I am under a bit of obligation to you, and of that I will acquit myself by public acknowledgement. You have removed the last doubt of the propriety of the Senate's action in rejecting you. The objection to your nomination and the all but unanimous desire of the Legislature that it be not made were courteously presented to the Governor before the bill was passed. It by no means follows that the votes cast in your favor were cast by men who desired your nomination. If you had the interest in the subject of food control that you have in yourself you would have relieved the Governor and the Senate, but whoever knew you to get out of the way that a principle could operate? Principles are of no account to you, unless they work through you. Very truly, ELON R. BROWN."

Mr. Perkins's letter to Senator Brown said, in closing:

"Now, then, if you can make any real objections—objections that are genuine, that are honest, that are sincere—you owe it to the people of this State to at once produce them in writing, over your signature, and give them to the people of this State through the medium of the newspapers. You should do this so that the people may form an intelligent judgment upon this extremely important matter."

The tone of Senator Brown's letter indicates that he has no reason to believe that when the Legislature reconvenes on Sept. 25 Mr. Perkins will be confirmed. It has been reported that the Governor will again send the nomination to the Senate.

George W. Perkins said last night that he had not received Senator Brown's letter, and that as soon as he did he would reply to it "if it is worth a reply." Mr. Perkins was told the substance of the Senator's letter. He thought the Senator's indulgence in personalities was beside the issue. When told of the Senator's defense of the food dealers he laughed.

We Have Arranged With Mr. C. A. Lockhart, the "Mill-End" Man, to Hold One of His Famous "Mill-End" Sales Here, Commencing This Morning (Thursday) at 9:30

We Turn Our Store and Its Entire Organization Over to Mr. Lockhart, That He May, Unhindered in His Own Very Unique Way, Give New Yorkers a Real Lockhart "Mill-End" Sale for a Limited Number of Days.

GREENHUT'S "THE BIG STORE" Meet me at the Fountain
SIXTH AVE., 18TH TO 19TH STREET

No C. O. D., Mail, Approval or 'Phone Orders Filled.

You will ask, "Who is Mr. Lockhart?" He was the first man to understandingly grasp the value and importance of the "Mill-Ends" to the consumer. He has revolutionized the mill remnant business of the entire world. He is sometimes referred to as the "Billy Sunday" of commercial life. Today the distribution of goods, through his unusual methods, has grown to a fabulous sum. This store has been in touch with Mr. Lockhart for some months.

Mr. B. J. Greenhut, the president of this company, made special trips to several cities just to see Mr. Lockhart in action in some of the big Department Stores of the country.

Mr. Greenhut says:

"Mr. Lockhart was up on a balcony built for him, not unlike the one you will see him on in our store that we have specially prepared for him. He was surrounded by samples of bargains from about every department in the store. His wonderful voice, his wit, humor and strong personality not only held spellbound the great crowds that surged through that store, but I found myself intensely interested in listening to this clever man, and upon attending his recent sensational "Mill-End" Sales in Boston, I then and there made arrangements for him to come to New York. The spirit of this age demands strenuous originality, backed by reality, as I said to my lieutenants. Mr. Lockhart's earnest, honest, boundless enthusiasm will appeal to New Yorkers. They will not only revel in the bargains, but they will appreciate the genuineness and immensity of it all, as soon as their eyes rest on the fairlike displays of the almost endless zig-zag trims, and yellow booths, with the overhead fishtail bannerettes, softly waving in the breezes."

The whole store will participate in this attractive business activity, different from anything ever attempted in New York. Mr. Lockhart is here personally, and will start the sale this Thursday morning.

We are pleased to print here a commanding statement from his pen. His thoughts are real things. HEAR HIM.

It is my ambition to see New Yorkers, because this City is the American Metropolis, set the pace in buying for the whole world; you can do it. I want to sell more goods in this store to-day than has ever been sold in a store in this city in one day, Christmas or any other time. My Lockhart "Mill-End' sale bugle-call has been sounding throughout this country for twenty years, and its summons has never failed to rally a great army of patriotic, watchful, prudent people to its opportunity colors.

If you were to hear some one say they could get along with the old horse-drawn buses and did not need the tubes, subways, and elevators, you would surely look askance at that individual's brain-balance. No truly worth-while person underrates the value of public opinion. When millions of the best Americans on earth speak, act, endorse and sanction a certain individual thing, that thing must have merit.

My Lockhart "Mill-End" sale will quickly prove to the unprejudiced mind the part it can play in the economic sector of the home life in the great City of New York. This mighty distribution of wanted, seasonable merchandise at "Mill-End" prices that starts today, Thursday, will continue for twelve days.

Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not satisfied. The only stipulations are, the goods must be returned promptly and in good condition. Watch the tread of the mighty army of frugal, far-sighted people, who will gather about the Big Greenhut store before the great doors swing open tomorrow morning. Watch the newspapers that you may take swift advantage of the bargains as they are passed out over these counters day after day.

Only children of dullness wait for a seventh wave to roll down the sea of life, to toss them upon a land flowing with milk and honey. Coming as I do a stranger in your midst, I ask your hearts to welcome me to your City, and in return, to the uttermost limits of my ability, I shall extend to you the hand of plenty.

TO STOP THEFTS LIKE MARTINDALE'S

Controller Will Require All Institutions to Keep Tabs on Charge Slips.

VICTIM REMAINS UNKNOWN

Officials of Chemical National Say He Is a Wealthy but Not Prominent Citizen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A new regulation was adopted by the Controller of the Currency today in consequence of the discovery of the embezzlement and forgery alleged to have been committed by Joseph B. Martindale, late President of the Chemical National Bank of New York. In the next bank law all banks will be required to furnish replies to the following inquiries:

"What officials or employes of your bank sign each charge slip, and what officials and employes sign each debit slip? What officials and employes of your bank have authority to sign charge slips and debit slips?"

It is charged here among Government officials that there has been throughout the country gross abuse of the simple business matter of signing charge and debit slips and that the fact of the downfall of the President of such a great bank as the Chemical National has now furnished an example which will serve to bring about a correction of the abuse. If the offense had been committed by a minor official or an obscure official the circumstance would have made no impression on the banking profession, it was said, and nothing would have been done to protect the business public. It was predicted that the discovery will prove to be of distinct advantage to the banks and to the public.

Surprise was expressed here today that no statement of any kind has been forthcoming from the officials of the Chemical National Bank. Controller Williams said that he had done what he conceived to be his duty in making public the facts as they had been found to be. He could not under the limitations of the national banking laws go any further than he did, even if he had felt that the public was entitled to more information. Under the language of the law it was not permissible for the Controller to reveal the name of the depositor who was robbed. It would also have been unlawful to give the name of the teller who is alleged to have acted under President Martindale's orders.

Controller Williams today urged the necessity of having all bank officials insist that certain bank officials or employes be always on hand at the end of the month when statements of accounts are being made up. In the Controller's mind this, he said, would serve a most valuable purpose by way of example to all banking institutions throughout the country. The fact that [illegible] a high bank official, to whom every avenue of opportunity for wrongdoing was wide open but whose reputation as a banker and character as a man were the highest, would commit embezzlement should prompt every bank official, it was said, to do all in his power to co-operate with the Government in safeguarding national banks against similar offenses.

Emphasis was laid on the care that had been taken by Government officials to make the most thorough examination possible of the Chemical National Bank before the fact of Martindale's offense was made public. The discovery of the embezzlement was made at the end of last June, but was not fully established until several weeks later. The matter was called to the attention of the office of the Controller, and the examination of the affairs of the bank was begun and carried along until every thread of the many transactions involved in the embezzlement during the period of sixteen years could be traced out. Time was allowed to conclude every feature of the search before the announcement of the affair was finally made. It was also the purpose of Controller Williams to be able to assure the public that the Chemical National Bank was surely sound and all its affairs in good condition.

MARTINDALE'S ESTATE FOUND TO BE INSOLVENT

Widow Left Without Funds, Even if Claim of Chemical Bank Remains Unsatisfied.

The identity of the man whose name the late Joseph B. Martindale, President of the Chemical National Bank of New York, had forged to notes and whose bank account he had minpulated for years in a way to conceal peculations amounting to about $300,000, still remains a secret. Bankers were shocked by the disclosures made by John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, and aside from expressing regret for their fellow-banker, whom they all trusted, appeared to manifest considerable curiosity in respect to the depositor. Officials of the Chemical National Bank naturally refused to give out the name and said it would "never" become public; and inquiries made in Washington elicited the information that under the Banking act the Controller did not have any authority for giving publicity to an innocent individual in a case like this.

It was learned that the depositor was neither John Wanamaker, who for years has kept and still keeps a large account with the Chemical, and who was a warm personal friend of Mr. Martindale, nor the late Mrs. Hettie Green. According to George C. Kobbe, who is attorney for the bank and attorney for the Martindale estate, the depositor is "a wealthy man who is not well known." Beyond this brief description he would not indicate the character or connections of the bank's client.

James A. Speer of the law firm of Roosevelt & Kobbe, attorneys for Mrs. Martindale, stated yesterday that, even aside from the claim of the Chemical National Bank against its late President's estate, the banker had died insolvent.

Mrs. Martindale applied for and obtained letters of administration for her husband's estate in the Surrogate's Court at Mineola two weeks ago, as he had left no will. Since then George C. Kobbe, as her personal attorney, has been investigating the estate, and has reported that the assets do not begin to cover the liabilities already reported.

Mr. Martindale left an equity which may be appraised at about $25,000 in various property; two pieces of real estate, one his home at Rockville Center, the other a farm near Utica, N. Y., both inherited, and a number of shares of stock in various banks. The Rockville Center home is mortgaged for $5,000, leaving the estate an equity of about $10,000 in it; the Utica farm is mortgaged practically to its full value, and the mortgagees have already notified Mrs. Martindale of their intention of foreclosing; and all the bank stock is pledged as security for various loans which were apparently used in paying for the stock.

Beyond a policy of $3,000 in the Royal Arcanum, taken out some thirty years ago, when he was a clerk in the Chemical National Bank, Mr. Martindale appears never to have carried any life insurance. Claims against the estate will more than wipe this out, as well as the twenty-five-thousand-dollar equity in the other property, and if the Chemical National presses its claim the creditors will get practically nothing.

Although estranged from her husband, Mrs. Martindale had always been treated most liberally by him in money matters. She had an apartment at the Ritz-Carlton, while he lived at the Plaza. She knew he received $50,000 salary from the Chemical National, and had also received fees aggregating $50,000 or more from the Claflin and Mills & Gibbs receiverships. The sudden discovery that she is penniless—she has, Mr. Speers said, no financial resources aside from her husband's estate—after so many years spent in comfort and security, Mr. Speers said, has already proved a heavy blow to her.

Mr. Speers could throw no light upon the mystery of the use made of either his own money or of the embezzled funds by Mr. Martindale. Neither his attorneys nor his wife, he said, had ever had cause to suspect him of gambling or of having speculated to any extent.

Herbert K. Twitchell, who succeeded Mr. Martindale as President of the Chemical Bank, said he had no statement to make for publication, excepting that he desired to correct an erroneous impression created by some newspaper accounts. He said he wanted to emphasize the fact that the bank made no attempts at concealing or suppressing information concerning the Martindale frauds, and that it had promptly notified the Controller's office and the New York Clearing House examiner when it discovered the irregularities. According to Controller Williams, it was Mr. Twitchell who uncovered the fraud.

Some Wall Street bankers were inclined to question the wisdom of the Controller in making public the scandal, especially in view of the fact that the accused person was dead. They thought that inasmuch as the bank had made good the losses sustained and no one living was implicated, there was nothing to be gained by the publication of the story.

It was learned yesterday that the deposits of the bank were larger than at any time in its history. It was said that banks and business concerns in New York City and elsewhere had sent in additional deposits as a mark of confidence in the Chemical Bank, whose present officers and Directors are held blameless.

It was explained that Mr. Martindale had so manipulated the account of the undisclosed depositor that it was impossible for any banking examiner to detect the fraud, unless, of course, he sent to every single customers of the bank a statement of his account and had checked up every single transaction—a task so large and of such long duration as to make the proceeding almost impossible. For this reason no criticism is made of either the national bank examiner or of Charles A. Hanna, chief examiner of the New York Clearing House Association.

William P. Malburn, formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who succeeded Charles Starek as national bank examiner in this district, was not at his office in the Custom House. It was said he had gone to Washington.

POLICE SEEK BANKER'S CARS.

Detectives Visit Martindale Home, but Fail to Get Autos.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Sept. 12.—Two detectives, said to be from the New York Police Department, went to the home of the late Joseph B. Martindale, formerly President of the Chemical National Bank, now occupied by his daughter, Mrs. H. Parker, in this village today with the intention of seizing the late banker's automobiles. The chauffeur, Anthony Horning, refused to give them up, stating that the cars belonged to Mr. Martindale's son-in-law, H. Parker, who married Miss Dorothy Martindale.

Although Miss Jean Martindale, another daughter of the banker, drove a racing car, it is said that Mr. Martindale did not own an automobile at the time of his death.

The Martindales have maintained a home in this village for nearly twenty years, occupying it at various times. Since his death the widow and her son-in-law and daughter have resided here.

TICKET WAR TAX DISTURBS MANAGERS

Marc Klaw to Confer with Washington Officials as to Manner of Its Collection.

STAMPS OR STATEMENTS

Speculators Hit Hard by Bill—Annual Income from Tax from Country Estimated at $18,000,000.

Opinions of theatrical men upon the proposed ticket tax and the manner of its collection differ considerably in their appraisal of the possible effect of the tax on the theatrical business. Marc Klaw, President of the United Managers' Protective Association, will leave for Washington this morning to confer with officials on ways and means of collection, and meanwhile the topic is a much-discussed one here among managers, ticket brokers, and others who assist in the relaying of theatre tickets from box office to patron.

The bill as it passed the Senate on Monday provides for a direct tax of 10 per cent. on amusement tickets costing more than 25 cents, to be paid by the person making the purchase. The manner in which this tax is to be collected, however, is not specified, and Mr. Klaw has written to Secretary McAdoo advising the use of stamps, which would be purchased from the Government by the managers and affixed to tickets as they are sold at the box office. The only other course contemplated, so far as is known, provides for the submission of sworn box office statements by the managers to the Internal Revenue Commissioners.

Inconvenience of Stamps.

The latter plan, according to Mr. Klaw, would entail an expense of collection almost equal to the amount of the tax collected. On the other hand, the inconvenience of purchasing, affixing, and cancelling stamps is pointed out by those favoring sworn statements, and attention is called to the fact that sworn statements were resorted to successfully during the civil war.

Whichever way this question is settled, however, it is generally agreed that the complexities attending the sale of tickets by the agencies may throw that end of the business into an almost chaotic condition. Provision is made in the tax measure that premiums of 50 cents over the box-office price shall be assessed 5 per cent., and that premiums in excess of 50 cents are to be taxed 30 per cent. Both of these taxes are to be borne by the persons selling the tickets.

Inasmuch as the brokers and speculators purchase tickets at $2 or $2.25, and that they are likely to dispose of these tickets at prices ranging from 75 cents to $8 or $10, depending on the market of the moment, it is pointed out that the use of stamps is naturally out of the question and that the Government will be compelled to rely upon the statements furnished by the brokers. The conditions attending this branch of the ticket trade are such that it will be next to impossible for Government inspectors to check these figures.

Would Reduce Premiums Asked.

While the statements from the reliable agencies probably would be unquestioned, it is further pointed out that one effect of the tax probably will be the passing of the fly-by-night and irresponsible sidewalk speculator. In the opinion of Mr. Klaw the effect of the increased tax on premiums will be to reduce the premiums demanded and so help to put the entire ticket situation on a sounder foundation, but it was explained by the speculators that the Government profited in proportion to the price asked, and that it consequently was the part of patriotism to ask high prices.

Charles Burnham, manager of the Gaiety Theatre, estimated the annual takings of New York's first-class theatres at $15,000,000, which would mean an income to the Government of $1,500,000. Taxes on premiums and on the lesser theatres, he said, probably would swell this sum to over $2,000,000. It is estimated that the income from the entire country from the amusement tax will be approximately $18,000,000.

There is a disposition on the part of legitimate managers to grumble over the fact that the motion picture tickets costing 25 cents or under are not taxed, it being pointed out that motion pictures at 25 cents are by no means a poor man's amusement.

WANT GERMAN TAUGHT HERE

Several Organizations Oppose Plan to Abolish Language in Public Schools.

The German-American societies of Greater New York are determined to offter stubborn resistence to any attempt to banish instruction in German from the public schools of this city. This was brought out at a meeting of delegates of these organizations held in Männerchor Hall on Tuesday, at which a report read by President Henry Weismann told of the preparing of a circular in German and English in which great stress was to be laid upon the commercial and cultural importance of the German language and which was to be widely distributed.

In the report of the meeting printed in the local German-language press it was noted that "several delegates pointed out that it was in the power of German parents and their children to maintain the instruction of German, as it was only necessary to have petitions to that effect signed in sufficient numbers."

WILSON DID NOT GET MONEY, SAYS SWANN

FIGHTING FOR HIS OFFICE

Never Authorized Assistants to Pay for Testimony, He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—District Attorney Swann today appeared before Governor Whitman as a witness in his own defence in the hearing upon the petition of the City Club asking for his removal for misconduct in office. In the course of his testimony he emphatically denied the charges of subornation of perjury made by Arthur L. Wilson, who was employed in the District Attorney's office in 1915. Mr. Swann further denied the assertion of Wilson that money had been offered to him on the understanding that he was to give false testimony to the Grand Jury against Lucian S. Breckinridge, the former special Assistant District Attorney, who resigned because of displeasure at the alleged attitude of the District Attorney toward persons indicted in connection with the labor troubles in the garment trades.

District Attorney Swann denied that he had authorized his assistants to make any offer of money to Wilson for testimony, and added that he had given express instructions that no money was to be paid to Wilson. During an intermission, when Governor Whitman was called from the room, the District Attorney announced that he would bring Breckinridge to trial on Sept. 20 on the charge of bribery in having accepted money from the Division Street Cloak and Suit Protective Association.

John B. Stanchfield, counsel for the District Attorney, argued that the recommendation of the Governor's special commissioner, ex-Justice George L. Ingraham, that Mr. Swann be retained in office, ought to be respected by the Governor inasmuch as it had been the immemorial rule that a constitutional officer should not be removed because of the erroneous exercise of discretionary power, but only for corrupt acts. Mr. Stanchfield contended that the charges against District Attorney Swann were based upon his exercise of discretionary power. In opposing the suggestion of counsel for the City Club that the story of Wilson be heard by the Governor, Mr. Stanchfield asserted that Wilson had threatened "to go over to the City Club" unless he received $5,000.

Chase Mellen, counsel for the City Club, asked the Governor to remove Judge Swann from office. Mr. Mellen asserted that the report of Commissioner Ingraham upheld the allegations that the District Attorney had sought "to avoid a fair and impartial inquiry" into the charges made by Judge Delehanty that the District Attorney had permitted labor leaders indicted for violence in connection with the garment workers' strike in 1913 to go free and that bail was discharged in some of the cases upon representation to the court that conviction of the defendants was made impossible by the character of complaining witnesses. Mr. Mellen asserted that "the District Attorney had threatened and oppressed all those persons, including Mr. Breckinridge, who were mentioned by Judge Delehanty, or who could be expected to appear against the District Attorney as witnesses." He charged, also, that Judge Swann had prosecuted and persecuted witnesses to indictments against the labor leaders.

When he took the stand A. L. Wilson began a story that rambled on for three hours. Wilson asserted that three Assistant District Attorneys—Dooling, Markowitz, and Talley—had made offers to pay him for testimony to aid in the indictment of Breckinridge. He said he managed to evade process servers from the office of the District Attorney and finally told his story to John K. Clark.

Wilson said that after he had told Clark why he gave the perjured testimony he went to Rabbi Samuel Duchler at Sing Sing prison and told him the story. He said the rabbi told him to take the rest of the money and keep quiet about the whole affair. Rabbi Duchler testified briefly regarding a conversation he had with Wilson in the office of Assistant District Attorney Talley, in which the rabbi said Wilson expressed his intention of demanding money from Judge Swann in connection with his testimony in the Breckinridge case. In reply to questions by Mr. Stanchfield as to how Wilson had been able to acquire an automobile, Wilson said he had a friend who was about to be indicted for receiving stolen goods, but Wilson questioned Assistant District Attorney Bohan, who gave the information that there was not sufficient evidence to return an indictment. It was for this information that the friend gave him the automobile, Wilson said. Governor Whitman reserved decision.

A Million That Paid 20 Cents

THEY laid down, all told, about $200,000 for a mental feast.

They resided also in Kennebunkport, Me., Columbia City, Indiana, Butte, Montana.

Some of them paid the cash in advance. But most of them laid it down "spot cash". They stepped up and bought.

To be exact, just 810,450 of the one million did.

They laid down their two dimes at the newsstands of America—and got the last issue of the Cosmopolitan.

Thus was publishing history made. For no magazine had ever before drawn forth so much money from the pockets of the American reading public for one single issue.

It was "newsstand circulation", and those who know about magazines will tell you that kind of circulation is brought about by only one condition: merit.

Possibly a word that has grown a little gray or bald in these days of superlatives, but let's see where the merit was.

First, there was one story leading the issue that cost Cosmopolitan the price of a country estate. A second story cost three times more than the average American family's income for an entire year.

A third article would pay for a year's trip around the world. A fourth article cost per paragraph more than many newspapers pay per page. A fifth story would send a young man through college.

A poem would have paid for an average woman's hats for five years. And so on.

To the best of our knowledge no magazine has ever in a single issue assembled so much talent — or paid so high a price for it.

But those who run the Cosmopolitan go on the assumption that good prices get good writers; good writers write good stories; and good stories make many readers.

Cosmopolitan appeals to the better types of human beings. Those who have the intelligence to appreciate a style like Robert W. Chambers, or the sentiment that Booth Tarkington knows how to touch, or the superhumor that George Ade alone can reach.

So when you sit down and consider that in these busy United States there were 810,450 individuals out of Cosmopolitan's more than a million who had enough real stuff in them to step up and pay 20 cents for a magazine like the Cosmopolitan, you can become optimistic about America's intelligence.

The October Cosmopolitan, out a few days ago, has reached a new peak in its greatness. Possibly you can get a copy. Many dealers, however, are sold out. If you can't, borrow one. As a magazine, you will look upon it as close to finality.

You who make and sell things—what an audience for you! 810,450 out of a million that were moved to buy a magazine because they liked it, liked previous issues, knew what to expect. Such response by so many is the kind of action that good advertisers offer up their commercial prayers for.

Suppose you tell your story in the Cosmopolitan. You cannot name three publications that can give you as much.

On your way home tonight stop at a newsstand and see how many Cosmopolitans there are left for sale. And then, if by chance, you haven't read the October Cosmopolitan, buy one; and read it through before you go to bed. It will lubricate tomorrow's work.

GIANTS WIN TWO GAMES IN LAST APPEARANCE AT POLO GROUNDS UNTIL WORLD'S SERIES

JAUNTY GIANTS GET LAST TWO AT HOME

RESERVES FINISH OPENER

Imminent National Champions Win 9 to 0, Then Take Second, 2 to 1, in Eleven Innings.

The Giants made their last home stand this season at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and quite a stand it was, too, for they extracted what little conceit was left in the Dodgers, last year's champions, by inflicting a double defeat on the Flatbushers, the first by a score of 9 to 0, and the second, an eleven-inning affair, by a count of 2 to 1. After losing four games in two days to the Giants, all remembrance that Brooklyn ever won the pennant vanished. In the season's innerclub series the Giants have taken thirteen games and the Dodgers nine.

Last night the Giants departed from these shores for Boston, after which they will go West to make the remaining motions of winning the National League blanket. With a few pencils and a pad of paper it can be figured out that there is still a remote possibility of McGraw's men failing to grab the bunting, but if they do there is also a possibility of the water in Niagara Falls running backward. There is about as much danger of the Giants falling down now as there is of the price of lamb chops going down to 10 cents a pound.

Inasmuch as pennants have to be won every year just about the time the chestnuts get ripe, nothing could be fairer than have it fly over the Harlem prairie. The reason that there was only about 8,000 people around at yesterday's valedictory was because many are saving up their pennies, tobacco coupons, and munition stocks in the hope of being able to buy a pasteboard for the Giants-White Sox clash for the championship of the blamed old planet. No announcement has yet been made just what the scaling ladder of prices is going to be, but the public may be safely informed without any breach of confidence that the tickets are not going to be given away.

Reserves Finish Fray.

The Dodgers were so easy in that first game that when the ninth inning wandered around the Giants' line-up looked like the Yannigans playing a Spring game in Texas. The only regulars left in the fray were Schupp and Hoike. The way that Schuppie was pitching yesterday made the other players superfluous. All that he needed was a catcher. He was surrounded by a full team just for appearance's sake.

The Giants' kid southpaw gave the Dodgers two hits. They were widely scattered, one in the first and the other in the ninth. Both were made by Hi Myers. Only five Robins got to first base and only one got a glimpse of second. That was Ivory Olson, who got to first in the ninth on Bodie's error and went to second on Myers's second single. While the Dodgers were at the bat during the game the bases were as deserted as the ticket office of a German steamship company.

All of the Giants' runs of the opener were scored while Sherry Smith was pitching for Brooklyn. In the first Burns walked and Thorpe fouled to the catcher. Kauff singled and sent Burns to third and Georgie scored while Zimmerman was forcing Kauff at second. Schupp ambled in the third and Burns singled to left. Thorpe's sacrifice sent the runners up a peg and Kauff's sacrifice fly pushed Schupp home. Heinie Zimmerman then cracked a homer into the left-field bleachers, jaunting home at Burns's heels.

New York got a lot of hitting practice in the sixth, batting all the way around. After Kauff went down at first, Zim got a single to third, and Fletcher hit to left, Smith walked and filled the bases. Hoike's rap to left scored Zim and Fletcher, and Smith went home on Johnston's error in left. McCarty's single pushed Hoike to third. Jake Daubert then showed a little warpy judgment when he caught Schupp's foul fly. Hoike counting after the catch, while McCarty went to third when Jake got a lurid throw out of his system. Burns singled to centre and coaxed McCarty home. Burns stole second and went to third on a wild toss and Thorpe ended the giddy round when he was thrown out at first. A brand-new pitcher named John Miljus finished the game for Brooklyn.

Tesreau Pitches Second.

When Jeff Tesreau was announced as the pitcher for the second game, no one present was as optimistic as to think that the Giants would win. Jeff fooled everybody and pitched a good game, although he alone was responsible for the Dodgers' only run. This was made in the second inning. With one out, Johnston got a hit when the ball carromed off Jeff's tolerably large feet. Johnston went to second on Cutshaw's out at first. Miller poked a single to short centre and Johnston raced for home. Benny Kauff made a gorgeous throw which was headed straight for Rariden's mitt, but Tesreau leaped into the air and knocked down the ball. Johnston might easily have been a victim at the plate, had Jeff minded his own business.

Just for that poor piece of judgment Jeff had to work hard for eleven innings. Time and again it looked as if he was on the verge of the precipice of defeat, but wonderful support saved him. In the eighth, with two Dodgers aboard the bases and two gone, Johnston walloped a singling liner between left and centre field and George Burns galloped over and made a wonderful stop. Benny Kauff also backed almost to the fence in the eleventh and nipped Johnston's perilous poke. The bang was so deep that Casey Stengel went from second to third after the circus catch.

Davey Robertson tied the score in the sixth when he propelled a home run into the right field grand stand. The game was won in the eleventh, when Kauff started the assault on old Larry Cheney with a safe slam to left centre. Heinie Zim, the Bronx terror, laced a grass-cutter to centre field.

Jimmy Johnston wasn't playing centre field at that moment, he was merely posing out there. As Zim's grounder bounded along toward him it hopped through him without a nod of recognition, and on this life-sized error Kauff romped home with the run. Johnston was so mad at himself that he didn't even chase the ball.

REDS BUNCH THEIR HITS.

Collect 13 Bingles Off Two Cub Pitchers and Win by 6 to 4.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Cincinnati hit Douglas opportunely today, and won the final game of the series, 6 to 4. Schneider pitched in fine form, and allowed the locals to bunch hits in only one inning.

The features of the game were home runs by Schneider and Williams, the latter driving in a tally ahead of him. Chase's single in the seventh inning sent two men home and gave the visitors the game.

PROTESTS FORFEITED GAME.

President of Indians Objects to Ruling in Contest with Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—James C. Dunn, President of the Cleveland Americans, today protested the game which Umpire Owens forfeited to Chicago last Sunday with the score tied in the tenth inning. Owens forfeited the game because he believed the Cleveland players were making a burlesque out of the contest. President Johnson of the American League said it probably would be three or four days before he would announce a decision.

Dunn contends that Umpire Owens should have expelled the offending players from the game instead of forfeiting it, as there was no concerted attempt of the team as a whole to delay the game.

YANKS DROP LAST TO LOWLY MACKS

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—The Yankees closed their season's campaign on the road by losing to the Mackmen at Shibe Park this afternoon, their only defeat of a five-game series. The score was 7 to 1. The Mackmen scored four runs in the opening inning, one more than they had made in the first four games of the series, and fine pitching by Jing Johnson kept the New Yorkers from overtaking the home team. Griffin, Mack's rookie first baseman, featured with three hits, which figured in five of the runs.

Johnson was especially effective in the pinches. He fanned Caldwell in the fourth inning with two on bases and in the fifth he retired the side on strikes. After High had fanned for second out in this inning, Peck singled to centre and went to third on Miller's double to right, Johnson then nipped the prospective rally by fanning Gedeon. The Yankees had a runner on third base in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, when the side was retired.

Caldwell got away badly, but a mix-up on the New York infield helped to bring about the trouble. He walked Jamieson as a starter and Witt followed with a single to left. Bodie went out on strikes and Caldwell threw out Bates, both runners advancing. Strunk was then intentionally walked, so that Caldwell might take a chance with the less experienced Griffin. The rookie grounded slowly toward Peck and Baker cut in to get the ball. He failed to touch it and blocked Peck's view, the ball rolling through short and into left field. Jamieson and Witt scored on the hit.

Then came a double steal by Strunk and Griffin. It seemed that Baker got Strunk as he slid into third, but Umpire Nallin ruled him safe. The Yanks put up a long howl with the usual result, after which Grover tripled to right centre and two more runs came in.

The Yankees picked up their only run in the first inning. Gilhooley worked Johnson for a pass and advanced on High's sacrifice. While Griffin was making an unassisted play on Peck at first, Gilhooley reached third and he scored on Miller's single to right.

There is going to be plenty of baseball at the Polo Grounds during the Yankees' last string of games, which begins today with the Boston Red Sox. Manager Bill Donovan is going to start right in and do some of the work of trying out recruits which is usually left far the Spring training trips.

Beginning next Monday, when all the Yankee recruits will report, there will be two games at the Polo Grounds every afternoon. The first game each day will be between the recruits and the regulars and will begin at 1:30 o'clock. By this plan Manager Donovan expects to be able to pick out the best material from the squad of youngsters which have been discovered by the Yankee scouts during the last season in the minor leagues.

Among the recruits who will be seen in action every afternoon are Thormahlen, Fewster, and Lamar of Baltimore, Ward and Camp of Charleston, Vick and Ruel of Memphis, Hamilton of Vancouver, and Smallwood of Newark.

It is no easy problem, that of adapting Continental farce to American consumption. Given a hero who goes into transports of love over a lady with whom he has picked up acquaintance via the telephone, and whom he has never seen, and the affair may possibly be made credible by representing the chap as a volatile stage Frenchman. But when the lady comes to his bachelor rooms, ostensibly with only a cloak over what may be called her peignoir, one somehow hesitates to take her for a high-minded if adventuresome American girl. And when, in carrying out what is obviously a deception on him, she goes into his room to spend the night, still in the garb of perfect propriety, the imagination staggers. Finally, when another lady appears on the scene who also claims to be the enamored one of telephone flirtation, and the two confront each other in rage and spite, not even the most willing can believe that he is really witnessing what the program calls a "new comedy," and that it all happens in our midst.

By this time, moreover, it is manifest that what must have been a very different thing on the Continent has been transposed into a story of sentimental love. In the phrase of the cartoonist, it's all wrong.

There were times last night when the audience laughed heartily and applauded with reason. Henry Kolker, who played the enamored French artist, gave a very finished exhibition of farce acting, with an earnest intensity of mien that never failed of comic effect. As his more or less drunken friend, racy of speech, humorous, and commonsensible as Mr. Kolker was flighty and impassioned, Will Deming was irresistible. The man-servant of W. J. Ferguson was a delight of whimsical characterization. And the lines allotted to all three were rich with brisk verbal play and humorous twists. At such times one enjoyed the spirit of Continental farce at its best, and with acting thoroughly adequate to it. But unfortunately these passages were mainly incidental.

The plot just would butt into them, with its telephone flirtation that had suffered a sea change into sentimental romance, and its bachelor room situations that had suffered a sea change into nothing. At times one mildly wondered what might have been the exact original of these scenes, as written by Imre Foeldes. But for the most part one wondered how George Broadhurst ever expected that an American audience, long accustomed to see its own life reflected on the stage, would take any real interest in a production so obviously hybrid.

In his curtain speech Mr. Broadhurst alluded with frank and humorous chagrin to the rapid transit of his recent revival of "What Happened to Jones." The public, he said, had shown an entire indifference to a good play of the vintage of 1897, and he was now giving it a chance to show what it thought of a good play of the vintage of 1917. Has Mr. Broadhurst failed to note that the vogue of such bowdlerized adaptations of Continental farce expired only a few years after the vogue of farces of mere "situation"? Probably not. But why hide under a bushel the fact that once more he has given us an opportunity to glance backward at time in its flight?

MRS. FISKE IN NEW ROLE.

Announcement was made yesterday that Mrs. Fiske will be seen this season in a comedy by Philip Moeller, one of the directors of the Washington Square Players and author of several of the short plays which they have produced. The new play, which is as yet unnamed, is a comedy dealing with the life of the French novelist, George Sand, (Armandine Dudevant.) The play will introduce the novelist at the beginning of her love affair with Alfred de Musset.

The piece will be presented next month under the joint management of Klaw & Erlanger, George C. Tyler, and Arthur Hopkins, and Mr. Hopkins will direct the production. Plans for the presentation of Mrs. Fiske in "The Belle," announced about six weeks ago, have accordingly been temporarily abandoned.

Throng at "Rasputin, the Monk."

The first public exhibition of "Rasputin, the Black Monk," a motion picture dealing with the Russian revolution, drew so huge a crowd to the vicinity of the Park Theatre last night that it finally became necessary to call out the police reserves. The film, which depicts interestingly the rise to power and subsequent downfall of Russia's celebrated monk, is chiefly remarkable for Montagu Love's excellent performance in the title rôle. The picture will remain at the Park for ten days.

Berkman Held for Extradition.

Alexander Berkman, who is under indictment in San Francisco on a charge of murder in connection with the explosion of a bomb which killed several persons during the preparedness parade in San Francisco, was remanded to the Tombs by Magistrate Murphy for thirty days yesterday to await extradition papers from San Francisco. Harry Weinberger, counsel for Berkman, said that he would appeal to the Supreme Court for the release of Berkman on bail.

That's the challenge of the Controlled-key to a slighted key stroke

ETERNAL vigilance is the price of Figure Accuracy. Make that vigilance mechanical and positive and you make it sure and easy.

The Controlled-key does just that.

If you fumble a key—do not get it clear down—the Controlled-key automatically throws in the Emergency stop, locking the keyboard.

Should the fault occur say half-way down a column, you don't have to cancel and add it all over again. Simply complete the unfinished stroke, touch the release key and go on. But until this is done, not another figure can be added.

Figured conservatively, the added efficiency of the Controlled-key, shown in comparative tests made by Comptometer users on their regular work against machines without this feature, averages close to 80%.

The knowledge of security afforded by the Controlled-key enables an experienced operator to go at top speed—without the strain of constant watchfulness against slighted keystrokes. The Controlled-key takes care of all that.

Under the protection of this safeguard, even the inexperienced operator has nothing to fear from a faulty keystroke.

SWEDEN CONFESSES.

Heretofore what has been said about the Luxburg murder plot has decorously referred to his accomplice as "the Swedish Minister at Buenos Aires." Hereafter, if we are to take Sweden's present attitude as her permanent one, we shall have to change that designation and refer to "the "Swedish Government at Stockholm." The world, finding a cap belonging to Germany's accomplice, politely refrained from saying outright that the cap fitted Sweden. Sweden steps jauntily forward, claims the cap, and insists on putting it on.

First we learn, on the authority of Admiral LINDMAN, the Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs, that Baron LOWEN will not be recalled from Buenos Aires. As if that were not enough, this astonishing diplomat proceeds next to take the position that LOWEN is perfectly justified in forwarding anything LUXBURG may give him, provided only that LUXBURG takes the precaution of not telling him its nature. And finally he reaches his climax; he does not doubt, he airily says, that Secretary LANSING has in his possession "more documents of a similar nature"—similar, that is, to these dispatches arranging secret warfare on neutral Argentina—which were sent from Berlin to Buenos Aires and forwarded by the Swedish route.

In view of these statements, which no newspaper or statesman would have dreamed of formulating as charges against the Swedish Government, but which are now put forward by that Government itself, what is there to say of Sweden? That she prefers the interests of Germany to her own reputation? That these cynical and shameless revelations point to the existence of a closer bond between Germany and Sweden even than had been suspected, perhaps as close a bond as that which existed between Germany and Greece when CONSTANTINE was on the throne? But more remains behind. There is an entente between Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, by which these three countries agreed to act as a unit in dealing with questions arising out of the war, and of that entente Sweden is the leader. Norway and Denmark are not friendly to Germany. Does the double-dealing of Sweden, so candidly revealed by her Minister of Foreign Affairs, amount to a betrayal of the interests of her two partners?

What is this power which Germany has of debauching the mind of any nation which allies itself with her, so that her infractions of the moral code are copied as a matter of course by Austria and Bulgaria? In her most cynical moments Germany never surpassed the cool effrontery with which Admiral LINDMAN takes on the shoulders of the Swedish Government the violation of international decency hitherto charged against Baron LOWEN. He says that LOWEN will not be removed. Argentina has something to say about that. The early reports indicating that Argentina was not fully roused to the enormity of the offense committed against her are now seen to be erroneous. At noon yesterday, without even waiting to learn the whereabouts of the missing LUXBURG, she sent his passports to his legation. The courtesy of a request for an explanation from him could not properly be extended; he was not merely a diplomat who had abused her hospitality, but a man who had plotted the cold-blooded murder of her citizens. Toward LOWEN she probably contemplated acting with more consideration; but now that she learns, on the authority of the Swedish Government itself, that that Government assumes his responsibility, there is no more reason for courtesy toward Sweden than toward Germany. Her action is prompt, dignified, and adequate in LUXBURG'S case; it should not be less so in Sweden's case. But it is not for Argentina alone to deal with Sweden, as it was before the day of LINDMAN'S luminous confession. It is for the allied nations to consider how they will act toward a pretended neutral which not only confesses its services to Germany, but boasts of them.

ENLIGHTENMENT.

Maine, it seems, wasn't sufficiently "enlightened" to vote for woman suffrage. In New York State, illumination is supposed to have dissipated some of the darkness of the electorate which gave that 188,000 "anti" majority in 1915. The second campaign will have better luck. Just as it did in Ohio, doubtless. Unenlightened Ohio beat woman suffrage in 1912 by a majority of 87,000. In 1914, enlightened Ohio beat woman suffrage by 182,000. Spread the light!

The light is spreading. The illumination is brilliant already. In this year 1917 what could illuminate more radiantly the suffragist sense of public duty, of patriotism, of the proportionate values of public needs and civic responsibilities than the statement of an illustrious feminist to the campaign conference of the New York State Woman Suffrage Party at Saratoga the other day:

> You have been splendidly organized, and through that organization have been able to do unparalleled work for the nation since war came. But let me tell you now that, for the next two months, nothing you can possibly do for the Government will be equal in value to the work you do to carry this State for equal suffrage next November.

The martyrs of Washington are enlightening. Miss RANKIN is enlightening. The Woman's Peace Party is enlightening. Enlightening are the suffragists sure to turn up in the polyonomous societies and councils and conferences and leagues and unions to oppose conscription and the war and promote German peace. Enlightening is the plan of the New York Socialists, proposed more than two months ago, for nightly outdoor suffrage meetings. The Socialists are particularly eager "to spread the "coming of democracy for women," for, as The New York Call, a Socialist organ, says for our enlightenment, "virtually every active Socialist woman is a pacifist."

There is enlightenment in the congratulations of the Massachusetts Socialist Convention to the Washington picketers. There is enlightenment in the strength and the activities of the I. W. W. in Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Washington, States blessed with woman suffrage, and socialism is strong in those States. The fight for woman suffrage "must be won," says The New York Call. There is no end of enlightenment.

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION MYTH.

The Murphy Foundation candidate for Mayor has been grievously perturbed by the insidious efforts of the Rockefeller Foundation to control the public school system of the city. The Gary plan is a device thrust by plutocracy upon the public schools. Shall they be taken away from the people? That is about the legend which Judge HYLAN'S discoverers have foisted on his innocence, and which he retails to an amused public.

Mr. WILLIAM G. WILLCOX, President of the Board of Education, unkindly robs Judge HYLAN of his plutocratic-scholastic issues. The fatal facts have been published before, but, coming from an authoritative source, they make Judge HYLAN'S bombinations in a vacuum still more curious and instructive to the student of phantom politics. Dr. ABRAHAM FLEXNER and Mr. RAYMOND FOSDICK are the two men supposed to be tainted with Rockefellerism. Dr. FLEXNER, a Secretary of the General Education Board, had never met Mayor MITCHEL until after his appointment as a member of the Board of Education by Mayor KLINE in 1913. He resigned in 1917 on account of other duties that did not leave him time for service on it. While he was a member, though never active in administrative work, he constantly stood for the appointment of the best qualified men and women as teachers without regard to favor or politics, and he sought "some effective means of dismissing inefficient teachers." If these policies are plutocratic, everybody who wants the schools run in the best way for educational results is a victim of plutocracy. Dr. FLEXNER, it seems, was more interested in high schools than in the elementary and vocational schools, on which the Rockefeller Foundation is imagined by the Tammany publicists to be laying its unholy hand.

Mr. FOSDICK never had anything to do with the Rockefeller Foundation or the General Education Board. He was Secretary of the Bureau of Social Hygiene, maintained by the younger Mr. ROCKEFELLER, when appointed to the Board of Education by Mayor MITCHEL in 1914. On account of his absences from New York, he was frequently absent from the board meetings, and he resigned in 1916.

Somebody with patience and determination and a sense of humor should try to extract from Judge HYLAN'S mind his singular superstition that the Rockefeller Foundation is the rock of all evil in the Board of Education. The Judge is new to the public, a surprise and a sadness to Tammany itself. Surely, he is a profoundly serious statesman, and whoever in East Fourteenth Street fed him with this cock-and-bull myth of the Rockefeller Foundation controlling the schools played a cruel joke on an unsuspecting soul.

The Gary plan, which Tammany has bidden Judge HYLAN to shudder at, is, as we know, an adopted child of Tammany. Mr. THOMAS W. CHURCHILL, who wanted to be the Tammany candidate for Mayor this year, found it and loved it. As Mr. WILLCOX reminds us, in June, 1914, Mr. CHURCHILL, then President of the Board of Education, with the Mayor and other city officials, visited various Western cities, including Gary, Ind. Mr. CHURCHILL was much impressed with "The Amazing Schools at Gary," to borrow the title of his article in The Journal of Education in the following October. He was more and more certain, then, the more he thought of it, that "the "adoption of the Gary plan is practicable and easy * * * highly "desirable." In June, 1915, Mr. CHURCHILL'S Board of Education voted to introduce the Gary plan in the Bronx. It is the Churchill administration that introduced the Gary plan into the New York schools. If Mr. CHURCHILL'S ardor for it has cooled, none the less the records show where the responsibility lies. It is something to be proud of. Tammany chooses to imagine that it is something to be hidden, to be ashamed of. Tammany invents and emits the Rockefeller Foundation myth.

The Tammany issues have dissolved even faster than Tammany Hall is dissolving.

THE YEAR'S CROPS.

The September crop report is interesting in its bearing upon our ability to export foodstuffs to our allies. The Government's former estimate of the crop is increased by 15,000,000 bushels, to 668,000,000, which exceeds by 28,000,000 last year's yield. Probably there will be a small addition in the final report. How much can be exported to our allies? It is estimated that under normal conditions 620,000,000 bushels are required for home consumption and seed. This would leave a surplus of 48,000,000, but we shall send much more across the Atlantic.

In the last few months consumption here has been reduced, owing to the appeals and arguments of Mr. HOOVER. All our churches and fraternal societies are earnestly engaged in urging that the quantity used be cut down in order that the needs of our war partners may be satisfied. Probably the reduction will exceed 100,000,000 bushels, and we shall be able to export at least 150,000,000 in the crop year. Our European allies will look to other countries for about 540,000,000, and will hope to receive 300,000,000 from the United States and Canada. It is a reasonable prediction that they will not be disappointed.

Our wheat supplies are under control. Exports to European neutrals have been checked. The effect of the embargo is seen in the record of weekly shipments from the two countries. The average was 8,000,000 bushels in the six weeks immediately preceding July 15, and it has declined to 3,000,000 for the following seven weeks. Australia has a stored surplus of more than 15,000,000 bushels waiting for ships. Large new crops are coming there and in Argentina. Our allies will have the wheat they need.

The greatest corn crop ever known is promised, 3,248,000,000 bushels, or 665,000,000 more than were harvested last year. Frost may cause a slight reduction, but the yield will be without precedent. This great supply will promote gains in livestock. Last year we had 356,000,000 bushels of potatoes; the reported quantity this year is 550,000,000, and this does not include the garden output, which has been multiplied by three. In a large majority of the products in the Government's list the estimated yields very considerably exceed those of one year ago. For ourselves there will be abundance, if wheat be excepted, and much can be spared for our associates in the war. All that is harvested should be saved. It will be useful here or abroad.

ADVERTISING THE BONDS.

Representative JOHNSON of California offered in the House the other day an amendment to the Bond bill providing that a sum not in excess of $2,500,000 "shall be used for advertising in the "daily and weekly papers and such "other mediums of publication as the "Secretary of the Treasury may direct." This was an amendment to the section of the bill providing for the payment of all necessary expenses, including rent, incident to the sale of the next issue of war bonds. In support of this amendment communications from publishers were read in the House, chiefly from publishers of newspapers published in California, The Southern California Associated Dailies, The Evening Index, The Fall Brook Enterprise, and The Lost Hills Gusher.

To this and all proposals for advertising the war bonds Secretary MCADOO has made a sufficient answer in this explanation of the practical effect of a requirement that the Government shall promote the sale by paid advertising:

> A private enterprise may advertise in a selected number of mediums most useful for its purpose, and may control its expenditures for that purpose without any limitation except its own desires or ability to pay. If the Government engages in such a campaign it must advertise in every newspaper and periodical in America without discrimination; all must have equal treatment and should have equal treatment. * * * The cost of such an undertaking would be very great and would exceed the appropriation which Congress has thus far made available for the sale of Liberty bonds.

It is not going to be necessary to promote the sale of bonds by paid advertising. Mr. MCADOO points ont that the newspapers and press associations loyally and powerfully co-operated with the Government in the first Liberty Loan. "They carried its message "into every home in America and deserve great praise for their service of "patriotism." In telling the people of the financial needs of the Government and the details of the bond issue they were printing news; in urging subscriptions to the loan they were performing a patriotic duty. The newspapers, says the Secretary of the Treasury, "have the satisfaction of "knowing that they contributed immeasurably to the success of the "loan."

Mr. MCADOO has not decided the question; that is for Congress if it chooses to take action. The Secretary says that the question is being carefully considered, but we assume that, unless otherwise directed by Congress, he will not embark upon the costly and unnecessary venture of advertising the next issue of bonds. The newspapers can be depended upon to render the same loyal and patriotic service in connection with the next issue that they rendered in helping the sale of the Liberty bonds. Mr. MCADOO is right—paid advertising of the bonds would be both expensive and superfluous.

CHILD MINDS IN RUSSIA.

"We are dark and ignorant, and the "educated people have always de"ceived us," Russian soldiers have said over and over again, so our Petrograd correspondent informs us. There is, indeed, something of the pathetic in the case of these groping masses, with whom we grow impatient sometimes because of their reaction to the first influences that come upon them. Perhaps we shall understand them better if we attend to some of the anecdotes of the revolution that are now coming out in the French press.

Take, for instance, the story told by M. DE FLERS, associate editor of the Figaro, who is with the Russian troops in Rumania. One of those soldiers' meetings which have been fashionable under "the new discipline" ended in a rush of the men to a channel between two lakes, where nets kept the fish from passing into the larger lake, in which it would be more difficult to net them. They began to pull out and destroy the barriers and nets, crying, "Liberty for the fish!" When some of their officers tried to interfere, a noncommissioned officer explained:

> Fish are God's creatures like men, and have the same right to liberty. But men can talk and so have made the revolution, while fish are dumb and can never make theirs. It is therefore our duty to aid them, because it is contrary to nature to pen them up in order to capture them easily and kill them.

Something very lovable and engaging about this kind of mind. But it is a little unfair to expect it to grapple in a large way with great public questions. Take, too, the incident narrated by M. NADEAU of the Temps, about how the workmen in a factory waited upon the engineers and informed them that in view of the new order of things they must go down into the mines and work like the rest. Then followed this colloquy:

> The Engineers—And who will do our work?
> The Workmen—Some of us will take turns in your offices.
> But what will you do there?
> The same as you do—sit around, sharpen pencils, and smoke cigarettes.

In the same spirit, the founder and curator of the Ethnographic Museum at Petrograd reports that the caretakers and cleaners there have petitioned the Government for the suppression of his office, on the ground "that a curator is useless in a mu"seum, that he does nothing and costs "money, as they, who carry the keys, "wield the feather brooms, and clean "the floors, are the real curators."

MILUKOFF has told how, in one of his conferences with representatives of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, a Delegate said to him: "What do we want with the "Dardanelles, anyhow? They are ice"bound three-fourths of the year." It was doubtless on such arguments that the Russian Government was forced to give up its demand for Constantinople as a war aim.

It is not all cowardice or malevolence, or even an intelligent fanaticism over socialism, that has brought Russia to her present pass. The responsibility rests on those who, having minds of honest darkness to deal with, penetrated that darkness not with light but with flame.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Battle Worth the Seeing.

If there were not more than a sufficiency of war elsewhere, the impending outbreak up State of hostilities between GEORGE W. PERKINS, the might-have-been-and-still-may-be Chairman of the New York Food Commission, and Senator ELON R. BROWN, the most determined antagonist of any meddling at all with the sacred law of supply and demand, would fill with eager expectations of coming excitements everybody in whom survives any trace of the primordial joy in battles well fought. For each of these belligerents can be trusted to deprive the other of any doubt that he has been in a fight, and, though they are different in methods of warfare, they are equals in courage, and neither is at all likely to ask or to grant quarter.

Of course Mr. PERKINS is not as experienced as is Senator BROWN in dealing with the rustic elector, but to counterbalance that disadvantage he has on his side the fact that the Senator's weapons and tactics are now somewhat antiquated, and he has no longer the backing of an army with every private in it a docile partisan with a deep reverence for party names and cries. And a good many of those to whom both will have to appeal for support are not producers of the sort for whom the Senator's heart beats so warmly, while even those who are do not love with a true and holy passion the assorted middlemen and commission merchants who considerably more than themselves would profit by a maintenance of present facilities—or infacilities—for distribution.

It can be prophesied with an approach to safety that Mr. PERKINS will have no great difficulty in convincing up-State audiences that he is as much the rural producer's friend as he is the friend of the urban consumer, and that the interests of these two classes are not, as Senator BROWN so vehemently contends, diametrically opposed or even opposed at all. He can tell the country folk that really it is not his ambition to keep food out of the market or to reduce its price below the point where anybody can afford to raise it. Yet that, in substance, is the accusation he will have to meet, and he couldn't ask better luck than the having of a task so easy.

The Senator, however, was not born yesterday, or even the day before, and whatever can be accomplished by political arts acquired in the old school of politics he can be trusted to achieve. Fur will fly, and eke feathers, before this contest ends. The temptation to call it "Homeric" is strong and—well, as has been well said, "the trouble with resisting temptations is that they may never come again."

Modesty Befits Courage.

Deeply thoughtful attention is deserved from every American soldier now in or soon to be in France by the warning in Mrs. GERTRUDE ATHERTON'S letter, printed on this page yesterday. In it she told, in her own lucid and vigorous fashion, of complaints from abroad that some of our men have created in a people notable for courtesy the impression that we are, to put it gently, not as tactful as we might be, and a little more disposed than we should be to play the rôle of rescuers rather than that of allies working in a common cause.

Like advices are coming to other recipients from informants of the sort quoted by Mrs. ATHERTON—not Frenchmen, but Americans who know France better than do the recent arrivals there and understand better the conditions that exist in that country. It is indeed desirable that our men should be mannerly as well as courageous, and if they quietly review the events of the last three years they will go about their work with the modesty becoming men who have much to learn—men whose highest hope should be in time to emulate the heroism and equal the achievements of teachers who long have borne, and still long must bear unaided, the heaviest burden ever placed on human shoulders.

Something of boastfulness is pardonable in soldiers. There survives in them the ancient impulse to sing their own prowess before going into battle. And there must be an element of good in a folkway that has persisted since the celebrated dawn of history. Just the same, there should be a wise moderation in the following of this old custom, and especially should the warrior who is a bit belated in putting on his armor chant softly when he is in the presence of veterans whose exploits by no possibility can he surpass.

America is by no means alone in believing that its entrance into the war will hasten its termination. But America is at least as fortunate in having such magnificent allies as the Entente nations are in having her co-operation against the common foe. Over here, too, there has been seen a little more than enough of the feeling about which Mrs. ATHERTON'S correspondents complain. The war will not end because we are sending to France material out of which can be made soldiers as good as any in the world: it will end because Great Britain and France and Italy and the rest of Germany's foes bore so nobly the first shock of attack and at such frightful cost to themselves through the three weary years fought gallantly to protect the endangered liberties of the world.

Turning New Light on Cossacks.

Late developments in the Russian situation reveal more reasons for revising the long-accepted opinion that of all the tools of despotism the Cossacks were the worst because the most willing and the most ruthless. Yet it is true that this race of professional warriors have on innumerable occasions served the Czar—or his Ministers or his favorites—with a dreadful efficiency fully accounting for the esteem in which they have been held out of their own country. They have used their whips or their sabres in enforcing the will of irresponsible authority too many times to be counted.

Now, however, they are recognized by most of the foreign correspondents as one of the few elements of stability and practicality in their distracted country, and seemingly there is a general belief that they can be as efficient in the support of democracy as they were in the support of autocracy until the day of the great downfall came.

The Cossacks, it is declared by those who know Russia, are not hated by the people whom they have so often maltreated. They are, on the contrary, regarded with a good deal of pride, as well as of respect, for the wonderful fighters they are, and it is a significant fact that the man of the new hour is not only himself a Cossack, but he is the Cossack who arrested the Czar and put him in prison.

Rainier or Tacoma.

In this morning's TIMES John Muir has something to say anent the question as to whether it is, will be, or should be Mount Tacoma or Mount Rainier.

As the mountain raises its hoary head into the clouds it will always be a thing of beauty, rugged and massive, "frosty but kindly," always magnificent and impressive in all the grandiose lines of its Olympian contour. This is the mountain as seen from Tacoma.

So much depends upon the point of view. Go to Seattle and look at Mount Rainier, as we will call it when in that city. Sad to say, there the old mountain is very commonplace. It is just a snow-capped mountain. So why not let Seattle have Mount Rainier and let Tacoma have Mount Tacoma?

MAY EQUIP LOFTS TO LODGE SOLDIERS

DEARTH OF CHEAP ROOMS

Problem Will Grow in Seriousness as Thousands from Camps Seek Relaxation Here.

Because some of the hotels of New York are gouging soldiers and sailors who, on leave of absence, have a night to spend in the city, the officials of the Young Men's Christian Association are considering the establishment of a system by which this constantly increasing number of fighting men can be lodged at reasonable rates.

The unpatriotic attitude of some of the hotels has been brought forcibly to the attention of the Y. M. C. A. in the welfare work of its War Council. As the purpose of the war work of the Y. M. C. A. is becoming better known the number of soldiers and sailors appealing to it for aid is growing fast. For instance, more than 100 soldiers went to the Y. M. C. A. tent in Bryant Park, at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, Saturday night to seek guidance to lodgings which did not cost more than they could afford to pay.

These men, a majority of them strangers to New York, had found that some of the hotels which advertised in blazing light that they had rooms for $1 and upward asked them almost invariably from $2 to $4 for a night's lodging. Two soldiers reported that a so-called hotel in Sixth Avenue, above a saloon, had demanded $4 for a room for one night. Of course, the Y. M. C. A. has lodging facilities of its own, but these are overtaxed by the calls of the soldiers. It is the belief of the Y. M. C. A. officials that the situation may become worse if something is not done.

It is not unlikely that a loft building may be fitted up with beds and other accommodations where soldiers can be lodged at a nominal cost. This will be done if the appeal which the Y. M. C. A. will make to the middle-class hotels has no effect.

W. H. Reynolds is the Secretary in charge of the war work tent in Bryant Park. Yesterday he told about some of the things he had learned in trying to house hundreds of soldiers overnight in New York.

"Something has got to be done about it," he said. "Some hotels are trying to gouge the soldiers for all they can. It is most unpatriotic on the part of businesses to which the war has brought unexampled prosperity in the past three years.

"The complaint is not against the first-class hotels. Their rates are known and it is not to be expected that they can afford to make rates which a private soldier who gets $30 a month can afford to pay. But you know that all over New York there are middle-class hotels which advertise that they have rooms for $1 and up. These are the hotels to which a soldier looking for a room overnight will turn.

"But hundreds of the men have told me that in most cases all the $1 rooms were 'gone,' and that they were asked to pay $2, $3, and sometimes $4 for a room without bath for one night. Of course, the hotels will say that they were well filled. Two soldiers told me on Saturday night they went to a cheap hotel with rooms 'from 50 cents up,' and were asked to pay $4 for a cheap room. I called up a well known popular priced hotel Saturday night. It advertises that it has so many rooms for $1 up. I told the hotel I wanted lodgings for two soldiers, and they said the price would be $2 each. I asked if they had any $1 rooms; they said not. Then I told the manager it was for the War Council of the Y. M. C. A., and he said I could send the 'boys' along and $1 would be the price. In my mind that was no alibi for the hotel; he made the cheaper price because it was the Y. M. C. A. talking. If the men had gone there they would have been charged $2 each, and tired, as they were, would probably have paid it.

"It may be asked why we don't send the men to boarding houses. That is easily answered. Most of the men who come to New York on leave wait until after the show or about midnight to look for lodgings. They cannot be sent to the average boarding house at that time. Even if they got there earlier, there are few landladies who wish to rent a room for one night, and if they do we have found they generally ask $1.50. In addition the soldier has to put up 50 cents for a key. That makes $2, and most of the men, when midnight of their night off comes, have spent most of their money and want to get a room for 50 or 75 cents.

"Now some sort of arrangement must be made whereby they can get accommodations at that price. I have read that one of the big department stores in Paris fitted up two whole floors for the use of pollus on leave. Perhaps it would be better in New York, where business is rushing, that a loft building be fitted up so that the men can be cared for. Or perhaps the hotel men will do better by the soldiers when the thing is presented to them in the right light, and we may be able to do better with the city's existing facilities.

"But the problem will get larger. When the national army cantonments are going in full swing there will be, perhaps, thousands of soldiers on leave in New York City every night. Thousands of the single men who will go from New York will give up their homes in apartments or boarding houses or hotels and will have no homes to which to return. They will be at the mercy of the town, and they must be treated liberally. Surely the hotels with rooms for $1 and upward must give these fighting men their lowest rate. The public should make them think some of the hotels have become intoxicated with recent success and will sober up and do the right thing by our soldier boys. If they don't, they ought to.

"We have just begun to map out this welfare work for the soldiers, and this lodging problem has just become large. It is something that must be worked out soon."

Commenting upon the actions of the soldiers on leave with whom he came in contact, Mr. Reynolds said that, on an average, no more than one or two a night showed the effects of drinking.

THE SONG OF A KNITTER.

Knit, knit, knit
On thy cold gray wool like the sea,
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

But one can not utter thoughts,
When knitting away like me,
For every sentence is broken
By "knit two, purl two, and three"!

Oh, well for the fisherman's boy
Oh, well for the sailor lad

They know not of stitches dropped—
Of ridges and ribs and purls;
They can, if they want to, read
Or take thought of dress and curls.

And the débutantes do, too,
And whether in auto, in train or home,
'Tis all that they care to do.

And the shapely sweaters move on
But oh, for the sight of a quiet hand
And a needle that is still!

Knit, knit, knit,
Nothing but knitting I see,
But the quiet grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me.

SOCIALISTS WORRY TAMMANY

Their Activity Threatens to Take Many Votes from Hylan.

Serious concern is felt in Tammany over the activity of the Socialist Party in the Mayoralty campaign. Four years ago the Socialists, with Charles Edward Russell as their candidate for Mayor, were satisfied with polling 38,000 votes. This year they say they will not rest content unless they poll a vote of 100,000 and the early indications, according to Socialist leaders, are that it will go higher. At the wigwam it is very generally realized that any added strength shown by the Socialists will be drawn almost entirely from Tammany Hall. Usher Solomon, State Secretary of the Socialist Party and manager of the Socialist Mayoralty campaign, said that the fears of the Tammany leaders were fully justified.

"Only today," he added, "a Tammany man walked into my office and, after a pleasant chat, carried away a big supply of Socialist campaign literature, including copies of our municipal platform. He told me that he came as an emissary of fifty active Tammany workers in one uptown Assembly District who had agreed to support Morris Hillquit, our candidate for Mayor. For obvious reasons, I cannot at this time give you the name of my visitor or any further details of our conversation.

"We are going to make a straight-out fight on municipal issues, and we have a platform which we believe will appeal to voters in both the Democratic and Republican Parties who are beginning to get tired of the existing order in municipal affairs. But we will make no attempt to conceal the fact that we are for peace and against war. We stand absolutely with President Wilson in his contention for 'peace without victory' as the only kind of peace that will be permanent and bring any blessing to the world. And peace cannot come too soon to suit us."

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, said that the Socialist vote would break the record, due largely to the pacifist policy of the party.

"We could not possibly avoid the peace issue even if we wanted to," said Mr. Hillquit, "for anti-militarism is one of the leading tenets in the Socialist creed. But our campaign will be conducted on political and economic lines, and we will not, as has been said, make a special appeal to the German vote and the Irish vote any more than we will to the Russian, the Italian, or the native American vote."

Secretary Solomon announced that the Socialists had obtained Madison Square Garden for the opening rally of the Mayoralty campaign on the night of Sunday, Sept. 23. Seven thousand seats which were placed on sale, Mr. Solomon said, had been disposed of in two days, showing an unusual degree of interest. The remaining seats will be free. It is the most ambitious move yet made by the Socialist Party in a municipal campaign. Morris Hillquit, Frank A. Sleverman, and Edward F. Cassidy, candidates for Mayor, Controller, and President of the Aldermen respectively, will be the principal speakers.

Announcement was made at the headquarters of the Democratic Fusion Committee last night that the Citizens' Democracy, an organization which made its appearance in the municipal campaign four years ago, and then first supported the Mayoralty boom of Charles S. Whitman and after he had been discarded became a supporter of Mayor Mitchel, had come out in support of Judge Hylan. The Citizens' Democracy has an emblem, and, it was said last night, would nominate Judge Hylan, Charles L. Craig, and Alfred E. Smith, the Tammany standard bearers, as their own candidates through petition.

It was announced last night that Judge Hylan would make an address at his headquarters today to a delegation from the Young Men's Democratic League, an organization which took active part in the Wilson campaign last year and recently came out for Judge Hylan for Mayor. Frank D. Shelley, Chairman of the league, will head the delegation.

MAYOR PRAISES THE POLICE.

Record Not Second, He Says, to That of Any Other City.

At a luncheon of the Brooklyn Civic Club at the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn, yesterday Mayor Mitchel told of what his administration, particularly in the Police and Charities Departments, has accomplished in the way of transit facilities for Brooklyn, and touched upon the water front improvements. Of the work of the Police Department the Mayor said:

"No great department employing 10,000 to 11,000 men will be without a blemish. There will always be occasion for some complaint, but you take them all in all and today they are as fine a body of men as will be found anywhere on earth. I think that you will find that the record of the New York Police Department is not second to that of any other city. One thing in which I take a special satisfaction is that on the outbreak of the war in Europe Commissioner Woods put his department on a purely military basis. He obtained the co-operation of the officers of the United States Army at Governors Island. He obtained military drill for the men, and now all of them have gone through training camps in successive groups at successive times. Finally, he organized the auxiliary force of citizens known as the Home Defense League, which today numbers in trained men about 11,000, and listed ready for training in service about 16,000."

WHEAT SHIPMENTS URGED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Farmers were urged not to hold back their wheat, but to ship it at once while the railroads were able to handle it more easily than might be the case later, in an appeal issued today by Fairfax Harrison, President of the Southern Railway, and Chairman of the Railroads' War Board.

"We are assured," said Mr. Harrison, "that the price of wheat determined by the President will be maintained throughout the year by the Food Administration, and that there can be no objective in holding wheat. In fact, the farmer saves interest and deterioration by marketing early.

"At the present time the railways can handle more wheat to storage points for ready distribution to the mills to be manufactured into flour for domestic consumption and exportation to our Allies, where it is much needed, and for which shipping is available at ports. The railways wish to appeal to the farmers to bring their wheat to market now. Later in the Fall the handling of many more products will cause congestion and delays.

"The railways are now being operated in common to serve the entire community. The demands for movements of military supplies will be an increasing burden. Therefore, the railways must have the co-operation of the entire community."

Dr. Rufus Cole Buys Novelist's Place Near Mount Kisco.

The country estate of Richard Harding Davis, a few miles from Mount Kisco, Westchester County, where the novelist died on April 11 last year, was purchased yesterday by Dr. Rufus Cole, whose city home is at 990 Park Avenue. The property, which was known as Cross Roads Farm, contains about 300 acres, with a residence and several outbuildings. Mr. Davis, who owned the property for several years, had made many improvements, and it was one of the finest country places in that section of Westchester County.

Julia Beverley Higgens acted as the real estate broker in the sale, and she also sold to Dr. Cole an adjoining plot of thirty-two acres on the Armonk-Bedford road owned by Oliver D. Stewart. Two large lakes are on the property Dr. Cole, it was said, will make additional improvements for a country home.

MORE TAMMANY MEN JOIN WAR ON MURPHY

DENOUNCE WIGWAM'S BOSS

Voters Now Have Chance, They Declare, to "Chase Vicious and Violent Forces Out of Public Life."

The revolt against the control of Tammany Hall by Charles F. Murphy and his inner circle reached the Eighteenth Assembly District last night, where about 1,000 former Tammany workers went over in a body to the City Democracy and in stirring resolutions pledged their support to Mayor Mitchel and the Fusion ticket. The district, which is on the upper east side, was formerly the stronghold of Nicholas J. Hayes. The present Tammany leader is H. Warren Hubbard. It is a strong Italian district and some of the most influential Italian members of Tammany Hall live there.

The resolutions denouncing Murphy were adopted at a meeting at Parkway Hall, 2,229 First Avenue. A regular Democratic organization was formed and several of the speakers promised to work for the success of the Fusion ticket. More enthusiasm was displayed than at any of the other district organization meetings that have so far broken with Tammany. The resolutions were presented by Jacob Levy, who was a Tammany Assemblyman from 1900 to 1912. He is Vice President and member of the Board of Governors of the Pocasset Club, the regular Democratic organization of the district.

The meeting was presided over by Laurence Cioffi. Among the speakers were Chaveller Vito Contessa, A. Mitchel Leslie, member of the Tammany Hall Law Committee; Antonio Ruvalo, Salvatore Soraci, Carnelo Amoruso, Giovanni Daniell, and Joseph R. Truesdale, candidate for City Court Justice. The resolutions, after stating that Murphy entered into a willful scheme to cheat representative party government and conspired to "rig up a fake fusion of Democratic elements," says:

> "He and a group of servile and nondescript office seekers concocted an alleged Business Men's League, all for the purpose of fooling New Yorkers into the belief that he was at last willing to consult the wishes of business persons and clean citizens of New York. Everybody knows that these two paper misfits, handled by Schneider and Yeaka, and presuming to represent decent Democrats and honest business men, are owned body and soul by Murphy and his gang. Both have joined in setting up the fraudulent issue of the poor against the rich and other radical and un-American issues entirely foreign to honest city government in New York. Murphy and McCooey, thinking they were pulling the wool over the eyes of the Democrats in this city, had Schneider and Yeska pick out the claptrap group of nonentities for New York's great army of free Democrats to vote for.
> "This campaign affords a chance to every decent voter in New York City, regardless of party, to forever drive out of New York City's life men of the type of Murphy and McCooey, this being the first time in many years that New Yorkers have these two characters in the same boat, and the first time in many years that they have had a real opportunity to chase out of public life at one blow the vicious and violent forces conspiring to wreck decent life and decent business in America's leading city. It is resolved that we, as an organization and as individuals pledges itself and themselves to the cause espoused by the City Democracy to wipe the city clean of the wicked conspirators aiming again to put the bosses in power and the people under their thumbs, and to achieve this end by re-electing the ticket headed by Mayor Mitchel."

Steps were taken yesterday by the Democratic Fusion Committee to organize the Italians in the interest of Judge Hylan. Former Coroner Antonio Zucca, one of Tammany's vete

QUEEN ELEANORE OF BULGARIA DIES

KNOWN AS ROYAL NURSE

A Practical Woman Who Devoted Years to the Equipment of Hospitals for Military Use.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 12, (via London.)—Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria died here this afternoon. She had been ill for some time, and recently King Ferdinand, Crown Prince Boris, and Prince Cyril were summoned to her bedside.

Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria, who was known as the Royal Nurse in Europe on account of her having cared for wounded soldiers in the hospitals during the Russo-Japanese and Balkan wars, was the Princess Eleanore Caroline Gasparine Louise, daughter of Prince Henry IV., of a younger branch of the Reuss-Kostriz house of Reuss, a small German State, where she was born fifty-seven years ago.

She was married to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria in 1908, and was his second wife. Rumors of her illness were first received here in a dispatch from Amsterdam, dated Sept. 11, which stated that Queen Eleonore was seriously ill and her husband, Prince Ferdinand, and his two sons had hurried to Sofia to her bedside.

The Queen of Bulgaria was a practical woman and devoted several years to the study of nursing and the equipment of hospitals for military purposes in war time. She first won fame as a nurse in the Russo-Japanese war, when she was decorated on the field for her services with General Kuropatkin's division of the Russian Army. At that time, 1904, she was an obscure German Princess, and not thinking of ever becoming the Czarina of Bulgaria, as she was four years later.

The Princess had charge of a Red Cross train equipped by the Grand Duchess Vladimir and was under fire several times on the battle fields of Manchuria. After her marriage in 1908 to King Ferdinand the Balkan War occurred and the Queen took a personal and active interest in the Red Cross work. She acted as a nurse at the front and also in the hospital which she founded at Sofia, and also took care of the cholera stricken and maimed soldiers at Adrianople.

She worked so hard that her health became impaired, and King Ferdinand requested her to relinquish her nursing and return to the palace at Sofia. He detested hospitals or anything to do with medicines and always wanted to be surrounded with roses, lilies and other beautiful flowers.

The attention of the American public was attracted to Queen Eleonore of Bulgaria in the Spring of 1914, when William Caspar, her special representative, arrived in this city to make arrangements for her to make a tour of the United States and lecture on the condition of the Balkan people. Her object was chiefly to let the American people know how the Bulgarian nation had suffered through the second Balkan war of 1912-13, and the funds collected during the tour were to be devoted toward the alleviation of distress among her people. Committees were formed and arrangements made to bring the Queen over here.

Owing to the political conditions at Sofia and the feeling of general unrest in May, 1914, the visit was postponed until October, 1914, and then the war came in August of that year and everything was abandoned.

Help Re-Make the World

THE call of the time is for the engineer or applied scientists, including the physician and sanitarian. Young men who are ineligible for military service for one reason or another, or who can render better service by completing their technical courses, should train themselves to become builders of the future.

Vast parts of Europe are in ruins. Our own railroads and industrial equipments will need rebuilding after the terrible strain of war time. Yet the supply of technically-trained men does not meet the demand now. When the war is over the demand will be still greater.

America must take a leading part in the reconstruction of the world. Products of our factories, farms, and mines, raw materials and finished products will be needed in enormous quantities. Physicians and sanitarians must be supplied to aid the wounded and to restore sanitation.

War is not only fought at the front. And if you cannot serve there you should train yourself technically to direct production of clothing, chemicals, food, munitions and machinery of war. And then in the days of reconstruction to come you can help to repair the ravages of war.

Men who hold the helm of the Ship of State voice this appeal. Let them convince you that if adapted for applied science you are urgently needed in that field. Read and heed their words. Do not allow the supply of trained engineers, chemists, biologists, metallurgists, agriculturists and physicians to be depleted. Enter or continue in a technical school if qualified for such a career. You will thereby be performing a patriotic duty, and will help the industrial progress of America and of the world.

President Wilson
"There will be need for a larger number of persons expert in the various fields of applied science than ever before. Such persons will be needed both during the war and after its close. I would particularly urge upon the young people who are leaving our high schools that as many of them as can do so avail themselves this year of the opportunities offered by the colleges and technical schools, to the end that the country may not lack an adequate supply of trained men and women."

Secretary of War Baker
"Let the young men of America devote themselves to the various branches of engineering education, so that when the war is over the call will not be in vain to young men who have had the training and have learned the lessons necessary to enable them quickly and rapidly to play a part in that great reconstruction enterprise."

General Wm. N. Black,
Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army
"This calamitous war must not be allowed to disorganize our structure for all time, and one of the things we will need after the war, just as we have needed it before the war, just as we are needing it today, will be trained young men to take the place of the older who go out."

YAPHANK CULLS OUT ONLY 3 PER CENT

MEN DRILLED AT MARCHING

Hotel Chefs Find No Jaded Appetites Among Drafted Men — Authorities Have Accepted 1,000 Men.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, YAPHANK, L. I., Sept. 12.—The physical examination of half the recruits had been completed tonight and only 3 per cent. had been found unfit for military duty and recommended for discharge from the national army. As the medical examinations by the Camp Upton army surgeons have been unusually searching, this low proportion is considered remarkable by officers here who point out that at Plattsburg nearly 400 students, or 9 per cent., were rejected for physical disability.

More than 600 recruits were examined at the temporary hospital today and subsequently were mustered into the United States service, making a total of 1,000 men found eligible. With twenty-eight army surgeons at work, physicians at work predicted that the examinations will be completed tomorrow. After their physical examinations the recruits are inoculated against typhoid and paratyphoid. The European method of inoculation has been adopted whereby one antityphoid and two antipara-typhoid serums are combined in one. This reduces the number of subsequent inoculations to two instead of seven as formerly.

Colonel Isaac W. Littell, head of the construction branch of the Quartermaster Corps, who is in charge of cantonment construction, arrived at the camp today for a conference with Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell. Colonel Littell also made an inspection to ascertain the progress made by the contractors in building the cantonment.

Rudimentary drills for the recruits were continued today. Captains took their companies for short marches through the military reservation, and particular attention was paid to the proper marching cadence of 120 steps to the minute, in this the recruits showed a noticeable improvement. Most of them are able to hold up their heads, and march with an easy, swinging stride.

Much attention is also being paid to physical drill, and the recruits are put through the exercises devised by Major Koehler, the officer who trains the West Point cadets. The officers are careful not to overtire their men, and rests are frequent. These exercises not only straighten the men and take the kinks out of their shoulders, but they train them to quick obedience to command. Bodies as well as minds become accustomed to act in unison. Several metropolitan hotel chefs who have been sent to Camp Upton by the New York Hotel Men's Association are preparing food for the recruits. The chefs are having the time of their lives, for they are catering to no jaded appetites. Moreover the chefs have a new experience in being forced to confine their culinary ingenuity to the Government allowance of 38.37 cents a day per man. Once they return to civil life they should be eagerly sought by hotels which have begun to serve war portions.

QUIT POLICE FORCE FOR ARMY.

Under a special order issued yesterday by Leon G. Godley, Acting Police Commissioner, twenty-five policemen who were drafted into the national army obtained leaves of absence. Twenty-two men were on active duty, while three were probationary patrolmen assigned to temporary posts and taking instruction in the training school. As soon as the men receive their notices to report for military service their leaves of absence begin, with the understanding that they terminate after the men have been mustered out of the military service at the end of the war. Then they will be restored to active duty in the Police Department.

Several policemen have already left active duty to enter the army or to undertake training in the officers' training camp at Plattsburg, and police officers at headquarters said last night that those men were leaving the department temporarily with leaves of absence under the same conditions granted to the drafted men. No official figures have been given out by the Police Department as to the number of men now in the army under leaves of absence, but it was said by officers last night that there would be more than a hundred. When a plan for giving policemen and firemen permanent exemption was discussed it was decided that the number taken by the draft would be so small that the departments could replace the men easily.

AUSTRIAN IS NOT EXEMPT.

District Board Decides He Must Serve in National Army.

One of the 2,822 applications for exemption from the draft disposed of by the District Board in a record four-hour session yesterday was that of an Austrian who will have to serve, although it was contended in his behalf that he had never applied for citizenship, and was really a subject of an enemy country. Ex-Judge James A. Delehanty, a member of the committee considering the case, insisted that it was time to stop the "self deception" about Austria not being an enemy of the United States. The appellant was Henry H. Berger, who had been accepted by District Board 187.

"We are just as much at war with Austria as with Germany," Judge Delehanty argued, "the only difference being that there has been no actual declaration of war. We should not resort to a technicality, and put the man in the army where, I believe, he would be a menace." The exemption was denied after it was pointed out that the Provost Marshal General had ruled that Austrians were not enemies and the board was bound to abide by his rulings. Of the 2,822 cases, 2,140 were formal appeals by the Provost Marshal General. In only 30 of these were the decisions of the local boards reversed. Of 642 appeals from local boards, 600 cases were affirmed.

BERNHARDT TO VISIT CAMP.

Will Entertain Plattsburg Students Some Time in November.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, Sept. 12.—Second Lieutenant Henri Poire of the Eighth French Light Infantry arrived here today, and was assigned to the staff of Captain Pomern Groninger, senior bombing instructor. Lieutenant Poire is here in an advisory capacity in bombing work, and noted the fact that the American method of having a score target with scorers for the grenadiers was not thought of on the other side.

Range practice will not be started until a week from Monday. New targets are being put up for pistol practice. The taking down and assembling of rifles, sighting, deflections, elevations, and distances has all been gone through with.

An equestrian class for all reserve officers will be started on Sunday morning and continued during the balance of the camp, the instructor being Major William Kirby, U. S. R., of New Haven, and Adjutant of the New England regiment.

Two advance bookings were recorded today for the camp theatre, Sarah Bernhardt having promised to be here with her company on the second Sunday of November, while on the first Sunday of that month the "Hitchy-Koo" company of forty people will appear. Saturday of this week the students will be entertained by Billy Taylor and Stella Mayhew and Bud Fisher films.

Theodore S. Farrell of New York was discharged today because of physical disability. Four others were let go, all from the New England regiment.

CAMP DIX TO BE ENLARGED.

Provision Will Be Made for Training 60,000 Men There.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 8.—It was announced at division headquarters today that this cantonment is to be enlarged and provision made for the training of 60,000 instead of 42,000 men, as originally intended. Plans are now under consideration for increasing the barrack quarters. It is expected that the camp is to be continued as a permanent training reservation. Colonel Scott Scannell, Judge Advocate General of the New Jersey National Guard, has been assigned to succeed Major George F. Brensinger, who was killed last night in a motor accident.

The Rev. Dr. W. C. Stimson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Red Bank, who is the Field Director here for the American Red Cross, is arranging to obtain woolen sweaters for 5,000 of the 12,000 men in camp. The strike of telegraphers on the Trenton branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad has delayed freight bound for Camp Dix. Cars of perishable commodities have been held up on sidings, and much of this freight will be a total loss.

Four big guns for the artillery, the first to reach here, were nicknamed by the boys this afternoon "Woodrow Wilson," "Teddy Roosevelt," "Bill Taft," and "General Pershing," and they have been turned over to the 307th and 308th Field Artillery.

WANTS A CITY REGIMENT.

Mayor Suggests That Men Drafted from Departments Form One Unit.

In a letter to Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, Mayor Mitchel yesterday suggested that the men of the city departments who have been drafted for the National Army be organized in a regiment by themselves. Among the men drafted, he said, were representatives of all city departments, particularly Police, Fire, and Street Cleaning.

"It seems to me," wrote the Mayor, "that an army unit, which I think could be obtained from the men drafted from the municipal service, would be an organization of which not only the city but the nation could well be proud. You can readily see that the esprit de corps of such a unit, which might be properly designated, would be very great."

Captain Boyce Will Train Negroes.

Captain A. C. Boyce, U. S. A., who has been training the drafted men known as Boyce's Tigers at Governors Island, announced yesterday that he desired to form similar classes for the benefit of negroes already selected for the national army, or those who were expecting to be called to the colors under the law. The hours of training for the negroes are from 7:45 to 9:45 P. M. every weekday except Saturday.

TO HALT MOVEMENT OF GUARD NEXT WEEK

Change in Spartanburg Arrangements Due to Necessity of Getting Draft Army to the Camps.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 12.—Because the movement of the national army soldiers will demand all of the equipment available, no New York guardsmen will be ordered to this camp between Sept. 15 and Sept. 22, the period estimated as necessary for the transportation of the drafted men. The guard movement will be resumed on Sept. 23, and by Oct. 1 all of the Twenty-seventh Division will be here.

This change in transportation arrangements caused the countermanding of orders issued for the Second and Third Infantry, but no change was made in the instructions to the Twelfth and the First Battalion, Signal Corps. On Friday, the Brigade Headquarters of the Field Artillery and the First Infantry brigade will be ordered to camp and on the day following the Engineers' Battalion, Second Battalion of the Second Field Artillery, and the First Squadron of the First Cavalry.

Beginning today, the movements of all New York troops, waiting in New York City, will be controlled from divisional headquarters at the camp here.

A precedent in dealing with violations of military law was established today when Major J. Leslie Kincaid, Judge Advocate, made public his review of the findings of the General Court-Martial in the case of Private August W. Brackman, Co. D., Seventy-first Infantry. Brackman was found guilty of being asleep and drunk on post at Colliers Dam, N. Y., on June 21. The sentence was dishonorable discharge, loss of pay, and one year at hard labor.

The Judge Advocate approved the findings, except that part recommending the discharge of Brackman, and the decision, which probably will be referred to in dealing with cases which may arise in the training of the national army, is counted upon to deter many men who might seek to evade military service through the deliberate commission of a grave offense.

A cold snap has struck the camp and for two days the temperature at reveille has been about 40. The guardsmen have been forced to makeover their tent-homes, and tonight, when the Guard was changed, service overcoats were issued to the men. Last night much hardship was experienced because of the chill wind that blew steadily.

Returning to his tent this evening, Major Joseph W. Farrell, Quartermaster's Corps, narrowly escaped being wounded when his chauffeur failed to observe a sentinel posted in a dark patch of woods. The sentry challenged the speeding car, and when he got no response fired a shot over the automobile. The machine did not slow down and the private took aim at the body of the machine. Though he missed, the whistle of the bullet past the Major's head brought a prompt halt.

MODIFY MOBILIZATION.

Will Start Sept. 19, as Planned, Except for Certain Restrictions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Mobilization of the 40 per cent. quota of the national army will proceed Sept. 19, according to schedule, all over the United States, the War Department announced today, except for some of the districts where recruits are assigned to Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J.; Camp Meade, Admiral, Md., and Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I. Delay in construction at these camps, with the inability of Eastern railroads to transport large numbers of recruits under a rearranged schedule, caused the Provost Marshal General's office to establish the new program.

Mobilization will start Sept. 19 for the 40 per cent. quotas of New Jersey and Delaware assigned to Camp Dix; 45 per cent. quota of Pennsylvania recruits to Camp Meade, and 20 per cent. quota of New York recruits to Camp Upton. The 40 per cent. quota of New York recruits assigned to Camp Dix and the 45 per cent. quota of Maryland and District of Columbia recruits to Camp Meade will mobilize Sept. 26. New York's additional 21 per cent. quota assigned to Camp Upton will mobilize Sept. 28. The War Department has refused the railroads' request that this mobilization be set for Sept. 28.

Throughout the country the mobilization will be in progress for five days, one-fifth of the quota moving daily to avoid overtaxing the railroads.

San Carlo Company Gives a Spirited Performance of Old Comedy.

So spirited a performance of Rossini's "Barber of Seville" as the San Carlo Company gave at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre yesterday afternoon has not often been heard at regular theatre prices in the ninety-odd years that this famous old lyric from Beaumarchais's comedy has made history on the New York stage.

Philip Bennyan, a baritone, of Armenian birth and brought up in California, whence he went to study with Lombardi in Italy, was heard in opera for the first time here, and his Figaro fitted well into the general ensemble. Mme. Vaccari sang the music of Rosina with much charm, Mr. Agostini was the Almaviva, Mr. Cervi the Dr. Bartolo, and Mr. De Biasi the Basilio, all good in their parts. The delicate fancy of the old comedy, more difficult to convey than some roaring comedies of today, pleased the matinée house greatly.

The company announced a third week, when it will add Massenet's "Thais" to the best of the operas already heard.

Philipp Reopens the Yorkville with a Revival of His Musical Farce.

Adolf Philipp last night reopened his Yorkville Theatre in Eighty-sixth Street with a revival of his musical farce, "The Landlady," which he first played many years ago at the old Germania Theatre. The occasion was the beginning of Mr. Philipp's second year at the theatre, and the only change wrought by this country's entry into the war is the translation of the name of the playhouse from the Yorkville Deutsches Theater to the Yorkville Theatre. The performances are in German.

"The Landlady" is closely akin to many of Mr. Philipp's pieces, and was greeted with much laughter last night by a capacity house. It affords Mr. Philipp, in the rôle of a baker, the opportunity to create considerable fun, and also gives Mizi Gizi a chance to be coy and kittenish.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "The Scrap of Paper" at the Criterion has been definitely set for next Monday.

"Lombardi, Ltd.," coming to the Morosco, will open on the night of Monday, Sept. 24, instead of next week.

A performance of "Mary's Ankle," current at the Bijou, will be given in the barracks of the Federal Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg on Sunday night.

The first consignment of costumes for "Chu Chin Chow" arrived yesterday from London. Henry E. Dixey has been added to the cast.

Lucille Watson has been engaged for a role in "As Others See Us," a comedy by Lillian Trimble Bradley and Henry B. Stillman, which is to be tried out in Stamford this month.

Among those engaged for "Under Pressure," which Klaw & Erlanger and Edgar McGregor are producing, are Fred Niblo, Violet Heming, and Hilda Spong.

Joseph Ritter has received word from Mary Anderson that she will be unable to undertake an American tour in the near future owing to her broken engagements abroad.

Drug Sales Improve Somewhat.

Weekly Drug Markets will say today that inquiries for these articles have increased, but sales are moderate, and principally to firms obliged to replenish stocks. The market is almost depleted of crude drugs. Advances were numerous during the week, affecting particularly botanical drugs and essential oils. Declines took place in acetphenetidin, lanoline, and refined camphor. There is great dissatisfaction over the delay in issuing export licenses to Northern Europe. Shipments to that part of the world have almost ceased. It is believed that the War Revenue bill will cause further advances in proprietary medicines and other drugs.

To Have a Wall Paper Week.

Plans for a national wall paper week, which grew out of a meeting of manufacturers and wholesalers at the recent convntion in this city, were announced yesterday. The time set is the week of Oct. 1 to 6, and the chief purposes of the movement are to stimulate the interest of the public in wall paper at a time when the opening of the Fall decorating season is at hand, and also to increase the selling activities of the retailers and to preach the gospel of better service. The movement is under the direction of the Allied Wall Paper Industry, and the plans include the use of magazine and newspaper advertising, special window displays, and placards, letter stickers, &c. Salesmen now on the road also are co-operating in the movement.

High-Grade Dresses Called For.

Local dress manufacturers report reorders coming in very liberally during the last week. In most cases, it seems, there is considerably more call for the higher grade garments. One manufacturer, for instance, reports that his resales of garments wholesaling for $75 and $100, and even higher, are much greater, correspondingly, than his resales of garments under $75. Fur trimming continues to be much in favor. Retailers all over the country are said to be experiencing an unusually good early business, in spite of the many predictions of a bad season.

Demand Develops for Suits.

The gloom that has prevailed with but few exceptions throughout the suit trade ever since the Fall buying season commenced shows unmistakable signs of weakening. The amount of orders coming in daily from customers who, when they were here, took only a small allotment of merchandise, is an indication to the trade that things are not going to be as bad as they at first looked. The point has been reached, it is said, where quick delivery, which invariably is requested, is out of the question. It looks very much, according to many in the trade, as though not a few retailers in various parts of the country are going to find themselves hard put to find merchandise to offer their customers.

Quiet Colors Sell Best.

Velours and broadcloth are proving, according to a number of coat and suit manufacturers, to be the most popular fabrics for the coming season. Brilliant colors and striking combinations, however, are said not to be attracting as much actual business as are the quieter, more subdued blues, taupes, olive drab and dark purples. With prices for these materials abnormally high, some slight comfort is taken from the very marked tendency toward straight narrow skirts and scant tight-fitting coats, which very materially lessen the cost of the finished garment.

Velvet and Corduroy Sought.

Conditions in the local textile markets, according to representative manufacturers of velvets and corduroys, would seem to point to their having one of the best seasons they have ever experienced. The demands from the millinery trade for velvets is reported to be so strong that in many cases premiums are paid for the desired colors, such for instance, as purples, grays, and browns. One of the outstanding features of the present market is the sudden growth in popularity of corduroy suitings, chiefly in white, though some colors also are sought. Garment manufacturers from all sections of the country are said to be sending in calls for this material. The only cloud on th horizon for makers of these fabrics is the labor situation, which is said to be causing a number of the mills considerable worry.

The Fur Situation is Good.

"Manufacturers are very busy, and retailers lately have been doing a surprising business," says Fursten Goldberg & Co., of St. Louis in their review of trade conditions, "all of which indicates a most healthy condition in the trade." In view of the unusual freight congestion and the slow movement of merchandise, shippers of furs intended for the October auction sale of St. Louis, which begins on Oct. 8, are requested to forward them at once, as Sept. 20 is the last day on which they can be received."

Local Designers Use Bustle.

The reappearance of the bustle gown among the latest Paris importations has resulted in a number of unusually attractive creations of domestic origin appearing in the Fall offerings of local manufacturers. One of these, which is a fair example of the artistic ability of local designers, is made of dull green velvet lined with silver cloth, with a tightly fitting bodice buttoning closely down the front, and with beautifully fitted skin-tight sleeves. It has a draped skirt, narrow at the feet, gathered up and puffed in the back forming the bustle effect. The silhouette is striking, new enough to attract and artistic enough to be, it is confidently expected, loudly welcomed.

Early Buying of Spring Silks.

The old maxim about the early bird and the worm was never more truly illustrated than by those few silk houses which, anticipating that this would be an early season, got up their Spring samples and sent their road men out a month or so ahead of time. Their foresight has been rewarded by a larger volume of business for the Spring trade than they have ever experienced and by every prospect of continuing activity for some time to come. The silks most in demand are novelty trademarked fabrics for sport and street wear. There is said to be a rather decided trend toward more subdued colors than prevailed throughout the season just past, with plain white most in favor, and combinations of navy blue and white and black and white running a close second.

Gray Goods Demand Better.

Tuesday's inquiries for printcloths developed into business in the local gray goods market yesterday. Sizable sales of 39-inch 64-68s were made at 9¼ cents for November-December delivery, estimates of the total business on this construction running up to 25,000 pieces. Second hands appeared sold out on these goods at 9 cents or else had withdrawn them in anticipation of a firmer market, which made it necessary for buyers to go to the mills and pay the extra quarter. October-November sales of 39-inch 68-72s were put through at 10½ cents, and it was reported, but not confirmed, that they also sold for this year's delivery at 10⅝ cents. For delivery in October, November and December, 38½-inch 60-48s were sold at 8 cents. There was not much call for coarse goods during the day, and sales of importance were few. Printcloths closed this way:

Twenty-eight individuals and firms were admitted to membership in the Silk Association of America yesterday at the regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Managers, at 354 Fourth Avenue.

M. Shapiro, resident buyer, has removed to 1,170 Broadway. He was formerly situated at 1,133.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Have Another Weak Day, with Greater Activity —Drop in Rubles.

The Russian situation may have given an impetus to the sagging tendency which has been predominant in the stock market for some weeks, but the declines which were scored in an active session yesterday are explainable on the ground of diminishing confidence. People are loath to buy stocks, even at present levels, while Congress is debating the new taxes. The prospect of a maximum income tax of 67 per cent., against the old rate of 15 per cent., and the outlook for a very high excess profits levy have brought people face to face with the early necessity for having a large amount of ready cash on hand to meet the payments. Some corporations which but for this contingency would be considered in a strong financial position are troubled to know whence they can take a large sum of cash out of the business without declaring dividends or neglecting property needs. The market has been almost bare of investment buying orders and but for the large short interest which has taken stocks on each new break the decline might have been much more violent. Brokers reported yesterday that a considerable amount of liquidation has been taking place in stocks bought at higher levels. The disposition in financial circles is to look for marked improvement when Congress adjourns, or possibly as soon as it has finished with the new war-tax measure. The declines will be stopped when people begin to get their bearings on the meaning of the new tax burdens as applied to them, and an interesting readjustment of prices should then take place.

Yesterday's selling resulted in pronounced weakness in the early afternoon, with a partial recovery in some issues at the close. One by one the higher priced stocks are being leveled down by liquidation and short selling. Yesterday, Louisville & Nashville broke from 119½ to 113½ at the low; Norfolk & Western to 112. Steel was sold in very large volume after touching 109¼ and declined a full 4 points before the rally set in. Reading made a new low for this movement at 72⅜, closing with a decline of 3½, and Delaware & Hudson sold down to 95½. In many other issues losses ran over two points. The market has proved vulnerable to large offerings, especially in the less active issues.

The present temper of investors is such that a prospect for selling three billion dollars of Government bonds is not inviting. Despite the assertion made on the floor of the House, Wall Street is not engaged in depressing the price of the bids. It would like the situation very much better if the securities markets were advancing, instead of declining, on the eve of the new issue. With the revenue bill out of the way, a quick recovery in sentiment may make the task of marketing the new 4s much easier than it now promises to be.

With the situation in Russia growing daily more confusing it was not surprising yesterday that the ruble should drop to 11.50. Quotations have reached such a point as to be meaningless in expressing bankers' views of the Government's credit. With no buying demand, offerings of comparatively small amounts of exchange on Petrograd resulted in wide breaks in the price of rubles.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Russian Exchange Is Becoming Daily More Unfavorable.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The stock market was steady today, but little inclination was shown to do fresh business while the Russian situation is obscure. Russian bonds and oil shares were easy and Argentine rails flat on poor traffic returns. Gilt-edged securities and colonial bonds were well maintained, and oil and rubber stocks and a few specialties in the mining section were active and dearer. Chinese bonds were firm with silver.

Money was in better demand and discounts were steady. Russian exchange jumped to 450 early, but later declined to 370.

The position of Russian exchange is becoming daily more unfavorable. Today's rate, quoted at from 430 to 450 rubles indicates a loss of confidence in 94.60, indicates a loss of confidence in the ability of debtors in Petrograd to meet their engagements under present conditions.

Prices Heavy on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Prices were heavy on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 62 francs 80 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 5 centimes.

BIG DROP IN COTTON

With Net Loss of 63 to 77 Points Prices Reach Lowest Level of Season.

There was a renewal of heavy selling in the cotton market yesterday, and prices not only lost their recent rally but made new low ground for the season. December contracts sold off from 20.60c, the early high level, to 19.86c, or 75 points under Tuesday's closing figure, and 10 points under the lowest price touched on the break of last week. Closing prices were at practically the lowest point of the day, with the tone barely steady at a net loss of 63 to 77 points.

Southern spot advices were more bullish than otherwise, but the weather in the South was warmer, no threatening developments were reported in connection with the Caribbean Sea disturbance, and the advances of Monday and Tuesday had evidently left the market in an easier technical position. Under such circumstances the break was attributed to a renewal of the previous bear movement, and the talk of relatively firm spots in the South was offset by expectations of increased offerings with the advance of picking and ginning.

The market opened at an advance of 72 points on September and of 6 to 20 points on later months. The bulge in the spot month, which has been inactive, was considered of little significance in its bearing on the general market, and it was clear from the start that the covering movement had pretty well spent itself on the advances of the last two days. There was further scattered buying, but it was much less general and urgent than recently, while selling was more confident. A slight rally preceded the publication of the weekly report of the Weather Bureau, but the statement made a more favorable showing than expected, and there was heavy selling during the afternoon. Part of the pressure came from leading spot people, while weakness in the stock market and an unfavorable view of the Russian situation, may have inspired some of the selling from Wall Street sources.

It had been expected that the weekly report of the Weather Bureau would comment unfavorably on unseasonably low temperatures in the South. The only mention of temperature in the report was reassuring, however, while it was stated that recent rains in the Southwest had improved the prospects for a top crop. No exports were reported for the day.

ARGENTINE NOTES DUE.

Government to Pay $11,200,000, Part of Loan Which Matured in June

Discount notes of the Government of Argentina to the amount of $11,200,000, which fall due today, will be paid, according to an announcement made yesterday. These notes represent part of a loan of $16,800,000 which matured on June 15 last, one-third of which was paid on that date, and the balance renewed in the form of new notes, payable today.

Earlier in the year the Argentine Government had $60,000,000 of loans outstanding in this market, but with to-day's payments, the remaining obligations consist of $15,000,000, due Oct. 1, and $5,000,000 due Dec. 15.

Dispatches from Buenos Aires, printed yesterday, announced that the Argentine Congress had passed a measure approving a domestic loan of 73,000,000 pesos for the purpose of meeting maturing obligations in the United States.

PASS SUBMARINE DIVIDEND.

Boat Corporation Conserves Cash for Capital and Excess Taxes.

The Submarine Boat Corporation, which controls the Holland patents and has been doing much Government work, passed its quarterly dividend yesterday. The reason ascribed for omitting the payment of 75 cents a share was that the organization needed to conserve its cash resources to be used as working capital and also to provide for excess profits taxes of the future.

The corporation derives its income largely from the Electric Boat Company, the operating unit. An extra dividend expected at this time to go from the Electric Boat to the Submarine Boat Treasury was deferred.

"The company's plants have unfinished business amounting to over $50,000,000," said President Henry R. Carse, after the Directors' meeting, "and are working day and night with very large forces. The company has in hand today cash and free marketable bonds of about $750,000 and current accounts receivable of about $1,000,000. The company has no bills payable, and owes nothing except the current accounts payable of about $550,000. The company has a large deposit of rubles in Russia which are unavailable at this time.

"A large amount of merchandise has been manufactured for foreign account, but has not yet been shipped. As soon as either of these matters is adjusted the company will be in receipt of substantial funds."

TAX BILL TO CONFERENCE.

House Acts on $2,400,000,000 Measure—Zone Postal Rates Revived.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The House sent the $2,400,000,000 War Revenue bill to conference today, but it required a special rule to do it. Speaker Clark appointed Democratic Leader Kitchin and Representatives Rainey, Illinois, and Dixon, Indiana, Democrats, and Fordney, Michigan, and Moore, Pennsylvania, Republicans, as conferees to represent the House. General instructions were given to disagree to all Senate amendments, which number 321.

The conferences will be begun tomorrow. Already an informal proposal is before the conferees to insert in the bill the original increase on first-class mail matter and an increase on second-class rates under the McKellar zone system. These two increases would bring the total yield under the bill up to $2,500,000,000.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin made a protest today against an increase in second class rates, and blocked unanimous consent to send the bill to conference, forcing a special rule.

"The zone system for the transmission of mail should never obtain in the United States," he said. "The one thing which has done more than anything else to bring about a unity of sentiment and feeling in this great republic has been the dissemination everywhere of the newspapers from one section of the country to another at the lowest possible rate. The zone system tends to circumscribe the circulation of publications. There is no more reason why they should be subjected to a zone system than that letters should be carried at zone rates."

FERRY PROPERTIES SOLD.

Foreclosure Proceedings End Brooklyn and New York Company.

Five old ferry properties owned by the Brooklyn and New York Ferry Company, which were formerly used by the Grand and Roosevelt Street ferry lines, were sold at foreclosure yesterday in the Vesey Street auction room by Joseph P. Day. An upset price of $375,000 was placed on the property, and it was purchased for $376,800 by Charles E. Hotchkiss of the law firm of Davies, Auerbach & Cornell, acting for a client whose name was not divulged.

The parcels included those at East Street, Broome, and Delancey; four at Kent Avenue, Sixth, and Ninth Streets on the East River, and at River, Grand, and First Streets. The sale was the result of an action brought against the company by J. J. O'Donohue and S. L. Husted to recover encumbrances totaling $597,291. Back taxes and water charges were $240,000. From the price paid for the property there will be paid a judgment of $100,849 held by the Fidelity & Guaranty Company and a debt of $135,920 due the Columbia Trust Company.

State Bank Call for Sept. 8.

ALLIES BUYING EXTENSIVELY

Financial District Hears That Great Britain Will Soon Enter Market for Shells.

The enormous extent to which Government buying of steel is likely to go in completing the war program is becoming more and more evident to the trade as time passes. Government purchases are now supplying the great bulk of all business being taken by the mills, and this by no means applies alone to ship plates and other material for the merchant marine. The European allied Governments are also buying extensively.

In respect to foreign purchases of war steel, this significant point is noted by The Iron Age:

"Representatives of some of the Entente Allies are again actively negotiating on their own behalf, indicating the suspension, for the time at least, of efforts to get steel for them through the War Industries Board at the prices to be fixed later for the Washington Government.

"By the latest survey of army and navy needs the mills will be called upon to supply the Government far more shell steel than has been talked of in the great prominence given to ship plates. It develops also that some large shipments on shell steel contracts are yet to be made to Great Britain, and that that country will buy a considerable additional amount of such steel from the United States."

This steel trade periodical notes that the Attorney General has given an opinion that manufacturer members of the Advisory Committees may continue their activities at Washington by declaring their interest in each Government contract that may be taken by their companies. The Steel Committee has not resumed its functions, it is said, as the opinion is considered vague on some points and machinery is lacking for complying with the conditions imposed.

Along the line of buying by the Allies, it was reported on good authority in the financial district yesterday that negotiations would soon begin for the placing of fresh shell orders here by Great Britain. When the old orders were completed last Spring it was believed that England's home plants would make all the shells needed, largely from raw material obtained in the United States. Now, it is understood, the military plans call for huge reserves of high-explosive shells for next Spring's offensives in France, and the United States will be called upon to help make something like 3,000,000 shells, chiefly of the 6-inch size. Nothing in regard to definite inquiries could be learned in quarters where shells of the sort were made in 1915 and 1916.

"The fetters which Government requirements have forged around the iron and steel industry have been voluntarily assumed and are being willingly retained. They are galling in some instances where the Government plans to distribute the burden equally among different producers have gone astray. One large steel company, for instance, is supplying certain commodities at well over 100 per cent. of its capacity, a condition that is made possible by shifting certain equipment to uses for which it was not intended. Of the immense facilities and output of this plant fully 75 per cent. are being concentrated on Government work. Although this proportion is not infrequent, the industry as a whole has only a small per cent. of its capacity so engaged, but the essential need for prompt delivery gives this a dominating influence."

NEW RESERVE BANK MOVE.

Institution Here Announces Opening of Collection Department.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that it had established a collection department for the handling of all collection items, drafts, notes, coupons, and acceptances, &c.

The bank will, in its discretion, send all items for payment direct to the institution at the place where the item is payable or to another agent for collection, but will assume no responsibility for the failure of any of its direct or indirect collection agents, it being held liable only when proceeds in actual funds or solvent credits shall have come in its possession.

Regarding the charges to be made, Governor Strong of the Reserve Bank says:

"The Federal Reserve Bank of New York will make a service charge of 10 cents per item in addition to the exchange charge that may be made by the collecting bank. In case of the collection item being returned unpaid, there will be an additional charge of 10 cents which will be paid to the bank presenting the item for payment. A service charge will not be imposed for collecting coupons. The only charge for the collection of coupons payable outside of the Federal Reserve City will be the usual one covering the expenses of registration and insurance or express charges plus any charge made by the collecting bank. ## AMSTER TO AID NEW HAVEN.

Will Form Stockholders' Protective Committee—Praises Road.

N. L. Amster, who successfully conducted the fight of the Stockholders' Protective Committee in the reorganization of the Rock Island Railroad, and who is President of the Investors' Protective Association of America, yesterday announced that at the request of a number of stockholders, he had decided to form a similar committee for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and that he has already made a preliminary examination of the New Haven's financial situation.

As a result of this examination Mr. Amster, in the statement in which he announces the formation of his committee, declares that he has become convinced that the situation of the New Haven is very far from being as bad as the present low price of the stock, and reports afloat about the road, had indicated.

"From careful analysis and mature consideration," he says, "I am convinced that there are very substantial equities behind the New Haven stock; that the present market price of $22 does not in any way reflect the equity nor the value of the stock. I am convinced that the company's financial conditions and its needs are greatly exaggerated."

Mr. Amster then reviews the achievements of his Rock Island committee, and points to the alarming stories circulated about the Rock Island, which proved baseless, as evidence that the New Haven is not so badly off as it seems. He concludes by asking stockholders who are interested to send him their names and addresses, with a statement of their holdings, which he will consider confidential, and intimates that later, when his committee is formed and plans formulated, a deposit of stock may be called for. In the meanwhile he will publish in the near future a closer and more complete analysis of the New Haven's situation.

The management of the New Haven yesterday announced that all arrangements had been completed for another very important improvement in its equipment and service, in the widening and general improvement of the South Boston cut, through which the company serves its freight terminal in that part of Boston, and several piers and large industrial establishments. The cut is to be widened sufficiently to carry four tracks instead of two, and the rails will be spaced far enough apart to permit two trains to pass each other on adjacent tracks, which at present is impossible. The improvement will take eight months and will cost about $1,000,000.

BEET SUGAR PRODUCERS OPPOSE HOOVER PLAN

In spite of dispatches from Washington describing the system of licenses under which Food Administrator Hoover expects to control all manufacturers, refiners, and even large dealers, in sugar, it was learned in the financial district yesterday that widespread opposition to Mr. Hoover's program has developed among American beet sugar manufacturers, and that he will not carry it out without a fight.

Mr. Hoover's first move toward controlling the sugar industry, after he had put a stop to dealing in sugar features on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, was to summon the principal beet sugar manufacturers into conference, and to ask them to agree voluntarily to a very considerable measure of regulation of their business. He also proposed a maximum price for sugar of $7.25 a hundredweight. His proposals were made verbally, and all the conferees verbally agreed to them.

Since then, however, Mr. Hoover has submitted his proposals in writing, in the form of a carefully drawn-up agreement which he has asked the manufacturers to sign, in confirmation of their verbal agreement, and a long and very complete code of rules and regulations which, under this agreement, they would be expected to obey. And the beet sugar manufacturers, examining these written proposals, have come to the conclusion that their understanding of Mr. Hoover's verbal proposals was quite different from Mr. Hoover's.

The first difficulty has arisen over the maximum price of $7.25. The beet sugar men now say that in agreeing to this price, they understood it to be for their product, free on board their mills, but that Mr. Hoover interprets it as meaning the price for cane sugar on the Atlantic seaboard, and that he reserves the right to apply a differential to beet sugar prices, because of lower cost of manufacture, which, together with the freight charges, would bring the price free on board their mills down considerably, possibly below $7 a hundredweight.

The price question would not form a serious obstacle, however, if it were not for what the manufacturers consider a vital defect in the agreement which they are asked to sign—that Mr. Hoover asks them to promise everything, while he promises them nothing.

Practically every beet sugar manufacturer east of the Mississippi, it was learned, has already refused to sign the agreement and filed a protest, and a meeting of manufacturers in the Rocky Mountain and Far Western region, soon to be held, is expected to result in similar action.

BANKS HOLD MORE BONDS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—National banks are gradually increasing their holdings of United States Government bonds, foreign Government bonds, and various securities as a consequence, it is believed, of war trade conditions, in which the supply of gold available is wholly inadequate to meet the demands of an overwhelming volume of buying in this country. Controller of the Currency Williams, summarizing an inquiry into this phase of American banking, as shown in the national bank returns in the last bank call in June, finds that there has been an increase of 21 per cent. in such holdings during the last year.

The national banks now have as a grand total of bonds, domestic and foreign, and stocks of $2,787,000,000, an increase of $489,000,000 since June of last year.

"The amount of United States bonds and certificates of indebtedness held June 20, 1917, was $903,000,000, an increase of $174,000,000 over June, 1916," said Controller Williams today. "Foreign Government bonds held June 20, 1917, amounted to $284,000,000, an increase of $167,000,000 during the year.

"Railroad bonds held by the national banks were practically the same amount during the year at $467,000,000. The bonds of other public service corporations increased from $274,000,000 in June, 1916, to $295,000,000 in 1917. State, county, and other municipal bonds held in June, 1917, were $310,000,000, an increase during the year of $37,000,000.

"The holdings of other bonds were $362,000,000 in June, 1917, an increase during the year of $60,000,000. Claims, warrants, judgments, &c., held by national banks June 20, 1917, were reported at $50,000,000, an increase during the year of about $1,333,333.

"The amount of stocks (taken for debts previously contracted, &c.) held by all national banks aggregated $39,000,000, a slight reduction during the year. The total amount of bonds and stocks and other securities held June 20, 1917, was reported at $2,787,000,000, an increase of $489,000,000, or 21 per cent., during the year. The amount of bonds, securities, &c., held by national banks June 20, 1917, was 17.26 per cent. of their total resources."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Extreme unsettlement pervaded the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange at times in the afternoon. There had been a brief display of firmness at the start of the day, but the trend subsequently changed, with the whole list weakening. Reaching of stop-loss orders added to the selling pressure. More than 45,000 shares of United States steel common were dealt in.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CORPORATION.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of Bethlehem Steel Corporation will be held at its principal and registered office, No. 703 Broad Street, in the City of Newark, in the State of New Jersey, on Friday, SEPTEMBER 14, 1917, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for the following purposes:

1. To take action upon a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors of said Corporation, declaring it advisable to amend its Certificate of Incorporation as amended February 17, 1917, by changing Article Fourth thereof to read as specified below and upon the amendments, changes, or alterations stated therein:

FOURTH.—The amount of the total authorized capital stock of the corporation is One hundred and thirty-five million dollars, ($135,000,000.) The number of shares into which the capital stock is divided is One million three hundred and fifty thousand, (1,350,000,) consisting of Three hundred thousand (300,000) shares of Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, One hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) shares of Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock, One hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) shares of Common Stock, and Seven hundred and fifty thousand (750,000) shares of Class B Common Stock. The par value of each share is One hundred dollars, ($100.) Three hundred thousand (300,000) shares of said Class B Common Stock shall be reserved and set aside for exchanges for said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock as hereinafter provided, and shall not be used for any other purpose, except when and as shares of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be redeemed and cancelled by the corporation as hereinafter provided, and then only to the amount of such stock so redeemed.

The amount of capital stock with which the corporation shall commence business is One hundred thousand dollars, ($100,000,) consisting of Six hundred and sixty-six (666) shares of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and Three hundred and thirty-four (334) shares of Common Stock.

(a) The holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared by the Board of Directors, dividends from the surplus of the corporation or from the net profits arising from its business, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum and no more, from October 1, 1917, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the By-Laws of the corporation or by resolution of its Board of Directors. Such dividends shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon, or set apart for, the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock or the Common Stock or the Class B Common Stock of the corporation, and shall be cumulative, so that if in any quarterly dividend period dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum shall not have been paid upon, or set apart for, the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, the deficiency shall be fully paid or set apart for payment before any dividends shall be paid upon, or set apart for, the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock or the Common Stock or the Class B Common Stock. Whenever full cumulative dividends upon the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock for all previous quarterly dividend periods shall have been paid and the full instalment for the then current quarterly dividend period shall have been paid, or declared and a sum sufficient for the payment thereof set apart, the Board of Directors may declare dividends out of the then remaining surplus or net profits of the corporation on the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and, subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth, on the Common Stock and the Class B Common Stock.

(b) Any holder of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock may, at any time, exchange all or any of the shares of said stock held by him for shares of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation, share for share, by surrender to the corporation of the certificate or certificates representing said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so to be exchanged, with payment to the corporation of the sum of fifteen dollars ($15) for each share of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so to be exchanged, and, upon such surrender and payment, shall be entitled to receive therefor one new certificate for a like aggregate number of shares of said Class B Common Stock; provided, however, that in case any of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be called for redemption in the exercise of the privilege hereinafter provided for, said right of exchange shall expire in respect of the stock so called for redemption sixty days after the mailing and first publication of the redemption call. Upon any such exchange the certificates of the Eight Per Cent Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so surrendered shall be cancelled. None of said Class B Common Stock shall be released without the affirmative vote of the holders of two-thirds of each class of the capital stock of the corporation having voting powers who shall be represented in person or by proxy at a meeting of its stockholders called for the purpose of taking action in respect thereof. On any such exchange no adjustment shall be made in respect of dividends upon The Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock represented by the certificate or certificates so surrendered and upon the Class B Common Stock so to be issued in exchange therefor, all under suitable regulations to be prescribed from time to time by resolution of the Board of Directors of the corporation. For the purposes of such adjustment, if Class B Common Stock so to be issued shall be deemed to have accrued for the elapsed portion of the current quarterly dividend period for Class B Common Stock at the rate of the regular quarterly dividend last declared upon Class B Common Stock. Except in the case of Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock called for redemption as in this Certificate provided, said right of exchange shall not be exercised while the books for the transfer of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock or of the Class B Common Stock shall be closed; provided, however, that such right shall not in any case be so suspended for a period longer than thirty days.

(c) The outstanding Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock may be redeemed in whole or from time to time in amounts of not less than ten thousand shares, at any time after three years from the issue thereof, on any quarterly dividend payment date, at the option of the corporation, on not less than ninety nor more than one hundred days' notice to the holders of record of said stock given by mail and by publication in such newspapers as may be prescribed by the By-Laws of the corporation or by resolution of its Board of Directors, by the payment in cash for each share of stock so to be redeemed of One hundred and fifteen (115) per cent. of the par amount thereof and in addition thereto all dividends accumulated and unpaid thereon. If less than all the outstanding shares of said stock are to be redeemed, such shares shall be redeemed pro rata and in such manner as may be prescribed by resolution of the Board of Directors. From and after the date fixed in any such notice as the date of redemption (unless default shall be made by the corporation in providing moneys for the payment of the redemption price) all dividends on the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so called for redemption shall cease to accrue, and all rights of the holders of record thereof as stockholders of the corporation, except the right to receive the redemption price, shall cease and determine. The Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so called for redemption may be exchanged by the holder thereof in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing paragraph (b) of this Article Fourth into Class B Common Stock of the corporation at any time within sixty days after the mailing and first publication of the notice of the redemption call.

(d) After full dividends upon the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, as in this Certificate specified, for all previous quarterly dividend periods shall have been paid and the full instalment for the then current quarterly dividend period shall have been paid, or declared and a sum sufficient for the payment thereof set apart, and after a dividend of seven per cent. shall have been declared, set apart for, or paid upon the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock for any fiscal year, all dividends which may be declared for that fiscal year from any remaining surplus or net profits shall be payable ratably to the holders of the Common Stock and of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation.

(f) In the event of the dissolution or liquidation of the corporation, whether voluntary or involuntary, the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock then outstanding shall be entitled to receive out of the assets of the corporation the par value of their respective shares, and, in the case of the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, an amount which will be equal to the dividends accumulated and unpaid thereon, before any payment shall be made to the holders of the Common Stock or of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation. If upon such liquidation the assets of the corporation distributable as aforesaid among the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock shall be insufficient to permit full payment to them respectively of said amounts, then the entire assets of the corporation shall be distributed ratably among the holders of said two classes of stock according to the amounts which they respectively shall be entitled to receive as hereinbefore provided. After payment in full of said amounts to the holders of said two classes of stock, the remaining assets and funds of the corporation shall be divided and paid ratably to the holders of the Common Stock and of the Class B Common Stock.

(g) The respective shares of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and the Common Stock shall entitle the respective holders thereof to like voting powers. The holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Class B Common Stock shall not have any voting power in respect thereof.

2. To authorize the Board of Directors of said Corporation to issue the $80,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock, at any time and from time to time, as it shall deem proper, and to issue, or to authorize the officers of said Corporation to issue, from time to time, the proposed $80,000,000 of increased Class B Common Stock in exchange for said Convertible Preferred Stock upon the terms set forth in the proposed amendment; and

3. To transact such other business as may lawfully come before said meeting, or any adjournment thereof.

In order to insure the sale of the $80,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock said Corporation has entered into an agreement with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Baldwin Trust Company and Messrs. A. D. Seligman & Co. for the formation of a syndicate to underwrite the subscription for said stock, said bankers to receive as compensation for forming the syndicate an amount equal to one and one-half per cent. upon the par value of said $80,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock and the syndicate (in which said bankers may participate) to receive as compensation for their undertaking an amount equal to two per cent. upon the par value of said $80,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock, less an amount equal to two per cent. upon the par value of such of said stock as the syndicate shall not be required to take.

Mr. Nelson Dean Jay, one of the directors of said Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who is a Vice President of, and a stockholder in, said Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and Mr. Edward Parsons, another of said directors, who is President and a director of, and a stockholder in, said Bankers Trust Company, did not participate in the meeting at which action was taken in respect of the authorization of said agreement and the proposed amendment to said Certificate of Incorporation. Approval of said agreement will be asked at said meeting.

The books for the transfer of the Preferred Stock and Common Stock of said Bethlehem Steel Corporation (but not for the Class B Common Stock, which does not have voting powers) will be closed at 3 o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, September 12, 1917, and, unless otherwise directed by said Corporation, will be reopened at 10 o'clock A. M. on the morning of the day following the day on which the stockholders' vote authorizing said increase of stock shall be taken.

Newark, New Jersey, August 29, 1917. By order of the Board of Directors.

WHEAT.

The wheat trade is still concerned over the question of the movement. Farmers appear to be very indifferent about making sales to the Government agents, and despite the fact that the new crop has now been marketed and supplies on the farms are large, mills are not able to secure sufficient wheat to fill their orders for flour, and neither is there available for shipment to our allies in Europe. It is not a question of prices, as these are fixed by the Government on the basis of $2.20 in Chicago for No. 1 Northern Spring and $2.20 in New York, but farmers are in no hurry to make sales, probably because they are busy on their farms and see no reason to haul their wheat to market.

CORN.

It was the opinion of the corn trade that the frost damage was not sufficiently great to cause alarm, although it will require some little time before the full extent of the loss can be arrived at. In the Northwestern States the damage was the greatest, while throughout the big corn States east of the Mississippi whatever loss there was seems to have been confined to the lowlands and is not believed to be great. The weakness in Wall Street and the disturbed political news from Europe caused quite active selling late in the day, and prices reacted, closing with net losses of ⅝c to ¾c. Argentine corn is being offered here in fair volume and was quoted at $1.61 to $1.71 cost, insurance and freight New York. The local cash market was steady. No. 2 yellow being quoted at $2.85 and No. 2 mixed at $2.80 cost, insurance and freight New York.

OATS.

While the oats market was influenced more or less by the action of corn, it showed independent strength, and at the close was ⅛ to ⅛c net higher. The movement continues light and September shorts in Chicago were nervous. Firmness in Winnipeg and further complaints regarding the Canadian crop as well as export sales had more or less influence. The local cash market was easier; standard quoted at 68½c; No. 2 white, 69½c; No. 3 white, 68 to 68½c; No. 4 white, 67½ to 68c; fancy clipped white, 70 to 73c; ordinary clipped white, 69 to 70c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active and irregular. Lard and ribs showed a certain amount of firmness at least early, but toward the close prices were reactionary with pork weak. The action of corn checked buying and offset firmness in the hog position. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 12,000; estimated for Thursday, 10,000; Kansas City received 5,000 and Omaha 3,900.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was again nervous and unsettled, with feverish price changes. Early there was a strong upward tendency, with some good buying based on reports of liberal purchases of compound lard by the Belgian Relief Commission. Final prices were at the lowest, with net losses of 8 to 11 points. Total sales for the day were 10,400 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The market for coffee futures showed a further decline yesterday. Tuesday's rumors of slightly lower offerings in the cost and freight market were followed by some scattered trade selling, while there were very few buyers in evidence as prices eased off to 7.02 for December and 7.99 for May deliveries. This made a loss of about 6 to 9 points, as compared with the closing quotations of Tuesday, and the day ended with prices at the lowest, showing a net loss of 7 to 10 points. Sales were reported of 23,750 bags. The local spot market was dull and nominally unchanged at 9c for Rio 7s and 10c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

In refined sugar, business was chiefly in the way of withdrawals, although some inquiry was reported to take care of immediate requirements of the trade. Prices were unchanged, at 8.40 to 8.60c for fine granulated, as stated by local refiners, although it was believed that second-hand parcels were being sold at 8.00c. Raw sugar was again quiet and without feature, and little fresh business is expected until after the Government has made known its definite plans as regards control of the general sugar situation. The market is practically at a standstill, with Cuban shippers realizing that they have a very small unsold balance of crop, holding off, and buyers not at all interested in shipments sugars, owing to the uncertainties as to further developments at Washington. Spot prices are nominally unchanged, as follows: Centrifugal, 7.02c; molasses, 6.14c; cost and freight, 6c.

RED CROSS TO GIVE AID TO THE BELGIANS

Relief Work of Invaded Country Will Be Separated from That of France.

WHITLOCK TO CO-OPERATE

New Plan Includes Reconstruction of Villages Wrested Back from the Germans.

A special department has been formed by the American Red Cross Commission to France to direct all Red Cross activities in Belgium, a cable from Paris yesterday announced. Dr. Ernest P. Bicknell, formerly Director General of Civilian Relief of the American Red Cross, and now Deputy Commissioner to Europe, is to have charge of the work in Belgium, assisted by the Rev. John Van Schaick, pastor of the Church of Our Father at Washington, D. C., also a member of the commission.

Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, head of the commission to France, decided to separate the Belgian relief work from that in France after several audiences with the King and Queen of Belgium. Headquarters for the new department will be at Havre, now the seat of the Belgian Government. Brand Whitlock, United States Minister to Belgium, sent the following letter of approval to Major Murphy:

"I congratulate you and the Red Cross upon this very wise decision. I know that it is particularly pleasing to the Belgian Government, as another proof of the interest that America feels toward the Belgian cause. It will be a great pleasure to me to have Mr. Bicknell and Mr. Van Schaick, both of whom I know well, here at the seat of the Belgian Government, and you may be assured that I will do all in my power to help them in their work and to make their residence here as pleasant as possible."

At Havre, Dr. Bicknell and Dr. Van Schaick will keep closely in touch with the many relief interests of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, as well as with the private agencies. They will not only administer the aid the Red Cross will give to established enterprises, but will prepare the way for future operations in the devastated regions.

Major Murphy recently made a tour of inspection behind the Belgian lines and laid out a program of relief to include financial assistance to Belgian hospitals and for the special care of between 5,000 and 6,000 Belgian children in co-operation with the Rockefeller Foundation. The plan also includes the reconstruction of villages recovered from the Germans in their retirement. As each village is recovered, the Burgomaster and his assistants and a picked group of refugees will be allowed to begin the work of rehabilitation. The Red Cross will furnish them with tools, furniture, seeds, farm animals, and supplies needed to help refugees back to independence. The Red Cross, the cable from France points out, will thus be furnishing in each town recovered the necessary shelter and equipment for a working nucleus about which the entire community may gradually be rebuilt.

Mme. Alma Gluck announced yesterday that she would donate not less than $25,000 to the Red Cross out of the profits of her next season's concert tour. Mme. Gluck's tour will last three months and will start at Scranton, Penn., on Oct. 4. From Scranton she will go to Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver, Spokane, Portland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. She will also appear in most of the important cities in the Middle West, returning to this city for a concert on Feb. 9.

FOR ALL-DAY EXPRESSES.

Service Board Considers More Fast Trains for Elevated Road.

The matter of discovering some method of having express trains operate all day on the Second and Third Avenue elevated lines was taken up again yesterday by the Public Service Commission and the inquiry will be continued until the problem is solved. Investigation has resulted in the conclusion that the constant operation of express trains on the Third Avenue line caused great congestion of trains at the City Hall terminal at periods when there was no congestion of passengers, and it has been suggested that some of the expresses might be turned back at Canal Street and the Bowery, or that southbound express trains might run on the Third Avenue tracks and northbound on the tracks of the Second Avenue road.

J. P. H. De Windt, Chief of the Commission's Transit Bureau, is trying to work out a plan by which express service could be continuous throughout the rush hours and until about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and after that hour depleted for a period until the evening rush hours began. This plan would provide for some expresses during all of the important business hours of the day. If the plan of using both of the lines for trains in different directions is adopted it will be necessary to remodel the station structure in the vicinity of Chatham Square.

AUSTRALIA NEEDS SHIPS.

Three Wheat Crops Await Carriers, Premier Holman Says.

W. A. Holman, Premier of New South Wales and spokesman of labor in that country, is in New York on his way home after having spent more than three months in England and France, studying war conditions. While here, although, as he explained, this was not the purpose of his visit, he will confer with commercial and financial interests, with the view of hastening the construction of ships in American yards for the transportation of grain from Australia to Europe. He asserted yesterday that notwithstanding the activities of the I. W. W. many of whose leaders in New South Wales recently were sent to prison for long terms, and the seditious utterances of occasional "soap box exhorters," the workers represented by him were loyal to the cause of democracy and would continue to lend their support until Germany was vanquished.

Mr. Holman is the second labor Premier elected in New South Wales. His first work in the industrial world was that of a cabinet maker. He was also for a little more than a year the editor and owner of a country weekly newspaper. He broke away from the radical element in the labor party after entering politics, and after being admitted to practice as a barrister became Attorney General of New South Wales under Premier MacGowan.

"I shall take advantage of the opportunity to confer with financial and commercial interests," Mr. Holman said, "and to make a trip to Washington, where I hope to see President Wilson and some of the members of his Cabinet. The Australian Government is having ships built in the United States for the transportation of wheat to Europe. The Government is, of course, keenly interested in having these ships completed as quickly as possible and I understand that there has been a friendly arrangement whereby this work will be expedited. Australia has an accummulation of three wheat crops which it can send to England and France as soon as the necessary tonnage is obtained. I should say that this surplus is about 4,000,000 tons, or about 148,000,000 bushels of wheat over and above the requirements of the country. We must, of course, depend upon the United States for the necessary ships, and the Commonwealth has been assured that they will be built as rapidly as possible."

BETHLEHEM HEARING ENDS.

Vice Chancellor Reserves Decision in Venner Injunction Suit.

Vice Chancellor Merritt Lane at Newark reserved decision yesterday on the application of Clarence C. B. Venner of New York for an order enjoining the Bethlehem Steel Corporation from amending its charter to make provision for an issue of $30,000,000 of 8 per cent. cumulative convertible preferred stock and $30,000,000 of Class B non-voting stock, to be used eventually to take up the preferred.

The Vice Chancellor announced he would make his decision Saturday, the day after the meeting of the Bethlehem stockholders at the the Fidelity Trust Company offices, Newark. The attitude of the stockholders toward the issuance of the new stock might have some bearing on the decision, he hinted.

LIFT EMBARGOES IN TELEGRAPH STRIKE

Pennsylvania Reports Restoration of Normal Operating Conditions—Strikers Express Confidence.

Following the receipt of a report from E. J. Cleve, Superintendent of the Trenton Division, that the full train schedules had been restored after interruption by the strike of several hundred telegraphers, the New York offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announced last night the lifting of the embargoes on the receipt of freight for the Trenton Division, on which Camp Dix is situated. Despite the statement of the railroad company, the strike committee said last night the strike was not over, and that it would spread to other divisions.

A statement issued last night by the Pennsylvania Railroad said:

"Superintendent E. J. Cleve of the Trenton Division announced at 4 o'clock this afternoon that operating conditions which had been affected by the telegraphers' strike on that division had been restored to normal. Reports from all parts of the division show that up to 2 o'clock today—the hour set in Mr. Cleve's ultimatum of Sept. 11—175 operators out of a total of 316 who left the service had applied for reinstatement. It is probable that other applications for reinstatement had been filed before that time, but were not received at the hour of compiling the report. The places of the operators failing to take advantage of the offer of reinstatement have been filled.

"Upon receipt of Mr. Cleve's report, orders were issued immediately to raise all the embargo restrictions which have been in effect since Saturday, on freight to, from, or by way of Trenton Division points. Train movements, both passenger and freight, have become normal, and delays have been almost entirely eliminated. All the block signal stations on the division are being fully manned and in every respect the customary service is being rendered to the public."

The strikers' committee at Bordentown denied that the railroad had broken the strike, saying that in afew days it would spread to other divisions.

Seamen Freed of Treason Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Four members of the crew of the American oil tanker Santa Maria, who were arrested several days ago by agents of the Department of Justice on charges of attempted mutiny and treasonable utterances against the United States, were discharged after a hearing before United States Commissioner Long today. From testimony offered by Captain W. F. Burr of the tanker it appeared that the only offense chargeable against the men was disobedience or misinterpretation of his orders. The men are John Robinson, Earl T. Lockeby, Axel Foras, and Peter Jacobson.

DOING OUR BIT

"SAVE TIME and SERVE the NATION"

THE saving of an average of one minute on every telephone call you make is a contribution to National Preparedness, of greater value, perhaps, than you imagine.

The Bell System handles thirty million calls every day. One minute saved on each call is a saving of thirty million minutes a day, or the equivalent of 57 years of productive time! The saving in New York City alone is five years every day!

There are many ways in which you can save an average of one minute on every telephone call you make:—

When you look in the book before calling and make sure of the number, you save the time that is lost by wrong number calling.
